Guild's $35,000 Fine Revives Labor Gloom

Forest Men Back on Job

- World boycott of Canadian mail predicted if posties strike. Page 3.

BY DON COLLINS

The throb of life was returning quickly to the B.C. forest industry Monday with the end of the towboat strike, but there were warnings that more trouble may lie ahead.

A union source said there was considerable discontent over a $35,000 fine levied against the Canadian Merchant Service Guild Monday and that threat of further court action could disrupt delicate attempts to avoid a massive forest strike.

Another dark cloud formed over the B.C. labor horizon during the day when representatives of the plumbers' union walked out of marathon talks in Vancouver aimed at ending the construction lockout that began April 14. Four other unions are still involved in the talks.

The key unions that worked out strategy together during the merchant service guild's crippling towboat strike were reported planning a special meeting in Vancouver for Monday night or first thing today.

It was to entail what, if any, action to take in the face of what unionists see as a possible continued use of the courts by forest companies.

* * *

A union source said there had been an agreement to drop damage actions once the towboat strike was over.

Reason Will Prevail—Bennett

An early solution to the construction industry dispute was predicted Monday by Premier Bennett. He also said "reason will prevail" to avoid a strike in the forest industry.

Bennett made the predictions in a conversation with federal Transport Minister Don Jamieson in Vancouver just before the opening of the Roberts Bank superport.

"There is a time for strikes and lockouts, but this isn't the time. This is a time for readjustment. It is a time for discussion around the bargaining table," the premier said.

Brazilian Prisoners Cheered in Algiers

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Forty Brazilian political prisoners arrived in Algeria Monday night aboard a chartered airliner to set the stage for the release of West German Ambassador Ehrenfried von Holleben, kidnapped in Rio de Janeiro Thursday.

A total of 44 persons emerged from the Brazilian Varig jetliner after it landed in Algiers. Four of them were the children of a terrorist known as Pavio who is being hunted by Brazilian police.

* * *

Von Holleben's kidnappers have promised to release the West German envoy after they receive proof the prisoners have arrived safely in Algeria.

Miguel Arraes, former governor of Pernambuco in Brazil and a refugee in Algiers for four years, told newsmen the group included 34 men, six women and the four children.

A final condition of the kidnappers was met Monday night when Rio television stations broadcast a photo of the prisoners arriving in Algiers.

* * *

The freed prisoners were given a welcome by officials from the Algerian foreign ministry and by an applauding crowd of political refugees from other countries who have found asylum in Algeria.

Algerian officials said the political refugees will be housed in homes in the hills overlooking Algiers. Those who wish to leave Algeria will be given travel documents, they said.

The departure of the prisoners from Rio on a silver-blue Varig airline Boeing 707 at 7:32 a.m. PDT, met the kidnappers' demands that the group — among them six women and some of Brazil's most wanted terrorists — be released within a 36-hour deadline.

Von Holleben was seized by terrorists in a daring raid near his residence but the government did not receive ransom demands until midnight Saturday.

* * *

Several hundred persons crowded the observation decks at the Galeao airport, including newsmen, relatives of the prisoners and detectives. Many of the relatives were tearful. No civilians were permitted near the aircraft. A government news agency photographer took pool photographs of the pris-

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will investigate "allegations" that staff members of the prices and incomes commission were guaranteed a starting salary of 15 per cent over their former salaries and annual increases of more than 6 per cent, the Commons was told Monday.

New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas cited these figures and asked the government to look into the salaries of the commission—the government's vanguard in the fight on inflation.

The commission has recommended restriction of wage and salary increases to 6 per cent, and commission chairman John Young Sunday proposed the limit be dropped to 4 per cent.

Solicitor-General George McIlraith said he would be "glad to have the allegations looked into."

Prodded further by Douglas, the minister said he would try to give the answer to the Commons this week.

The chairman of the prices and incomes commission is paid between $37,000 and $40,000 a year. As a dean at the University of British Columbia before his federal appointment, he earned about $20,000 a year.

Inquiry Scorches NASA, Contractors

Apollo 13 Was Time Bomb

HOUSTON (UPI) — Negligence from the launch pad through the entire Apollo program and its contractors, along with poor design caused the explosion of an Apollo 13 oxygen tank near the moon, a space agency investigation board said Monday.

Board chairman Edgar Cortright blamed the space agency and two of its contractors for allowing substandard heater thermostat switches installed in the Apollo command ship.

* * *

He said failure of these switches started the chain of events leading to the explosion April 13.

"The position the board has taken is that the error is the fault of all parties that participated — NASA, North American Rockwell Corp. and Beech Aircraft Corp.," Cortright said.

* * *

Cortright also said failure of the switches during a practice countdown left Apollo 13 and its Saturn 5 rocket standing on the launch pad as a potential bomb for two weeks before blastoff on April 11.

Two days later Apollo 13's oxygen tank exploded 205,000 miles deep in space and prevented America's third moon landing. Astronauts James Lovell, Fred Haise and John Swigert battled for 87 hours in a harrowing trip around the moon and back to Earth.

Cortright, NASA's Langley research centre director, said his $1,200,000 investigation showed that Beech Aircraft of Boulder, Colo., manufacturer of the oxygen tank, failed to follow instructions to order upgraded switches for the tank during modifications to the Apollo command ship in 1965.

The switches were to have been altered to take 65 volts of direct current instead of 28 volts.

* * *

Neither the prime Apollo command ship contractor, North American Rockwell of Downey, Calif., nor the space agency caught the failure, Cortright said.

On March 27-28, during unusual severe efforts to empty the oxygen tank after a practice countdown at Cape Kennedy, 65 volts were applied to the switch and welded

Premier Bennett said Monday the major portion of a $10,000,000 federal gift to commemorate the centenary of B.C.'s entering Confederation will be used to finance a major project designed to "reflect the greatness of Canada."

The federal grant was announced by Prime Minister Trudeau at the opening of the Roberts Bank superport Monday. He told the assembled guests the gift will be a contribution by all Canadians to make a stronger nation.

Bennett later told reporters some of the federal money will be used to provide per capita grants to finance local centennial projects throughout the province.

Details Remain Secret

But he added a major portion of the gift from Ottawa would be used to finance a major centennial project. He said this would likely be a building but refused to say what kind.

It will not be a monument, he added, unless it is a "monument to service."

"It will not be a fountain, it will not be a theatre," Bennett said. "It is something I can't mention yet."

He said Deputy Provincial Secretary Lawrie Wallace has been delegated to work out the details of the project with Ottawa.

Oil Flows 150 Miles into Lake Athabasca

Town's Water in Peril

FORT CHIPEWYAN, Alta. (CP) — Oil from a fractured pipeline has moved more than 150 miles into Lake Athabasca and threatens this community's water supply and its livelihood.

The synthetic crude from the Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. pipeline at Fort McMurray has travelled along the Athabasca River to the lake — the town's water source.

Great Canadian officials say water can be taken from below the surface oil, but biologists are not sure this would be safe.

* * *

They fear the emulsifying agent — this has been sprayed onto the lake — breaks the synthetic crude into small particles which sink to lower levels, but don't necessarily go to the bottom.

The community's reservoir when filled holds 8,000,000 gallons of water, enough for one year. Now, however, it contains only about two months supply.

Under normal conditions there would be no problems, but the oil slick has caused an emergency.

The Bennett Dam on the Peace River has caused the level of Lake Athabasca to drop and more pipe is needed to fill the reservoir.

Prior to the oil spill the town was in no hurry for new pipe but now it must have it quickly.

Another concern caused by the oil entering Lake Athabasca is for the young fishing industry, which was started by the largely-native community to replace the failing trapping industry.

* * *

The oil could injure major fish-spawning areas in the east end of the lake.

Biologists fear the thin film of synthetic crude covering the lake could keep oxygen from fish populations and the eventual breakdown of this film by bacteria may enhance the growth of algae.

Dr. Ward Stevens, biologist with the Canadian Wildlife Service, says the oil could greatly reduce for many years any fishing industry for the people who now exist largely on welfare.

* * *

Meanwhile, Alberta and the federal government have sent in special teams to help with the clean-up operation caused by the break of a pipeline, now repaired and back in operation, used by Great Canadian to pump synthetic crude oil from the Athabasca oil sands, 250 miles northeast of Edmonton, to markets in the south.

* * *

J. Donovan Ross, Alberta lands and forest minister, said the province has agreed to supply a federal force with a 25-man team organized along the lines of a firefighting squad.

Jean Chretien, federal Indian affairs and northern development minister, requested the supply of manpower. The federal government is interested in the oil spill because it could affect Wood Buffalo National Park north of Fort Chipewyan.

The federal force, headed by Dr. W. J. Doug Stephens, supervisor of migratory birds, Canada Wildlife Service, has been sent to Fort Chipewyan.

The force, including Martin Paetz, chief fish biologist, Alberta fish and game branch, and Capt. Ken Noonan, a Canadian Force engineer who worked on the Arrow oil tanker spill off Nova Scotia, toured the area Sunday.

A Canadian Wildlife service official said some oil is entering Richardson Lake where more than 100,000 waterfowl breed.

Among the millions of birds that nest in the Athabasca Delta are rare whooping cranes.

Ross said the provincial government would conduct an inquiry into the oil spill once clean-up operations are over.

tional Woodworkers of America) and the industry."

Provincial government mediator Clive McKee has been meeting with the IWA and Forest Industrial Relations separately in Vancouver in an attempt to establish contract talks.

The last contract expired Monday and constructive talks are seen as the only means of avoiding a strike of 30,000 men in the coast region.

* * *

The coast region takes in the Mainland coast and all of Vancouver Island.

The IWA has not yet taken a strike vote. No strike or lockout notice can be served until the mediation officer withdraws his services. His term, extended earlier, ends Thursday.

Most of the 20,000 forest workers idled by the towboat strike were back on the job Monday as the Merchant Service Guild was fined $35,000 in B.C. Supreme Court for contempt of court.

* * *

Mr. Justice James Macdonald said an apology from the guild for disobeying a court order prohibiting picketing had come too late to mitigate the contempt.

The guild, he said, had been guilty of utter contempt of the courts by maintaining illegal picketing while the contempt action was already before the court.

The strike, involving 1,150 guild officers, began May 3 and ended Saturday after virtually bringing the province's forest industry to its knees.

Shortage of logs because of the idling of the boats and refusal of the IWA and other forest unions to handle "hot" products quickly brought numerous operations to a halt.

Safety, manning and accommodation were among the gains demanded by the guild in a contract that also included a 28.26 per cent compounded wage increase over three years.

* * *

Other court action during the course of the strike included the sentencing of chief guild negotiator Arnie Davis to six months in jail for contempt. He is free on bail pending appeal.

By Monday night shifts had returned to most mills shut down by the strike. Others were planning to begin operations soon. In many cases, there will be a delay of several days before work resumes in logging operations.

The two B.C. Forest Products' sawmills in Victoria returned to production Sunday night.

As the logs and other cargo became ready, the long-idled towboats were reported returning to service.

* * *

Island Tug and Barge reported in Victoria that 12 Victoria-based tugs had already left to pick up tows and that another eight were standing by.

Federal labor department mediator Don Tysoe of Vancouver talked the towboat men into going back to work when more trouble arose Sunday. The problem concerned manning of small boats and there was a threat that they wouldn't be sailed until it was resolved.

* * *

But Tysoe convinced the union that the men should go back under previous contract terms on the promise of a transport department probe.

Meanwhile, the plumbers walked out of talks that had been set up Monday with the Construction Labor Relations Associaion on an around-the-clock basis for 10 days.

* * *

The talks — negotiators are housed at the University of B.C. — brought together CLRA, the plumbers, carpenters, laborers, operating engineers and heat and frost insulators.

Negotiations were arranged after the unions rejected a call from Labor Minister Leslie Peterson for a 60-day truce to the lockout which involves 10 unions.

* * *

A CLRA spokesman said the plumbers left the session in a disagreement over whether all the unions should sign any agreement collectively or separately.

The Mainland hotel dispute remained in effect Monday. This concerns a strike against two New Westminster hotels, a lockout at 37 hotels from Vancouver to Hope and negotiations for another 22 Vancouver hotels.

The prisoners arrived at the airport in a blue Brazilian air force bus and were herded aboard the jet. Observers were kept three-quarters of a mile away. Following the air force bus were two Volkswagen buses which apparently carried luggage.

The Varig jet carried two complete flight crews for the estimated 10-hour flight — one crew to fly the airplane to Algiers and the other to return it to Brazil.

Apollo Time Bomb

it shut, allowing temperatures in the tank to reach 1,000 degrees and damaging wires leading to fan motors.

From that point until launch two weeks later, Cortright told a news conference, "the potential was there for a major conflagration on the pad. If the oxygen had ignited when it was dumped in (to the tank during pre-launch loading)" . . . then the service module propellants could have been ignited and perhaps even the whole launch vehicle could have been destroyed.

Cortright said necessary modifications will make it difficult for Apollo 14 to be launched by December, a target date already delayed two months, and space chief Dr. Thomas Paine said "there is no hesitation on our part (if necessary) to postpone Apollo 14 beyond the December date."

In its final report, the board said the explosion was caused by a fire that started with an electrical short-circuit inside the oxygen tank, burned through the tank top and probably spread to materials outside the tank in equipment bay No. 4 on the Apollo 13 command ship.

"The Apollo 13 accident . . . is a harsh reminder of the immense difficulty of this (lunar flight) undertaking," said Cortright, whose investigation board included Neil Armstrong, first man to step on the moon.

Either Lazy Posture Or Spine Disorder

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 15 and have a humped back. It seems as if I just can't straighten up. Could you tell me something to correct this?—C.L.F.

Dear Doctor: Our son, a senior in high school, has developed a slump that must take inches off his height. He realizes this himself but does little or nothing to correct it.

We do not like to be constantly calling this to his attention, but is there any corrective device, a brace or anything of that type, or any exercises that would improve his appearance?—T.E.M.

There is such a thing as lazy posture. If that's all it is, a conscious effort to stand up straight and exercises to strengthen back and shoulder muscles will do wonders. In such a case braces are not the answer.

But there is, in adolescence, a disorder of the spine called epiphysitis which can cause a slouch but may not cause any other symptoms that can be readily noted. X-rays are necessary, to be sure.

When some real disorder of the spine is present, the sooner treatment begins, the better. After a curvature has become chronic, there is little chance of full correction, if any.

Both the youngsters mentioned today know that they slouch. If they can't or won't show some progress, it's time to have your doctor (or preferably an orthopedist) see what x-rays show.

For the "careless slouch," exercises are neither difficult nor complicated. Push-ups are perhaps the best single type of exercise, but all sorts of bending or other exercises of the back muscles will help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me a center where I could go to see a rheumatologist?—M.W.

Your regular physician may be able to tell you offhand. Or a local branch of the Arthritis Foundation certainly can tell you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our 10-month-old daughter has a raised red mark, a hemangioma, on her thigh, the size of a 50-cent piece. It seems to have flattened somewhat, but our doctor suggests surgical removal.

Another doctor suggests, and this agrees with several articles I have read, that it will gradually disappear by age 5. Since we don't want an unnecessary scar, the decision is causing us some concern.—Mrs. G. D.

Hemangiomas often — not always — disappear spontaneously by the third to fifth year. Why don't you just bide your time? If in another couple of years or so it hasn't begun to fade, it can be removed surgically or with carbon dioxide "snow."

Palma Match Captured By Andrews

Eric Andrews scored an outstanding aggregate of 220 out of a possible 225 Sunday at Heals' Range to win the annual Palma Match, equivalent of the provincial precision long-range rifle championship.

A top' Bisley performer, Andrews had a perfect score of 75 at 800 yards, 74 at 900 yards and 71 at 1000 yards.

University of Victoria student Phil Watt, also a Bisley shooter, was runner up with 215, followed a point back by Capt. Don Ireland of Canadian Forces Base Comox.

Andrews won the T. Eaton Trophy for his efforts in a field which included four members of the present Canadian Bisley team and 12 Bisley shots.

Helmut Meisl Sets Record In Lund Race

Helmut Meisl of Vancouver captured the annual Gary Lund Memorial 100-mile cycling race Sunday, covering the Qualicum to Portage Inlet course in a record four hours, eight minutes and 46 seconds.

The time was four seconds under the record set last year by Tom Morris of Victoria, who missed the race to compete in the Canadian championships and Commonwealth Games' trials in Winnipeg.

Roger Sumner, Ian Whale and Dave Neilsen, all of Vancouver, finished in that order behind Meisl.

In the junior race from Qualicum to Nanaimo, Mark Akerstream of Vancouver won in an hour and 11 minutes. Gibb Nicoll of Vancouver was second followed by Dean Keirnan of Victoria Wheelers.

Postmen Gain Wide Support

CALGARY (CP) — At least 83 countries, including the United States, Britain, France and Japan, will refuse to handle Canadian mail if there is a nationwide strike of postal workers, Bob Kempton, local president of the council of postal unions, said Sunday.

He told a local council meeting that affiliates of the postal, telephone, telegraph international have agreed to treat Canadian mail as "hot" and refuse to handle it.

"It is a certainty that if the government succeeds with us with their one-way guidelines, every worker, whether he is organized or not, will feel the impact," Kempton said.

"It now is apparent that the treasury board is using the postal workers to set an example of wage restraint and is only going through the motions of negotiating with no intention of fair play in dealing with us."

But with the help of research men from the Canadian Union of Public Employees and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway and Trainmen, along with pledges of support from other unions, the postal workers will be bargaining from a position of strength.

Stay Away, Penticton Union Asks

PENTICTON (CP) — Unionists from Alberta and British Columbia have been asked not to take holidays in Penticton for the duration of a strike by city workers.

John Robb, vice-president of Local 608 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, said Monday letters have been sent to more than 300 CUPE locals in the two provinces. Other unions have been notified through the Canadian Labor Congress.

Enemy at Gates Ignored

All's Well in Phnom Penh

By ROBERT C. MILLER

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI) — The worse the war gets, the better things look in Cambodia's capital.

Any other world capital practically surrounded by its enemies and cut off from the world would either be grimly determined or hysterical. But not Phnom Penh.

As the war heads towards its fourth month, the Cambodians are still doing business as usual. And business is surprisingly good. True, the entire $20,000,000 rubber crop has been lost, but the biggest money maker, rice, is still being exported. More than 1,000 tons were shipped overseas in May.

* * *

Cambodia's cottage industries are thriving on war contracts. Everyone in Phnom Penh who can thread a needle is making uniforms, sewing hats and stitching canvas for the do-it-yourself army. The South Vietnamese have more than compensated for the lost tourist trade.

The South Vietnamese and U.S. troops brought with them ton of American C rations for trading purposes, and created an entirely new business — the sale and distribution of American foods.

In return, the South Vietnamese are exporting from Cambodia communist Chinese products which have been gathering dust on the local shelves for months. Every flotilla that sails back to Saigon with refugees is also loaded with souvenirs, thermos bottles and jewelry.

* * *

Within the past month communist troops have twice been within 10 miles of Phnom Penh. Once they cut the only highway linking the capital with its only deep-water port and oil refinery at Kompong Som — formerly Sihanoukville. There is only one rail line operating out of Phnom Penh and it has been cut once. There has been Viet Cong activity reported around three-quarters of the Phnom Penh perimeter.

Yet in downtown Phnom Penh soldiers guarding sandbags and an occasional street patrol are the only signs of the war.

Mail Run 'Bleeding To Death'

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Eric Kierans said Monday the post office service in Windsor, Ont., "is bleeding to death."

He was replying to a Commons question by Mark MacGuigan (L-Windsow-Walkerville) who asked when Windsow postal employees, who walked off their jobs more than two weeks ago, would be returning to work.

Kierans said service would not be normal in Windsor until the unions realize that management must decide how many workers are needed and where they are to be deployed. (Heath Macquarrie (PC—Hillsborough) asked Kierans whether he could remember when services in the post office had been normal.

His question was ruled out of order.

Chivalrous Tradition

Crowds jam walks and balconies at Windsor Castle Monday as Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip walk in procession, garbed in historic robes of Most Noble Order of the Garter. Procession followed Queen's investiture of four new Knights of the Garter, oldest of the Christian Orders of Chivalry.—(AP)

Sleepy Town Sentenced To Death

STE. MONIQUE, Que. (CP) — Loggers, lumberjacks and construction crews have moved into this quiet rural village and are preparing to bulldoze its farmhouses, school, post office and restaurants to make way for a new international jetport.

Ste. Monique will be wiped from the map in the name of progress.

The first facilities of the $400,000,000 airport 27 miles northwest of Montreal are expected to be ready by 1974. Domestic and local arrivals and departures, however, will continue to be handled at Dorval, the present airport in a Montreal suburb.

Neat modern bungalows and century-old stone houses will be crushed to make room for the new airport. On many farms, equipment has been stacked beneath For Sale signs.

Crash Cause Human

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An air traffic controller with a record of "low stress tolerance" set a plane on a course that ended in death for 19 persons, U.S. government safety investigators said Monday.

The plane, a Puerto Rico International Airlines air taxi, crashed March 5, 1969 on a mountain side near San Juan while following a course radioed by the controller, the National Transportation Safety Board said.

The board said the controller was one of 91 controllers out of 12,200 who were "referred for further psychiatric and clinical psychological assessment" during a psychological screening test given to controllers in 1965-66.

But after examinations by a Federal Aviation Administration flight surgeon, the controller was allowed to return to work.

Students Stone Military Police

SAIGON (UPI) — College students demanding the release of five students held by South Vietnamese police rioted outside Saigon University two blocks from the U.S. Embassy. They threw rocks at U.S. military police and tried to storm an American broadcasting studio.

New Mission to Moscow

THE PUBLIC OF THE WESTERN world has not been kept informed of any developments which were expected to result from last month's conference of 11 Pacific and Asian nations seeking a solution to the Indo-China conundrum.

Presumably there have been some sort of diplomatic activities in progress, resulting from whatever policies were laid down by the delegates to the peace talks at Jakarta. But the exchanges must have been strictly private.

It was not until the wire services brought the word on Monday that anyone outside the chancelleries knew that Indonesia at least — the nation primarily responsible for organizing the Jakarta conference — was still pursuing the will-o'-the-wisp of peace.

Foreign Minister Adam Malik has gone to Moscow at the head of a mission to discuss the involvement of Cambodia in the Indo-China war and possibly intercession by the Kremlin. Its composition was not immediately known. But in view of the fact that the May conference nominated Indonesia, Malaysia and Japan to lead the campaign for international peace action it could be assumed representatives of these powers are present.

Thus far, since the ousting of Prince Sihanouk as Cambodia's head of state, the Russian position has been somewhat obscure. He had managed very adroitly to preserve good relations with the Kremlin as well as with Peking and Hanoi, and without turning his back on the West. Russia was providing him with arms. And it was assumed that the Soviet Union was in a position to wield the weightiest influence as long as he was in power.

However, Sihanouk is now the white-haired boy in both Peking and Hanoi; and he has been adopted by the sponsors of the revolutionary wars there as head of an absentee government of liberation for Cambodia.

The question is: Where does that leave Russia?

If Moscow declares for Sihanouk it implies an improbable partnership with Peking. And it would also imply acceptance of the second fiddler's part, which is even more unthinkable. But can Russia do anything else?

One alternative is the recognition of the regime of General Lon Nol, the man who supplanted Sihanouk. But he has accepted the South Vietnamese as allies and, with them, the Americans.

Such a position lends some support to the theory that the Soviet just might be more amenable to the idea of an agreement for withdrawal of all foreign troops from the various states of Indo-China and possible re-activation of an international control commission — though not necessarily with the same participants.

The India-Poland-Canadian combination was anything but satisfactory.

It would be an achievement of note, an historical landmark in this century, if Mr. Malik could induce the Russians to come up with some acceptable and workable formula for Indo-China's peace — and something that will still preserve the dignity, pride and political image of the parties involved. For without these face-saving guarantees no one can sell a settlement.

An Apron-string Attachment

IT IS A SOMEWHAT SHAKING and depressing fact to all with a burning faith in Canada's future, that there are many Canadian companies which use the Canadian dollar as little more than an accounting symbol, and which think, do business, and plan their future in the U.S. dollar.

The unpegging of the Canadian dollar from its relationship to the U.S. dollar has emphasized the fact that not only is a large percentage of Canadian business and industry owned by foreigners—mainly American—but is actually depending on the Canadian dollar being maintained at a fixed level with the U.S. dollar to enable them to do their business in an orderly fashion.

Alcan Aluminum Ltd., one of Canada's greatest companies in the metals industry, has stated through its president that a floating Canadian dollar upsets its operations so greatly that it is considering converting all its financial statements to U.S. dollars as a stabilizing measure.

Alcan already pays its common share dividends in U.S. dollars, largely because the majority of its shareholders are U.S. residents. The other factor which worries Alcan is that about 90 per cent of the aluminum it produces is sold for U.S. dollars.

The British Columbia forest companies, along with the pulp and paper companies of Eastern Canada, are others who find themselves compelled to do most of their international business in U.S. dollars, and they too are deeply disturbed by the prospect of a floating dollar rate.

Spokesmen for this industry claim that even if they try to sell their products for payment in Canadian dollars, their contract price is still basically worked out in U.S. dollars and the end result is still the same.

Most countries which do not have an international currency of their own have similar troubles and there is not very much they can do about it, except to cringe under the International Monetary Fund and become fixed puppets to one or other of the international currencies.

This is what Canada has been doing for nearly 10 years, and during that time the Bank of Canada has at various times been placed in critical circumstances by having to buy or sell Canadian dollars to an inordinary and wholly artificial degree to hold the dollar within its permitted range.

When the government finally decided it could no longer hold the Canadian dollar, because of the weakness of the U.S. dollar to which it is attached, and allowed it to run freely on its own, the sad picture of this country's industry's reliance on what happens across the border is unfolded.

As one of the world's top five trading nations Canada should not be relegated to such subservience.

Benson Achieves Quick Turn-About

ONE cannot help admiring the chameleon-like properties of Mr. Benson; at other times, in other places, preferably the music-hall, his financial gyrations and quick-change antics in the field of commerce could prove amusing. Yesterday, with compelling gravity and sonorous peroration he was telling us the line on wages and prices must be held, to curb further inflation we should all be prepared to tighten our belts, the road ahead was hard, but with determination we would win through.

Many people believed, with some reason, that he meant exactly what he said; there was in some quarters a visible sigh of relief at this apparent show of firmness. It was felt, even at this late hour, that the government was serious at last, and that the decline in our economy, irreparable though it appeared, might at least be arrested.

It seems now, however, that such hopes as were generated have been dashed to the ground once more; calmly and for reasons which are as yet obscure, Mr. Benson now proclaims a return to unrestricted buying and selling credit economy, which in all its ramifications in all segments of society has been and continues to be, the main reason for all our economic ills.

He has set his bald pate, and pipe, squarely against his former hopeful utterances, and against any real chance of alleviating further inflationary trends. If opposition members were surprised or astounded at this incredibly agile about-face, little valuable criticism has been heard so far. We must be excused if we doubt the logic of Mr. Benson's fortuitous plan, that will only further aggravate the situation in the long term view; certainly it will encourage the get-rich-quick ambitions of a few, but at the expense of the many.

Discrimination

The power of the press is mightier than the sword, therefore let it speak to those who need to hear and heed it's message!

The older women of Victoria and elsewhere are being vastly discriminated against by you business men, because of company policy of not hiring employees over a certain age bracket. I am speaking for the over 40 age group (and there are many of us!) who must supplement the family income by taking a job outside the home. The prices of food and clothing for our families make this very necessary!

Most offices today frown on older women applying for these positions because they think it just isn't cricket to take jobs away from the younger folk! They want the dimpled darlings just out of high school or college, who have a brand new diploma clutched in their hot little hands. How they acquired them I don't know. The average student does not know how to spell correctly, write a proper letter, or how to keep an office file straight! On the other hand they know extremely well how to simper, bat their eyelashes at the boss, and swing a mean hip to attract the rest of the males on the premises!

All this is fine for those men who just want window dressing for their establishment. However when it comes down to brass tacks, it is the older woman who has gone through the mill, and who knows the ins and outs of office routine, that can anticipate what the boss really wants done. Ability should count for something. By this I don't mean the ability to wear a mini skirt and pull the wool over your eyes, then laugh behind your back!

Give us older gals a break! We have the ability, the stamina and the sticking quality that most young folks of today just don't have. Get with it men, because both you and I both know that all these young chicks are looking for is to snag a husband and to get fancy duds to put on their backs. As one of those older women looking desperately for job placement, may I say this — Please, gentlemen, examine your motives when hiring, and give a second look to the gals of 40 and over, who, although not as thin and shapely as their younger counterpart, have possibly more knowledge and ability to keep your business humming on its merry way!

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

The Klondike gold rush began 73 years ago today — in 1897. The stampede was touched off when a group of miners disembarked from the steamer Excelsior at San Francisco. Newspaper men later confirmed the report the men had made a rich gold strike the previous autumn on Bonanza Creek in the Yukon.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1945—it was announced that Australians had all of north Borneo under control except for a few small enemy pockets.

Belated Action

Mr. Trudeau stated recently that a security check is being made on Jean-Louis Gagnon, chief of Information Canada. How contemptuous can the prime minister be concerning the level of intelligence of the Canadian citizen?

A "prime" prime minister would have done the checking before the appointment was made.

Since Mr. Trudeau is a bit late, perhaps the press and Parliament would help by doing some delving into Mr. Gagnon's political background say — during the years 1935 to 1950?

Tory Goad Quickens Plodding Cabinet Pace And Sometimes They Get a Word of Credit

LET'S continue consideration of the proposition that an MP doesn't have to be on the government side in the Commons to get things done.

In fact, the way it works out — especially when the government of the day has a solid majority — the MP often can do far better if he is on the Opposition side of the House.

That is, of course, if he has a compulsion to work and the drive to sustain it.

* * *

And this is why now, as it was when Mackenzie King and Louis St. Laurent were majority government prime ministers, so many of the MPs on the administration's side of the Commons are scorned openly and ridiculed publicly by the Opposition as "rubber stamps."

They sit there in obedient silence — as well-behaved government MPs, being seen but seldom heard — voting for the administration's measures almost automatically and just as mechanically against Opposition proposals.

How different, these government MPs, bound and gagged as they are, than the free-wheeling members of the Opposition, not just this Opposition, but any Opposition.

* * *

Apart from the prime minister and the members of his cabinet, the Opposition MPs are the movers and shakers.

They get things done.

Example?

Well there's Prince Edward-Hastings Conservative MP, former Tory trade and transport minister, George Hees.

For months he had been chewing away at the restraint-bound government to do something about the federal minimum wage.

He wanted the government to give it something approaching reality.

It was $1.25 an hour, and George Hees kept complaining that "guys on welfare can do better than that."

* * *

The unreality of it wasn't benefitting anyone, he protesed, not, certainly, "the working stiff determined to make his own buck, nor the able-bodied employables on welfare getting hung-up on handouts, and not the taxpayer."

Raise that $1.25 minimum rate, "make it real," contended George Hees, and all the other governments would have to follow Ottawa's lead.

Do that and everyone would be a little ahead, he argued, "the working stiff getting a better wage, the guy on welfare wondering whether he wouldn't be further ahead to get out and hustle his own buck, and the taxpayer."

So after listening to George Hees work away at it over the months, Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey, able to stand the nagging no longer, came into the Commons with legislation to raise the minimum to $1.65.

He didn't have the grace to give George Hees a single word of credit, though.

How differently it all panned out for Nova Scotia MP Robert Coates.

For his initiative that saved the jobs of 275 workers in Amherst's aircraft plant, Enamel and Heating, Transport Minister Don Jamieson gave him full credit.

Here's what happened:

The Amherst plant had a federal contract for the production of components for the defence department's Tracker aircraft for the Navy.

As all contracts must be, it was completed and there was the plant with nothing to take its place, nothing to carry the payroll.

With no work, and no money coming in, the management couldn't pay it out, and there seemed no escape from the economic necessity of a staff layoff.

Bob Coates knew there HAD to be other federal aircraft contracts going that could keep the plant open, and staff on the job.

Trick was to find them, and the man who HAD to know what was in the works was Don Jamieson, whose department operates a fleet of Viscounts, Vanguards, Jet-Stars, Yukons, to name only a few.

* * *

But Don Jamieson wasn't in Ottawa at the time, so Bob Coates tracked him by long-distance to a 30-minute stop he was making at a tiny outport in his sprawling Burin-Burgeo constituency.

"We're in trouble," said Coates. "Yes, I know," said Jamieson. "Can you help?" asked Coates. "Don't know, but I'll look around," promised Jamieson.

Bob Coates kept reminding him, keeping the pressure on and it wasn't more than maybe three or four weeks when Don Jamieson said, "I'm flying in to look at your plant. If it shapes up, I could have something for your people."

It shaped up, all right, and standing right there on the concrete floor of the factory, Don Jamieson dealt off $1,000,000 in new contracts for production of components for the Yukon, again with a tip of his Newfie sou'wester to a hard-driving Opposition MP, this time Robert Coates.

It all happened about a year ago.

And while it still gives Bob Coates a sense of satisfaction, he suspects the government's acquisition of four new Boeing 707 jets, for $55,000,000, could spell "phase-out" for the Yukons, and so he's reminding Don Jamieson to keep the Amherst plant in mind, front and centre, when other contracts are up for tender.

Ultimate in Lay-Away Plans Puts an End to All Worry

IT is somewhat disconcerting on an otherwise bright, warm June morning to be driving to work and listen as the car radio gives forth with this announcement:

"Phone or write for our pre-arranged, prepaid burial plan . . ."

I mean, like whammo, a fellow realizes that there may not be too many more bright, warm June mornings in his budget.

* * *

But after the first shock, it occurred to me that this was probably a logical advertisement. Every other business has what is called a "lay-away" plan. You pay a little each pay day and sooner or later you get that washing machine your wife has always coveted.

So why not a "pre-arranged, prepaid burial plan"? The ultimate in "lay-away" plans.

After all, it would give me something to do. On those Sunday afternoons when there was no football on TV I could shop around at the local mortuaries, check on competitive prices at the friendly corner undertaker, visit graveyards and decide whether I wanted to be planted on a southern slope, or one with more shade.

At least, that is what I tried to tell myself. But despite this mental pep talk my mind kept creeping back to the grisly business that some businessman out there was asking me to plan for my own burial.

Now I realize that a businessman has to make a buck. For instance, the pre-planned vacation is a great thing. A man with an iron will can tuck away a certain number of dollars each pay day and then, come vacation-time, he is financially all set to go.

But this kind of thinking did not do much to cheer me. After all, who needs to be financially all set to go on that long, final vacation?

When that time comes, I figure a funeral will be much like a marriage—all I have to do is turn up on time. And, as happens at every well-run marriage, there will be someone else there to direct me in whatever minor role I am to play in the ceremonies.

* * *

Also, in this day and age who has the time or energy to worry about whether or not his funeral will be neat and tidy and, above all, a solvent affair? If I want to stay awake nights with the wim wams I can worry about the mortgage, the college payments, that unexplained pain in my lower back and the ever-increasing price of gin.

The one thing I do not want to worry about is whether or not I have a pre-arranged, prepaid burial plan.

In fact, it is just the reverse. I find it comforting to lie there in bed and be able to say firmly:

"Well, there's one thing I do not have to worry about. My burial. That is something everybody else will have to worry about."

And that is true, too. A dutiful husband and father has to go through life worrying about looking after his wife and kids.

* * *

But when burial time comes—well, they've got to look after him.

Even if they don't want to, they have to. The city health and sanitation laws will force them to take some kind of action.

The problem, even if it has not been pre-planned and prepaid, will be solved.

And even if she complains that her husband was a wastrel—"every other husband on the block but mine has a pre-arranged, prepaid burial plan," she may wail—she will have to find some way to get him decently out of the way.

So as I reasoned this all out as I bowled along to work in my car the June day began to look like a June day again.

I had just discovered that there was one way to beat the wheel. Stay away from any pre-arranged, prepaid burial plan.

Sometimes it is great to be alive.

Victory Will Erase Labor's 'Permanent Opposition' Image

Wilson Triumph Almost Certain

By RICHARD RESTON, from London

In a matter of a few short months Britain's Labor party has moved from apparent humiliation to almost certain triumph as the nation prepares to vote this Thursday. The extraordinary turnabout is largely due to the shrewd tactical brilliance of one man — Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

After 13 years of waiting in opposition, he led his party to victories in 1964 and 1966 and now appears set to win a third consecutive term, a feat never before accomplished by a British prime minister.

If Wilson is successful in his bid for another five-year term, he will have destroyed once and for all Labor's image as Britain's second party. Through much of this century and part of the last, it was the Conservatives who proclaimed their right as the party of government. Labor was left to perform in the role of loyal opposition, the party of protest or reform and change.

* * *

A recent political poll shows Labor with a more than 12 per cent lead over the Conservative party. If correct, that would translate into a parliamentary majority for Wilson of something like 140 seats. All polls show Labor with a substantial lead, with one exception where the margin dips to 2.5 per cent.

With the prospect of another full term in office, Labor will argue in the future that it is best equipped to run Britain, having served for a decade or more as the country's ruling party.

What Wilson has done in this campaign would not have been conceivable six months ago, or even two or three months ago. He has managed to blunt, if not completely obscure, the Conservative attack on Labor's record over the past five and a half years.

* * *

That in itself is considered a remarkable achievement. In the view of most objective analysts here, the Labor record is highly vulnerable to sharp criticism from the Conservative party and leader, Edward Heath.

It is a record of rising taxes and unprecedented unemployment. Prices are at all-time highs and threatening to go higher in the aftermath of a new inflationary wage spiral. Wilson devalued the pound in 1967. Real economic growth is down. Strikes are more frequent. Crime is up.

The prime minister's one outstanding success was the reversal of Britain's chronic balance of payments deficit. But even that was bought at the price of devaluation. Labor also is responsible for a flurry of progressive social legislation.

But despite some legitimate conservative) complaints, Wilson apparently has convinced the British public that this is a country on the move because a Labor government is in power.

Wilson's campaign has been that of a politician supremely confident in his own considerable skill. The real political issues, particularly where Labor is weak, are lost beneath a cloud of expert rhetoric. Where Labor is strong, the prime minister has presented the party's case in a simple, understandable and almost folksy way.

He has made no promises to anyone. And despite strong Conservative attacks, he continues to play this election entirely on his own terms and has yet to lose his stride in a single instance.

* * *

Many Britons feel he judged the mood of the nation far more accurately than Heath and the Conservative leaders around him. All the evidence suggests that Britain is in a complacent and largely satisfied frame of mind, that the people are not anxious for a dramatic change and that they do not want to hear gloomy economic forecasts about the future from the Conservatives or anyone else.

Accordingly, the prime minister frequently has substituted the trivia of political banter for the substance of real political debate — and gotten away with it.

His speeches are full of political cliches and the public seems to love it. "The history of democratic elections is littered with the whitened bones of oppositions who rashly promised prodigal increases in expenditure combined with sweeping reductions in taxation," he said the other day in one of his typical campaign statements.

* * *

It is this sort of Wilson pronouncement that led Heath to charge, with some justification, that nothing has been too trivial for the prime minister in this election. But the real point is that Wilson is not only getting away with it, but making it work, at least if the polls are to be believed at the moment.

Wilson set the tone and style of his campaign early: "I don't think they want a lot of change and disturbance and shrill and strident tones and a lot of argy-bargy, either in the election or the period that follows it," he said. "I think they want quiet, strong government."

The prime minister has followed precisely that line.

A Labor victory this time, particularly with a large majority, could well leave the Conservative party in a shambles. If that is the outcome, Labor is likely to profit for many years ahead and, in large part, the party will owe this prime minister an enormous debt of gratitude.

By WILLIAM TUOHY

From Beirut

The events in Jordan have left the Palestinian commandos in a stronger position than ever in the Middle East. And this position makes the possibility of a negotiated settlement in the Arab-Israeli conflict even more remote than ever.

This is the assessment of the fighting in Jordan being made by most Midlle East analysts here.

Under pressure from the commandos, King Hussein was forced to remove two of his most trusted aides, and top-ranking members of the armed forces, Maj.-Gen. Nasser ben Jamil and Maj.-Gen. Zaid ben Shaker.

The king's lack of control over events in his own country was underscored by the sudden evacuation of hundreds of members of the Western foreign community from a nation with long historical ties to the United States and Great Britain.

The outcome of this new confrontation in Jordan has shown that the militant commandos have increased their power at the expense of the more moderate guerrilla organizations.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine led by Dr. George Habash held two score American, British and German citizens as hostages — defying both the king and the overall commando leadership of Yasser Arafat.

And so the Popular Front is riding high today and observers here believe that it will be difficult for the more moderate leaders like Arafat to resist the pull to the left, and toward even more spectacular and dramatic moves against foreigners.

* * *

In the past, after each showdown between the king and the guerrillas, the commandos have tried to strengthen their position.

Most observers believe they could now take over the Jordan government, if they chose.

The Habash group, a militant, Marxist organization, has called for the overthrow of all "reactionary" regimes under which they include the Jordanian monarchy.

* * *

But Arafat is known to believe that it is better for the Palestinian commandos at the present time to keep Hussein on his throne.

With Hussein running Jordan, the commandos are not forced to administer the country.

Further, if the guerrillas took over control of Jordan, observers say, all the internal rivalries would surface, and the Palestinian revolution movement would be deeply rent, if not totally sundered.

* * *

The fact that the Palestinians were able to burn down the Jordanian embassy in Beirut without opposition from the police was taken as a grim omen of what could lie ahead in Lebanon.

But Lebanon and Jordan have always been considered two of the most moderate states in the Middle East, with their leaders prepared to compromise with Israel in finding a peaceful accommodation to the long, grinding conflict.

* * *

But both of these states and their leaders have been under heavy pressure from the Palestinian commandos, who reject a peaceful settlement on any grounds short of the dismemberment of the state of Israel.

Thus the strengthening of the hand of radical commandos makes the prospect of any Middle East settlement more and more unlikely — while at the same time undermining whatever influence the United States and Britain may have had left in the middle East.

Nixon Likely to Oppose Wage-Price Guidelines

By ROD CURRIE

From Washington

Given the intertwining of the United States and Canadian economies, it seems a good bet that many Canadians will be as interested as Americans in President Nixon's long-awaited and much-heralded report Wednesday on the health of the U.S. economy.

The fact that he has been talking about giving such a talk for weeks gives some indication of the uncertainty within the Nixon administration over just what he should say.

* * *

But the wagering among most economic observers is that he won't say much, and that he will not look to wage and price guidelines, the route Canada chose in seeking a way out of her inflationary dilemma.

From the early days of his presidency more than 16 months ago, Nixon has seldom lost an opportunity to display his contempt not only for formal wage-price controls but even the voluntary-guidelines variety.

The story is that Nixon, as a young lawyer in the office of price administration during the Second World War, got an inside view of how such controls could be manoeuvred to make them unfair and inequitable.

* * *

Although there seems to be a growing band of influential economists, bankers and businessmen trying to nudge Nixon toward some form of controls, the majority still seem to share the president's contempt for them.

Noting that Canada's federal and provincial ministers agreed on wage and salary guidelines limiting increases to six per cent or less a year, The Wall Street Journal comments:

"What the Canadian politicians may have overlooked is that labor leaders are politicians, too. And the labor leader who asks his constituents to forgo bigger wage increases, to advance something like the national interest, is a leader who doesn't really want to keep his job."

* * *

In advance of the Nixon speech, U.S. labor has already echoed the views of the Canadian brothers, who charged the guidelines were an attempt to "sabotage" collective bargaining.

The deep-seated distruct by Nixon and others of price — and wage — fixing in a free economy is not an idle prejudice. Many who saw such controls during periods of war fear the distortions, inequities, evasions and the extensive bureaucracy required to administer them.

Thus the feeling is that if Nixon has in fact ruled out for now such controls, he will use his speech to "preach" to labor, business and the consumer and to warn that if they don't hold the line better some form of controls will become essential.

Also, insiders suggest he might name some new commission or group to be his eyes in the marketplace. Such a group, it has been suggested, might serve as a sort of watchdog, spotting and publicizing cases of excessive wage or price increases.

* * *

If that is to be the main thrust of the Nixon speech, then, as the Washington Post puts it, "the country will probably have to worry along for a while with the crude and inexact remedies now available."

"To save us dragging all the way to church every Sunday, we were wondering if you make house calls?"

'Sorry, Wrong Victim

HOUSTON (UPI) — Clarence Ramsey, 17, was standing on a street corner Monday when a man stabbed him in the back.

Ramsey turned around and saw someone he did not know. The man had a pocket knife ready and was about to stab him again. Then he looked Ramsey in the eye.

"Sorry, I thought you were someone else," the man said, and turned and walked away.

Tugs Chugging Again

Mayor Urges Careful Development

Harbor Ugliness Feared

Victoria shouldn't permit development of its harbor facilities into a business complex at the expense of beauty and recreation, Mayor Courtney Haddock said Monday.

"Heaven forbid that we end up with rows and rows of ugly looking warehouses and commercial installations which would destroy the potential beauty of our waterfront once and for all," the mayor said in an interview.

Instead, he said, he envisioned a harbor which would cater to the public as well as to business.

"We should attempt to develop the harbor into something tourists talk about when they get back home. There should be hotels, restaurants, entertainment in the area adjoining the docking facilities."

Development of new commercial facilities in Victoria's harbor and the upgrading of existing services, the mayor said, should be undertaken with their ultimate aesthetic appearance in mind.

'I'm sure beauty and business can go together, and we should keep that in mind when we look towards further development of our harbor," he said.

Haddock's remarks came in the wake of discussions between city administrative personnel and federal transport department officials in Ottawa last week, regarding the formation of a Greater Victoria harbor commission.

The mayor said "things looked real •good." It was Ottawa's official policy to turn over control of harbors to local authorities wherever possible, he said.

"This is what our people (City Manager Dennis Young and City Solicitor Terry O'Grady) were told in Ottawa," the mayor said.

Haddock also commented on a statement made Monday by Transport Minister Don Jamieson in Vancouver.

Attending the opening ceremonies of the Roberts Bank deepsea port, Jámieson told reporters Ottawa would produce within one month proposals aimed at increasing the role of local authorities in running federal harbors.

"There will be a formula which would apply to all national harbors. It would allow for special land conditions."

Haddock said such special allowances might also apply to Victoria.

"The federal government is trying to hammer out an overall policy, but that's not possible. Every area has its own idiosyncrasies."

One of the questions in Victoria's case, he said, was that of land leases.

"We'll have to determine who the landlord of the waterfront properties is going to be. Now, the federal government holds most of the leases. We would, of course, like to take them over," Haddock said.

He predicted that an official brief requesting the formation of a harbor commission for Greater Victoria would be in Ottawa within a few weeks.

This brief, along with a two-month-old report dealing with the feasability of a harbor commission, needs approval by Victoria and Esquimalt councils.

Haddock said aldermen were aware of the report's contents, and should be able to come to a decision about it quickly.

Council:

Music Word Later

A group of five young Vancouver amateur musicians wants to "bring smiles to the faces of Victoria citizens," but they need city council's blessing to do so.

In a letter to council, the High Street Band has asked for permission to revive the traditional concept of street music in Victoria.

To kick off their project, the musicians wish to give a performance in Bastion Square later this summer.

* * *

"This tradition is particularly strong in England, so we feel that Victoria would be an ideal place for us to perform," the letter said.

The letter assures council that noise would be no problem because the band consists of non-electrical instruments only, including guitar, violin and banjo.

But the music itself is not the only traditional aspect of the proposed venture.

"We should also mention that we accept donations from the crowd in the traditional manner by placing a hat in front of us while we perform," the letter says.

* * *

"We are sure we need hardly mention the arguments in favor of street music, expecially the pleasant effect of reducing the impersonal atmosphere too often present in today's cities."

Cabinet Saved By Conversion

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's chief army chaplain converted a Reform Jewess to Orthodox Jewry on Monday, averting a crisis that could have split the Israeli Cabinet.

In a surprise move, Canadian-born Helen Seidman, a convert to Reform Jewry, agreed to the Orthodox conversion. This made unnecessary an Israeli Supreme Court decision on whether the state should extend full citizenship to Reform converts.

The ceremony was conducted in Tel Aviv by Gen. Shlomo Goren.

If a Supreme Court ruling had favored Reform Jews, there was a strong likelihood that the three ministers of the National Religious Party—a key component of Premier Golda Meir's coalition cabinet—would have walked out.

Cabinet membership otherwise is divided between Mrs. Meir's Labor party and the right-wing Gahal faction.

The NRP ministers, all dovish on the Arab-Israeli conflict, have provided balance between the two points of views.

Marguerite Involved In Sinking

SEATTLE (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard began an investigation Monday into the capsizing and sinking Saturday of a 16-foot outboard by the Canadian Pacific ship Princess Marguerite off Marrowstone Point near Port Townsend, Wash.

Two Kirkland sports fishermen, Ralph Carkner and Ralph Wooley, were thrown into Puget Sound when their small boat overturned, the Coast Guard said.

They were rescued by a nearby pleasure boat and a commercial fishing vessel, and taken to Port Townsend for treatment of shock, exposure and minor injuries.

The Coast Guard marine inspections office said its investigation would determine whether the Princess Marguerite struck the outboard or if it capsized in the ship's wake.

The Princess Marguerite was on her regular run from Seattle to Victoria.

Lighten Drug Laws—LeDain

TORONTO (UPI) — Lighter marijuana possession penalties, including suspended sentences for first offenders, have been recommended to the federal government by its commission into the non-medical use of drugs, Time magazine reported Monday.

As well, penalties for trafficking would be reduced, the Canadian edition of the magazine said.

The six-member commission, headed by Gerald LeDain, dean of Toronto's Osgoode Hall law school, has presented its interim report to the Trudeau government, which has not yet made it public.

* * *

The magazine, however, outlined what it said were several of the report's major recommendations, using direct quotations frequently.

* * *

The commission recommended that possession and trafficking in marijuana still remain a crime, but that offenders should be tried under the Food and Drug Act, rather than the harsher Narcotic Control Act, as they are at present, the magazine said.

The Food and Drug Act would be amended so that trafficking in "cannabis" drugs — which include marijuana and hashish — would carry a maximum sentence of 18 months. For ordinary possession, jail sentences would cease entirely.

* * *

The magazine said the penalty for a first conviction would be a one-year-suspended sentence. A maximum fine of $100 would be imposed on second offenders.

Further, the commission recommended that criminal records for drug offences be destroyed after two years and police forces "be encouraged to end the practice of using undercover agents to entice young people into the crime of trafficking in order to gain convictions."

'Envy of All Maritime Nations'

Bennett Opens Port, Wants Another

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

ROBERTS BANK — Premier Bennett described the new boat loading facility here Monday as the "envy of all maritime nations" and promptly put the arm on Ottawa to establish a second superport on the West Coast.

Prime Minister Trudeau, who officially opened the new National Harbors Board facility and the coal-handling installation of Kaiser Resources Ltd., said the new port was a tribute to human imagination and ingenuity. But he refrained from making any federal commitment to further port development in B.C.

Bennett later told reporters that during a 50-minute meeting with Trudeau over breakfast Monday morning they had discussed development of the main west coast ports. He named Prince Rupert and Kitimat but refused to give details of proposals by either side for a second superport development.

Bennett indicated, however, that he felt progress had been achieved in his private meeting with Trudeau. In his speech to some 1,000 guests attending the opening of Kaiser Resources Westshore Terminals at Roberts Bank, the premier said:

"British Columbia was the first region in Canada to recognize the opportunity for Canadian development which awaited the promotion of increased trade with the nations of the Pacific Rim.

—CP

Trudeau and machinery

"The Roberts Bank superport is an instrument of that develo;ment and we are very proud indeed of our role in its creation. Today I'm sure British Columbia's efforts are recognized for what they always were — an indication of our willingness and desire to get on with the job and co-operate with Ottawa in this national undertaking."

Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher, the only Prairie Premier to respond to the invitation to attend the opening, said he wanted to congratulate Bennett not so much for the port development as for the manner in which he had "pried" all this money out of Ottawa.

Thatcher said he hoped the Roberts Bank superport would soon handle potash and wheat from the Prairies as well as coal, the only product involved in the initial stage of the development. He added that he hoped the new port facility would bring about a long-awaited reduction in freight rates in the West.

Trudeau said the federal government appreciates the stand taken by Bennett and Thatcher that Ottawa must co-operate with the provinces in developments like the one at Roberts Bank.

The prime minister officially opened the new port facility by pushing a button. There was a long moment of silence followed by a whirring of coal-handling machinery. But to those looking on, despite the noise, it appeared that no coal was being loaded by the intricate apparatus onto the waiting 45,000-ton freighter at dockside.

Trudeau paused briefly and then said, "I think this humming is going to go on for some time" and began to make presentations to a representative of the Japanese smelter interests who are purchasing the 6,000,000 tons of B.C. coal that will be shipped annually through the new port.

He was interrupted by a blast of the ship's horn and commented, amid laughter from the assembled guests, "that sounds like a B.C. backbencher."

Hisao Makita, vice-president of Nippon Kokan K.K., Tokyo, said the Roberts Bank facility was "the world's largest and most efficient." He said the CPR has also provided "the most advanced system of unit trains" to carry the coal from Fernie to the Coast at competitive rates.

"We are most grateful" Makita said, "to receive the full benefit of this most massive modernization program . . . which will be another bridge linking Canada and Japan."

Federal Transport Minister Donald Jamieson, who acted as master of ceremonies, said he hoped Roberts Bank in future would serve as part of a projected land bridge between the Orient and Europe.

Tokyo Students Protest Pact

TOKYO (UPI) — Students and workers demonstrated throughout the city Saturday night in the first of a series of rallies scheduled to protest the security treaty between Japan and the United States.

Police estimated more than 13,000 persons participated in rallies in 40 separate sites in Tokyo, all of them peaceful except the street demonstrations by members of the radical Zengakuren and Beheiren students organizations.

Police Cancel Cable-TV Show But Stay Tuned

Business boomed Monday when the public was given its first chance to sign a petition protesting proposed changes in cable-television rules — until the police showed up.

Richard Reeve of 5105 Torquay, organizer of the protest campaign, said late Monday that "well over 200" persons signed the petition between about 9:15 a.m. and shortly before noon, and sometimes lined up to get the chance.

Victoria police arrived late in the morning to advise Reeve that the place picked for a petition stand, the mall between the two Eaton's buildings, is a city park area and therefore the stand was illegal.

Unaware of the ruling, Reeve and volunteer H. G. Bonner, 3966 Lexington, packed it up — with several people still waiting to sign.

"We were frightfully busy," Bonner said. "A lot of people said they came downtown especially to sign the petition, and several people form apartments asked for copies of the petition."

Reeve said a petition stand will be set up today in the mall at Woodward's, where official approval has been received. He hoped it would be in business during both morning and afternoon.

He also said that he has mailed out seven copies of the petition to stores, salesmen and other planning mini-protests of their own.

Many Happy Returns For B.C. Ferry Fleet

Premier Bennett predicted Monday that B.C. Ferries will more than double its 40,000,000 passenger tally in the next 10 years.

* * *

Bennett cut a birthday cake aboard the 7 p.m. sailing from Tsawwassen of the new stretch-ferry Queen of Victoria to mark the 10th anniversary of the beginning of regularly-scheduled government ferry service from the mainland to Vancouver Island.

* * *

He told reporters following the brief ceremony the government would "stretch more ferries" and build more new ships during the next decade but refused to give details.

Bennett earlier told guests at the Roberts Bank superport opening ceremonies that provincial ferries have carried some 15,000,000 vehicles and 40,000,000 passengers during the 10 years they have been in operation.

He was asked if he would be present as "Admiral of the Ferry Fleet" when the ferry service marked its 20th anniversary in 1980. Bennett replied he would be there but in the capacity of "vice-admiral."

Floating Laboratory Docks at Esquimalt

Canada's $7,500,000 floating laboratory docked at Esquimalt Harbor at 9 a.m. Monday marking the midway point in its 41,000-mile circumnavigation of South and North America.

The Halifax-based 4,800-ton Canadian Scientific Ship Hudson arrived from Vancouver and will remain here until at least next week.

"We originally planned to leave Esquimalt this Saturday but we are going to be delayed a little because of minor repairs that have to be done," said Dr. C. D. Maunsell, senior scientist aboard. No date has been set for the ship's departure.

* * *

The ship's next phase will be to conduct geophysical studies in west Queen Charlotte Sound waters.

The work will pertain mainly to studies of the sea bottom, Maunsell said.

Maunsell, from the Atlantic Oceanographic laboratory at Dartmouth, N.S., joined the ship during the weekend, and will be with it while it is working off the B.C. coast.

Dr. B. R. Pelletier, also of the Atlantic coast laboratory will be with the ship for the month long studies in the Beaufort Sea.

After this study, the ship's 25 scientists and technicians will study the water and ocean bed of the Arctic Ocean. Then the 296-foot-long ship will travel through the Northwest Passage into the North Atlantic to Halifax where it is expected to arrive about Oct. 15.

The Hudson, commanded by Capt. D. W. Butler, left Halifax, N.S., last November and prior to arriving in B.C. carried out physical and oceanography programs and chemical and biological studies in the South Atlantic, Antarctic, and South Pacific oceans.

Ports of call included Rio de Janiero, Brazil; Mar del Plata, Argentine; ports in Chili, and Papeete, Tahiti.

* * *

The scientists said that so far the trip has been most successful and the data obtained has far exceeded original expectations.

The Hudson has a cruising range of 15,000 miles and possesses the sea-keeping and icebreaking qualities that enable her to work efficiently in the windswept areas of the southern oceans and the ice-infested waters of Canada's archipelago.

Gorge Paper

Various aspects of the recent Saanich report on the Gorge will be among items discussed at the annual meeting of the Portage and Gorge Waterways Association at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Craigflower Auditorium on Admirals Road.

In addition to the election of officers, trophies will be awarded to the winners of the RCN Sailing Association Race of April 11 and the six finalists in the essay-writing competition about saving and use of the Gorge Waterway will receive their prizes.

University Consortium Seeks $10,000,000

Telescope Plan Revived

Six universities, including the University of Victoria, likely will soon launch a campaign for $10,000,000 to revive the Queen Elizabeth telescope.

The development would follow the federal government's turning over to the universities the assets of the project that it dropped in 1968 during an austerity drive.

* * *

The transfer of assets occurred in Vancouver Friday. Included was the 157-inch mirror blank, a grinding machine and the site on Mount Kobu in the Okanagan.

The blank weighs 17.5 tons and the crate in which it was shipped to UBC from Corning Glass at Bradford, Pa., weighed 12.5 tons.

Prof. J. L. Climenhaga, a physicist and dean of UVic's arts and science faculty, said Saturday night that the consortium of universities involved in the project now needs $10,000,000 to see it through.

Also involved are UBC, University of Alberta at Edmonton, University of Calgary, University of Lethbridge and Queen's University in Kingston, Ont.

* * *

They have formed a group called Westar, and the assets it acquired from the federal government are worth about $4,500,000.

Dr. Climenhaga said Westar likely will have a board meeting within two weeks to decide how to go about raising the $10,000,000.

"It was too bad to see this cancelled in the first place," he added. "It (Mount Kobu) could have been a real asset to this country and to astronomy."

He said he realized that money was hard to find, particularly in sums of millions of dollars, but he said Westar hopes the public will realize the urgency of the situation.

Victoria Topic Of Show

Victoria in the 70s was one of the topics discussed by Victoria public figures on a Vancouver TV show Monday.

The program, one in a series being sponsored by the Regional Community Planning Association, featured former Victoria mayor R. B. Wilson and Victoria Ald. Peter Pollen.

* * *

Victoria architect John Di Castri, who served as moderator, said Wilson discussed the origins of Centennial and Bastion squares and warned that citizens now demand more of their politicians and it is not enough to simply rest on the laurels of the already-completed squares.

Pollen discussed the great potential of the Inner Harbor and stressed the need for an over-all plan for it, Di Castri said.

Avis has a whole new way to rent cars.
And most of it happens up here.

Avis Nonstop Service.

Here's how it works:

Let's suppose you're flying from say Calgary, to Ottawa. And you want a car in Ottawa when you land.

In Calgary, before you take off, stop by the Avis counter and show one of our girls your driver's licence, a credit card we accept (and we accept over 20), and tell her your flight number and destination.

She'll fill in these few things and hand you one of our little Nonstop tickets. (Elapsed time: less than 60 seconds).

Then, in the comfort of your own plane, and over a cup of coffee, tea or milk, you fill the ticket out. It just takes a few minutes.

In Ottawa, drop by the Avis counter and exchange your ticket for the keys to a shiny new Plymouth or other fine car.

And that's it. No line-ups. No hang-ups. And your car's there when you land.

Waiting for you.

Which we're sure you'll agree is better than having it the other way around.

Take right off again with Avis.

Interim Listings

VANCOUVER (CP) — Following are Monday's closing bid and ask quotations on Vancouver Stock Exchange interim listings — former over-the-counter issues given a probationary period to meet requirements for full listings on the exchange.

Valley Copper Takes Big Drop

Tugboat Settlement Fails to Inspire

VANCOUVER—The end of the tugboat strike did not do much to boost stock prices, and a feature of dull trading was the drop in Highland Valley coppers, which were adversely affected by Valley Copper plans to reduce its construction pace.

Valley dropped from $12 to 9.20 in fairly active trading, while Trojan also with Valley Copper interests was down .15 at .53.

Brenda on the other hand rose .55 to 9.80. Elsewhere changes were small.

Block and B.C. Sugar made gains in industrials, while in oils Stampede dropped .28 to 1.47. Stampede is associated with the Highland Valley through Buttle Lake, one of its merged companies.

Do Nothing Day

TORONTO (CP) — It was the slowest trading session in more than 10 years.

..Trading dropped off to 1,008,000 shares, compared with 1,261,000 Friday.

Volume was the lightest since April 18, 1960, when 881,000 shares were bought and sold.

Largest losses were in merchandising, oil refining and steel sectors.

Gaining sectors inculded communications, food processing and real estate.

Among declining issues, Bell was down ⅜ to 41½, Cominco ⅜ to 21⅝, Falconbridge ⅝ to 132, Aimco Industries ⅝ to 18½ and Bethlehem 1⅝ to 13.

Sherritt was down ⅛ to 17⅛, and Asamera ⅝ to 12½.

Auto Electric gained 90 cents to $4.50, Erie Diversified ⅝ to 6⅝, Simpson-Sears ⅝ to 20½, Lake Dufault ⅛ to 14⅛ and Triad Oil 25 cents to $3.40.

Trust Stocks Drop

MONTREAL (CP) — The market closed mixed with banks and industrials fractionally higher. Trading was extremely light with volume of 495,200 shares.

Highlighting losses on small-volume trades, National Trust dipped 2¼ to 20, Metropolitan Stores 1¼ to 17⅝ and Montreal Trust 1 to 10⅝. Cominco declined ⅜ to 21⅝.

Senior oils were higher in light trading with Dome Petroleum up 1 to 48, Shell Canada 1 to 24½ and Pacific Petroleum ⅜ to 20½.

Nixon Awaited

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices scored small gains after ebbing away from mid-session highs. Trading was some of the slowest of the year.

Some analysts said the small gains could be attributed to the White House announcement that President Nixon would give his economic address Wednesday after more than a month's delay.

Steels, motors, mail order-retail, chemicals and airlines were mixed. Aircrafts, electronics, utilities, metals, oils and rubber issues were up. Only rails were off.

Most active on the big board was Penn Central, off ⅛ at 10⅝. Other prices included Telex Corp., up ⅛ at 14⅝; American Telephone and Telegraph, up ⅜ at 41⅝; Mobil Oil, off 1 at 44⅝; Polaroid, up 2⅛ at 66; and Eastman Kodak, up 1⅝ al 63⅝.

Banking Profits Under Scrutiny

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal prices and incomes commission is studying the profits of chartered banks, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told the Commons Monday.

New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas asked whether the commission would investigate because of reported six-month bank profit increases of 27.7 per cent.

Sharp replied that John Young, commission chairman, had told him Monday the commission "is looking into the matter."

* * *

George Hees (PC-Prince Edward-Hastings) asked whether the government plans a ceiling on interest rates on commercial loans "considerably below" present rates.

Sharp said there had already been a substantial reduction in interest rates under the government's restraint program.

* * *

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield asked whether the government plans measures to "encourage acceptance" of the guides proposed by the prices and incomes commission.

Sharp said the government had accepted and supported the policy and he hoped Stanfield would do the same.

* * *

Replying to a question by David Orlikow (NDP-Winnipeg North) on recent wage settlements, Sharp referred to a commission statement Monday announcing a preliminary inquiry into wage settlements in the Toronto construction industry.

The questions were directed to Sharp in the absence from Ottawa Monday of Prime Minister Trudeau and Finance Minister Edgar Benson.

British Exports Plummet

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's overseas trade in May ended with a deficit of £31,000,000 the government announced today.

It was the worst monthly performance since last July when a £37,000,000 deficit was recorded.

The pound now is worth about $2.50 Canadian. Before the Canadian dollar was left free to float in foreign markets the pound was worth $2.60.

A government assessment of overseas trading during the months of March, April and May said there was an average monthly deficit of £13,000,000 compared with an average monthly surplus of £11,000,000 during the previous three months.

Copper Smelter Plan Off

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Those who think British Columbia should keep going at break-neck speed in developing its expendable natural resources will regret the decision of Valley Copper to go slow on its vast copper prospect in the Highland Valley area.

Others who prefer to see something left over for future generations will probably applaud, even if it means a temporary dissipation of hopes for a provincial copper smelter.

When Valley Copper, a subsidiary of Comineo, made its announcement at the weekend, it was based on a feasibility study that was not sufficiently attractive to encourage the headlong plunge into a venture to cost more than $300,000,000.

The magnitude of the low-grade copper reserves in the area had set company sights on a 100,000 tons of ore a day operation, of which 25,000 tons would have been on behalf of Bethlehem Copper, a Valley associate, whose own ore-bodies are adjacent.

If Valley had proceeded according to earlier plans, it would have been easily the biggest ore handler in the country. Its 100,000 tons a day would have competed with International Nickel's 26,000 tons a day from its Copper Cliff mine complex, and with 24,000 tons from the newly-opened Brenda Mine in the Okanagan, and with the 22,000 tons of molybdenum ore handled daily by Endako Mines, another B.C. giant.

Now Valley proposes to develop the Highland Valley property in easy stages.

The reasons given for the caution are that the whole plan would have been too big a risk at the present time.

Factors that told against the green light were:

- Uncertainty about future taxing of the mining industry (white paper fears);
- High cost of financing;
- Unpegging of the dollar;
- Unsettled labor conditions.

Although they won't come out and say it, mining men believe that while all the reasons for caution are sound, it is the great uncertainty of the new tax obligations which mining companies may have to meet, that had the greatest bearing on the negative Valley response.

The market reflected the importance of the decision. Valley Copper dropped to a new low of $9, down $2 from last week, while Bethlehem and Comineo were down $1.75 and .75 cents, respectively.

MATURITY GAP WIDENS

The sharp contrast between the current popularity of the short-term loan as opposed to those of medium term was shown up by the terms of the three new maturities of Canada loans announced Monday by Finance Minister Benson.

While the five-year bonds are priced to give a yield of 7.49 per cent, the yield on the other two is more than three-quarters of a point lower.

The one-year, nine-month issue will yield 6.58 per cent while the one of three years will yield 6.72 per cent.

The one-year, nine-month issue has a coupon rate of 6½ per cent and is being offered at 99.85, the three-year bond also bears 6½ per cent and is offered at 99.40, while the five-year issue has a 7¼-per-cent coupon and is on the block at 99.

That there should be a difference of .77 per cent in the yields on the three and five-year issues is regarded as an indication that banks and other financing institutions are not willing to look beyond a three-year term for their immediate commitments.

It is also pointed out that the banks retain inner reserve liquidity if they do not extend their commitments above a period of three years.

Local inquiries showed that it was the two lower yielding issues that met the best reception from investors as an initial response to the new issues.

☐

PROFIT DISGUISED

A financial statement of IOS Ltd., the international mutual fund organization, was produced at the weekend in London and showed that of the $10,000,000 profit made in 1969, some $9,700,000 was made through the sale of Arctic oil rights.

This sale also relieved IOS of the obligation to raise $7,300,000 in exploration costs.

Sir Eric Wyndham White, the new IOS chairman, said the sale of part of the company's northern oil rights did not mean IOS was fragmenting or dismantling its assets.

A bid by the former chairman, Bernard Cornfeld, to be restored as chairman was turned down by the board.

Cornfeld, who remains a director, is said to be contemplating a proxy battle for control at the annual general meeting of IOS in July.

In a footnote to the financial statements, the auditors declined to place a valuation on the value of IOS Arctic rights on the basis of the price at which the company had sold rights in 1969.

Looking to the future, Sir Eric is more hopeful. Through mismanagement the company lost $2,800,000 in the first quarter of 1970, and there is not likely to be a profit on the year.

But most of the troubles have been corrected. There is a positive cash flow, with sales exceeding redemptions, and an expected turnaround in the stock markets encourages the chairman to believe with temporary financial accommodation, IOS will get around the corner and be able to operate comfortably.

Moore Report

Broker Rules Urged

TORONTO (CP) — A year-long study by the investment industry concludes that foreign companies should no longer be allowed to acquire ownership interest in Canadian securities firms.

In a report released Monday, the Moore committee also recommended:

- Canadian securities firms not be allowed to "go public."
- That the majority of voting shares should at all times be owned by officers and employees actively engaged in operation of the business.
- A general loosening of present regulations governing the raising of capital by these firms.

The committee under chairman Trever Moore described the securities industry as a "key sector" of the Canadian economy. It said it could find no other country where foreign firms held a preponderant interest in the securities industry.

The committee study was sponsored by the Canadian, Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver stock exchanges and the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada, in all representing 182 securities firms.

The committee was formed in mid-1968 after the U.S. firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith Inc. acquired Royal Securities Corp. Ltd., a long-established Canadian investment dealer.

Few Hopeful Spots

Crop Sale Outlook Not Bright in '70

OTTAWA (CP) — The market outlook for most major Canadian farm products this year is gloomy at worst, shaky at best.

Beef, pork and potato markets are among the few bright spots for farmers in a mid-year outlook published Monday by the federal agriculture department.

The 75-page document is the first such assessment of marketing and price prospects. It is a mid-year version of the full annual report produced by the Canadian agricultural outlook conference in November.

Marketing conditions for wheat are expected to remain depressed throughout the 1970-71 crop year beginning Aug. 1, although Canadian sales are better than predicted last November.

* * *

Total sales of Canadian wheat are expected to be about 550,000,000 bushels this crop year — 375,000,000 bushels in exports — which would be about 100,000,000 bushels better than originally expected.

However, Canada will still be left with a carryover stockpile July 31 of about 85,000,000 bushels, almost a two-year supply at current disposition rates.

In feed grains, downward pressure on prices is expected as supplies increase, unless barley exports substantially outstrip the sales of about 75,000,000 bushels estimated for the crop year ending July 31.

* * *

While longer-term prospects for barley markets indicate improvement, the outlook for oats is sterner — a carryover of at least 180,000,000 bushels July 31, increased production this summer but slight promise of an enlarged market.

Outlook for dairy products on the world scene remains gloomy, the report says. In Canada, penalties under the federal price support system for over-quota deliveries of manufacturing milk could lead to culling of dairy herds.

Egg prices are expected to decline moderately from last year's rates as North American production grows.

Early Start Made on Birthday Celebrations

Georges Carpentier (left) and Jack Dempsey, the men who drew boxing's first million-dollar gate, smile for cameraman Monday in Dempsey's mid-town New York restaurant. Carpentier, 76, has come from France to help Dempsey start celebration of his 75th birthday, which happens on June 24. The pair, who have been close friends for years, fought in 1921 for heavyweight championship and 80,183 fans paid $1,789,238 to watch. Carpentier, who scored a first-round knockdown, was knocked out in fourth round. Painting in background shows Dempsey's fight with Jess Willard on July 4, 1919, which brought Dempsey world championship.—

Italy Favored by Many To Replace English XI

MEXICO CITY (CP-AP) — England's four-year reign as world soccer champion has ended; a new king will be crowned.

Seeking the Jules Rimet Trophy with the best players at their command are West Germany, Italy, Brazil and Uruguay.

The new overlord of world professional soccer will be determined here Sunday, June 21, and many observers favor Italy.

WEDNESDAY SEMIS

But of more immediate concern to the four survivors of a competition that began here with 16 teams are Wednesday's sudden-death semi-finals. West Germany, the 1966 runner-up to England, plays European-champion Italy at huge Aztec Stadium here and Brazil tackles Uruguay at Guadalajara.

The decision by the International Federation of Football Associations—FIFA—to send Brazil and Uruguay to Guadalajara to play was made some hours after Sunday's quarter-finals, in which defending champion England was ousted by West Germany, 3-2 in extra time.

PROTEST MADE

The change of venue was especially displeasing to Uruguay, which called the decision arbitrary and said it would ask for a reversal.

Uruguay claimed that all schedules issued before the tournament began May 31 had Mexico City as the venue of the semi-final for the team emerging from the quarter-final in which Uruguay competed.

FIFA officials, explaining their assignment of stadiums, said coaches expressed worry about too much travel.

"FIFA has prejudiced our chances," said Cubillas, Uruguay player.

"We figured Brazil would have to come to Mexico City and climb 1000 metres in altitude. Instead we have to go to Guadalajara and go down 1000 metres."

Uruguayan fans figured they'd have trouble getting tickets for the smaller Guadalajara stadium.

West German fans also protested. They had bought tickets for the Guadalajara stadium, thinking the schedule would be followed.

Meanwhile trainers and coaches worked on injured players and England's defeated champions started for home.

West Germany reported that fullback Horst Hoettges suffered severe bruises to his knee and is unlikely to be fit for the semi-final against Italy.

Uwe Seeler, who got one of West Germany's goals against England, was treated for thigh bruises and winger Jurgen Grabowski had bruises to his shin.

"I expect both Seeler and Grabowski to be fit," said German coach Helmut Schoen.

The semi-final pairings of Italy-Germany and Uruguay-Brazil mean that a European-South American final is assured.

In unofficial betting, Brazil is a 2-to-1 shot to win this year. West Germany is 3 to 1, Italy 4 to 1 and Uruguay 5 to 1. Along with Brazil and Uruguay, Italy also is a two-time winner, in 1934 and 1938. West Germany won in 1954.

West Germany tops the goal scoring with 13; Brazil has 12, Italy five and Uruguay only three.

Gerhard Muller of West Germany heads the individual standings with eight goals, followed by Jairzinho and Cubillas of Peru, each with five goals.

Idle Yankees Close In, Slumping Orioles Lose

Milwaukee Brewers rallied for six runs in the eighth inning Monday to defeat slumping Baltimore Orioles, the Eastern Division leaders in the American League, 9-6.

It was the third loss in four games for the Orioles, who had their lead over the idle New York Yankees, winners of their last five games, cut to two and one-half games.

Orioles appeared in control of Monday's contest after defeating Oakland Athletics, 4-2, on Dave May's 10th-inning homer Sunday.

GRAND-SLAM HOMERS

Merv Rettenmund's grand-slam home run in the bottom of the first inning offset run-scoring singles by Ted Savage and Mike Hegan to put Orioles ahead, 4-2.

Hegan's fourth homer brought the Brewers to within a run in the top of the sixth inning but Chico Salmon followed with a two-run homer in the bottom of the inning.

A bases-loaded double by Roberto Pena and run-scoring singles by Savage and Gerry McNertney were the key hits in the eighth-inning rally.

Minnesota Twins, the Western Division leaders, defeated Washington Senators, 5-3, to boost their lead to four and one-half games over faltering California Angels, downed in 12 innings by Cleveland Indians, 3-2.

Harmon Killebrew's 16th home run, a three-run blow in the seventh inning, gave Minnesota its comeback victory. Senators had taken a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Frank Howard's 19th home run.

Indians won on Jack Heidemann's run-scoring single following a pair of two-out bases on balls issued by relief pitcher Mel Queen.

Kansas City Royals rallied for three runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to defeat Boston Red Sox, 7-6, on Amos Otis' run-scoring single.

Royals had battled back twice in the game on two-run homers by Pat Kelly, whose sacrifice fly brought in the 6-6 run, and Ed Kirkpatrick.

Frank Fernandez' grand-slam home run off reliever Mickey Lolich sparked a six-run third inning which carried Oakland to a 12-7 victory over Detroit Tigers.

DOBSON WINNER

Chuck Dobson went the distance for Oakland, allowing only five hits.

One of the hits was a fifth-inning home run by Willie Horton which extended his hitting streak to 15 games, a personal high. Horton has batted in 29 runs in the last 19 games.

Only two games were scheduled in the National League. St. Louis Cardinals defeated San Diego Padres, 5-4, and Pittsburgh Pirates stopped Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-2.

Deluge of Criticism Follows Elimination

LONDON (AP) — British soccer commentators said Sunday that England's defensive tactics and errors by individual players led to the 3-2 West German victory that put the English defending champions out of the 1970 World Cup competition.

"I'm afraid Sir Alf Ramsey's men have no one but themselves to blame for this quarter-final defeat," wrote Donald Saunders of the Daily Telegraph. "They became a little too sure of themselves and allowed the Germans to snatch the initiative."

SUICIDE CLAIMED

"England finally destroyed themselves," wrote Desmond Hackett of The Daily Express.

Members of a BBC television panel blamed England's "keep ball" tactics when leading 2-0. They also praised West German substitute Jurgen Grabowski as an attacking player who helped change the game in Germany's favor.

ADDITIONAL SPORT PAGES 13, 15, 36

Len Shipman, president of the English Football League, said English soccer experts probably will hold an inquest into the defeat.

"After being two goals ahead, they definitely should have been capable of staying in front," Shipman said. "The Germans, when it mattered most, used the wings and profited. We were often defensively minded."

NOTHING NEW

The emphasis placed on defence by Sir Alf Ramsey, England's manager, has drawn criticism in the past from soccer experts who favor an attacking game.

An estimated 28,000,000 Britons watched the game on television.

England appeared likely to coast to victory after taking a 2-0 lead on goals by Alan Mullery in the 31st minute and Martin Peters in the 55th.

But England made a fatal tactical error in the second half by going into a bout of slow-motion, possession football. That upset the rhythm of the team.

TURNING POINT

With England off balance, Frank Beckenbauer raced through on the right and fired home a low right-foot shot that beat English goalkeeper Peter Bonetti.

The Germans were back in the game, their confidence soared and forward Uwe Seller levelled the score in the 81st minute.

The two superbly-fit teams took a five-minute break and went back into battle. Gerhard Muller got the winning goal after 18 minutes of extra play.

West Germany, winner of the World Cup in 1954, held on to that lead to achieve a great victory.

Italy advanced to the semis with a 4-1 conquest of Mexico, Uruguay took a 1-0 overtime decision from Russia and Brazil took Peru, 4-2.

The Italians, who scored only one goal in three matches in group play, hit peak attacking form thanks to a brilliant performance by left-winger Luigi Riva.

THREE QUICK ONES

He linked up perfectly with Gianna Rivera, who fed him scoring passes at 63 and 75 minutes. Rivera scored in the 68th minute and Angelo Domenhini tied the score in the 25th minute after Mexico had gone ahead on a goal by Jose Gonzales in the 12th minute.

The Uruguay-Soviet match was tied 0-0 after 90 minutes. In extra time the South Americans took command and won on a spectacular header by Victor Esparrago in the 117th minute.

PELE BRILLIANT

Brazil's victory over Peru was yet another triumph for "King" Pele, the world's most famous soccer player. Pele masterminded his team's first goal, scored by Rivelino in the 11th minute.

Pele also had a hand in the three other Brazilian goals, netted by Tostao (2) and right winger Jarzinho. Peru's goals came from Gallardo in the 28th minute and Teofilo Cubillas in the 69th.

The international federation's determination that the championship should go down as a "non-nonsense" competition is paying off. No player has been sent off, which is something of a record.

Referees were shown more than 60 films illustrating "fair" and "unfair" play. They were told to tolerate no tantrums by the players who themselves were warned that if they protested a decision they could be sent off.

Nine Local Athletes Qualify For Trials

Two more Victoria athletes have qualified for next weekend's Canadian Commonwealth Games' trials in Hamilton, bringing the total to nine.

Making standards in last-ditch attempts Sunday at Centennial Stadium were Jill Pelland (14.6 seconds in the 100-metre hurdles) and Vicki Hammond (18 feet, seven inches in the long jump).

They join Connie Halbert, Penny May, Bob McLaren, Dave Weicker, Wendy Thompson, John Cliff and Lindsay Jack on the B.C. delegation.

Miss May, who qualified for the Canadian trials in the 100-metre hurdles, failed Sunday to qualify for the games's pentathlon.

Competing in St. Lambert, Que., she managed a personal high of 4257 points but it was still well below the standard of 4400 points set for the Commonwealth Games.

Jenny Meldrum and Debbie van Kinkebelt, both of Toronto, passed the qualifying standard in finishing in that order.

Yvonne Saunders of St. Lambert, 1969-champion Diane Jones of Saskatoon and Miss May were next in that order.

Mrs. Pollock, finishing with 993 in her final five games, had 10-game total of 1880 to top field of four women's finalists. Her total led Sharon Gilder of Vancouver by 127 pins. Third was Esther Leitch of Vancouver (1724) while Helen Young of Victoria rolled 1689. Ken Bell of Nanaimo was third at 1801. The trio will compete against other provincial winners next May and a Canadian team of six men and six women will carry on to world finals in Milwaukee.

Eyes Team Berth

VANCOUVER — Victoria's Dale Shaw holds a share of second place after Sunday's second round of the B.C. women's inter-provincial golf team trials.

Miss Shaw, a member at Glen Meadows, is at 158 with Barbara Renwick of Vancouver, eight strokes behind Gail Harvey Moore of Vancouver who is at 150 after a one-under-par 73 in the second round.

Marilyn Palmer of Vancouver and Helen Marlatt of Chilliwack are tied for third at 159.

The team will be picked from the low scores in six qualifying rounds. The next two rounds will be held next weekend in the Vancouver area and the final two will be the qualifying rounds of the provincial women's championships, July 20 and 21, at Gorge Vale in Victoria.

Canada Ousts Anzacs

WINNIPEG (UPI) Mike Belkin gave Canada its first North American zone Davis Cup win in more than 50 years when he defeated New Zealand's Onny Parun, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, on Monday.

The victory gave Canada a 3-2 edge in the second-round series. The Canadian team now takes on the South American survivor, either Brazil or Colombia, in thrid-round play.

IN CANADA

Action is also set for Canada but the host city has yet to be selected. Quebec City, Winnipeg and Vancouver have all been mentioned as possibilities.

Belkin's triumph followed a victory by New Zealand's Brian Fairlie which tied the series at 2-2.

Fairlie, who defeated Belkin in the first of Saturday's two singles matches, downed John Sharpe, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

Belkin started fast to take a 3-0 lead in the first set, then put on closing spurts in the last two sets after Parun had taken the second set.

KEY VICTORY

Canada went into the lead Sunday with an unexpected victory in the doubles, Belkin and Sharpe combining to score a straight-set victory over Fairlie and Parun, 6-2, 11-9, 6-3.

Fairlie's 6-4, 6-2, 6-4 triumph over Belkin got New Zealand away to a tremendous start but Canada pulled even in Saturday's other singles match when Parun was unable to complete his match against Sharpe.

Parun, who was trailing by 4-5 in the fifth set and 30-40 in the 10th game of the set, was forced to concede because of a leg cramp.

Canada reached the second round by defeating the Commonwealth Caribbean team while New Zealand ousted Mexico.

Expo Bound

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Expos of baseball's National League Sunday announced the purchase of left-handed pitcher John O'Donoghue from Milwaukee Brewers of the American League.

Kerr Rallies To Hold Title

Laurie Kerr of Royal Colwood survived a shaky start Sunday on his home course to capture the Victoria City Amateur golf championship for the eighth time.

Kerr, defending the title he won last year at Victoria Golf Club, took a one-stroke lead over clubmate Ken Floyd into the final round of the 54-hole competition. And that was the margin at the finish.

The 40-year-old veteran scored rounds of 75 and 72 in windy conditions the previous weekend to take the lead although going seven over par.

He promptly lost the lead Sunday when he three-putted three of the first five greens and was four over par after six holes.

Kerr finished the first nine at four-over 39 while Floyd, matching par, took over the lead, two strokes ahead of Carl Schwantje of Victoria Golf Club.

STEADINESS WINS

However, Kerr had eight straight pars on the back nine before finishing with a bogey and five-over-par 75 for a 222 total.

Floyd appeared to have his first championship in hand until the final three holes, blowing a two-shot lead by going one-over-par on both the 16th and 17th holes and taking a double-bogey six on the 18th.

City junior champion Rob Ferguson of Gorge Vale finished in third place, three strokes behind Kerr at 225. Schwantje, who went six-over-par on the back nine, and Hal Jacobsen of Glen Meadows were tied for fourth place at 226, a stroke ahead of Reg Clarkson of Gorge Vale.

CONSOLATION

Floyd had some measure of consolation, however. The three-handicapper captured the Matson Trophy with a four-over-par total of 214 in the handicap competition.

Floyd was tied for second place with Sid Murdoch of Colwood, a stroke behind Clarkson, going into the final round and finished a stroke in front of the pair. Murdoch, a six-handicapper, shot a 79 and Clarkson, a four-handicapper, had a 78.

University Student First-Round Leader

PITT MEADOWS, B.C. (CP) — Ross Johnson, a 20-year-old university student who says he hardly practices, was the leader after Monday's first day of the British Columbia men's amateur golf tournament.

Johnson fired six birdies through rain and mist to come in with the only sub-par round of the day. His 71 game him a one-stroke lead over defending champion Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver who matched par with a 72.

Bert Ticehurst of Vancouver, seeking his 10th Willingdon Cup appearance was also among the leaders with a 73 and was followed by Mike Buckley, also of Vancouver, a member of last year's inter-provincial team, who had a 74.

But two other team members, John Russell and Harry White, both of Vancouver, were farther down the list with 77s along with Art Donaldson, a member of the 1965 team.

Grouped with Ticehurst at 73 were Barry Brettell, Ken Murray, and Gord Robinson of Vancouver and Conrad Bergstrom of Kelowna.

Shirley Englehorn Wins LPGA Playoff

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Shirley Englehorn gained a measure of revenge by winning the U.S. Ladies Professional Golf Association championship by defeating Kathy Whitworth by four strokes in a Monday playoff.

Miss Englehorn, who forced the playoff with a birdie putt on the last hole of the 72-hole tournament on Sunday, shot a one-over-par 74 in the pressure-packed duel with the top money-winner of the LPGA.

Miss Whitworth, who lost to Canada's Sandra Post in a playoff two years ago, defeated Miss Englehorn by one stroke in the 1967 championship. This time the 29-year-old Idaho native was too steady, shooting 16 traight pars after a second-hole bogey.

The tie was created when Miss Englehorn finished with a 70 Sunday while Miss Whitworth took a 72 for her 285.

Sandra Palmer was third with 288 and won $2,700. Murle Lindstrom was fourth at 290 and Sharon Miller fifth at 291.

Datsun 1600 isn't long like a big car, but it's big inside where it counts.

It doesn't have all sorts of optional extras, because everything on it but a 3-speed automatic transmission and a radio is standard equipment. Like carpet, flow-through ventilation, front disc brakes, bucket seats, whitewalls and textured vinyl upholstery.

More important, a Datsun 1600 will go anywhere a big car will go and a lot of places a big car can't. And on the way there, it will give you up to thirty-five miles for a gallon of gas and around 100,000 miles between major overhauls.

For around $4500 you get twin 2-door 1600's. Or a wagon and a 2-door. Or two 4-doors. Or just one Datsun and a bundle for your bank. No matter which way you do it you win, when you think about it.

Finance Scheme Favored

Prospect of financing municipal projects through B.C. regional districts is finding favor among eastern Canadian and American financiers, Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis said Monday from Montreal.

Curtis, on his way home from the Canadian Federation of Mayors conference held this year at Halifax, N.S., said he has stopped over in Montreal to explain the new Municipal Financing Authority of B.C. to various banking, insurance company and investment firm officials.

Curtis was recently elected chairman of the authority which will market debentures for B.C. municipalities financing projects through the regional districts.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell also received very favorable reaction when he explained the authority to financial officials at Los Angeles and San Francisco during a recent trip to California.

Royals Defeat Cougars, 2-1 To Stay in First-Place Tie

Unbeaten Victoria Royals and defending-champions Vancouver Spartans remained deadlocked for the lead in the Coastal Divisions after Sunday action in the Western Canada Soccer League.

Royals won their third straight match after drawing with Spartans in their league debut, downing the Cougars, 2-1, in Vancouver. Spartans romped to a 6-2 victory over Sea-Tacs in Seattle.

IT WAS CLOSE

Victoria did not lead in the match until six minutes from time when Ash Valdal broke a 1-1 deadlock with his third goal in two games, hitting a 10-yard shot to finish a play with Brian Robinson.

Robinson, who did not start because of a tender ankle, was called to duty early in the first half when playing-coach Brian Hughes suffered a recurrence of an ankle injury he received in the last match with Cougars.

Cougars took the lead in the 33rd minute when right-winger Don Wilson took a quick pass from Lenny Brown and beat Barry Sadler from 12 yards.

IN SHORT ORDER

However, left-winger Peter Wilson, sprung loose by a headed pass from Peter Roberts, tied the game seven minutes later with his first goal of the season.

Cougars opened strongly and almost took the lead in the 12th minute when Brown chipped the ball over Sadler's head. The goalkeeper recovered quickly and stopped the ball just before it went over the line.

At Seattle, John Connors and John Haar each scored twice in the second half to lead Spartans to their comeback victory.

Coco de Vittori scored both Seattle goals before Vanni Lenarduzzi scored for Spartans with five minutes left in the first half. Bruce Wilson tied the game early in the second half.

Bobby Hough announced after the game that he was stepping down as Sea-Tac player-coach and team officials said a new coach will be named during the week.

Seattle plays in Victoria on Saturday at 8 p.m. in Royal Athletic Park.

In a Prairie Division match Saturday, John Schepers scored both goals to give leading Regina Concordia a 2-1 victory over Edmonton City in Regina.

For McLaren Team

Gurney Instant Success

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — Dan Gurney joined the McLaren racing team during the weekend and the first thing he did for them was win the $75,000 Can-Am event for sports-racing cars.

It was the 21st Can-Am victory for the McLaren organization since the international series for big-bore sports cars started in 1966.

The 30-year-old Californian was driving the car that team founder Bruce McLaren would have driven in Sunday's race had he lived. The New Zealand car-builder and racer died two weeks ago while testing a car in Britain.

* * *

To win Sunday he had to get out in front of McLaren teammate Denis Hulme of New Zealand and then win a 36-lap dice with Jackie Oliver of England, who was driving a British-designed, U.S.-built Autocoast.

Sunday's race was the opener of the 11-race, $1,000,000 Can-Am series, richest in motor sport. Gurney said he plans to stay with the McLarens for the rest of the season, and that includes Formula I racing too.

For his day's work, he won the Labatt's Blue Trophy and $14,450 in prize and accessory money. He also broke track records.

* * *

His average speed for the 200-mile race was 110.241 miles an hour compared with the previous Can-Am mark of 105.901 set by McLaren.

He also chipped one-tenth of a second off the lap record for the 2.45-mile road track when he was clocked at one minute, 18.0 seconds. The previous mark was set last year by Jackie Ickx of Belgium and Australian Jack Brabham in Formula I machines.

Oliver, a 27-year-old Cockney, was runner-up, almost 18 seconds behind Gurney.

Hulme, his engine overheating and his hands still bandaged from burns received in a practice accident before last month's Indy 500, was third, two laps behind the leader.

Five Canadians started the race, with Roger McCaig of Regina coming in fifth in a McLaren. Gord Dewar of Ottawa came sixth, also in a McLaren.

Rainier Brezinka of Toronto, driving an out-dated McLaren, placed 10th. John Cordts of Barrie, Ont., driving a McLaren, made a good showing in early stages of the race but had to retire on the 45th lap and was placed 15th.

George Eaton of Toronto drove the first BRM ever to enter the Can-Am series but retired on the 33rd lap.

Vern Buffey To Scout For Canucks

VANCOUVER (CP) — General manager Bud Poile of Vancouver Canucks announced Monday that veteran National Hockey League referee Vern Buffey will join the club Sept. 1.

The 41-year-old Buffey will work as the Canucks special representative for Eastern Canada and will live in Montreal. He will scout the pros, amateurs and college players in the East.

Buffey spent 11 seasons officiating for the NHL and for the last four years was the league's number one referee.

He announced his retirement two weeks ago after a series of injuries.

'Giant Step for Mankind in Arizona, Not Moon'

MIAMI (UPI) — Many skeptics feel moon explorer Neil Armstrong took his "giant step for mankind" somewhere in Arizona. There is wide support for a theory that the government and the news media conspired to hoodwink the public with a fake telecast of a moon landing.

Others feel that man in space is infringing on God's territory. "Man can get so wise he'll destroy himself," said a Negro maid in Miami. "That's what he's doing now. It's God's moon; he'd better stay off." These were some of the observations drawn from a survey conducted by Knight newspapers in Miami, Philadelphia, Akron, Ohio, Detroit, Washington, Macon, Ga., and several rural communities in North and South Carolina. A total of 1,731 persons were asked: "Do you really, completely believe that the United States has actually landed men on the moon and returned them to Earth again?" The question elicited frequent snorts of derision and disbelief. 'I'll never believe they walked on the moon," said Mrs. Ann Dix, a Negro mother of seven interviewed in a West Philadelphia supermarket. "Not the moon I see shining in the sky at night."

Mrs. Emma Holmes, a 68-year-old Philadelphia grandmother, was among those who felt the moon telecast was "staged in the Arizona desert."

Courtroom Parade

'No Attention' Paid to Law

A 27-year-old Oak Bay man could spend almost 11 months in jail after he was sentenced Monday in Victoria Provincial Court for impaired driving, driving without insurance and driving while his licence was suspended.

James Cameron Sprague, 1842 Monteith, pleaded guilty June 5 to the charges, all of which were laid May 18 by Saanich police. He also admitted convictions last Jan. 8 in Victoria for impaired driving and driving while suspended, and said he was to appear in court at Campbell River on another traffic matter.

Monday, he told the court that he was sentenced in Campbell River last Friday to three months in jail for driving while disqualified and driving without insurance.

"You seem to pay no attention whatever to the law," said Judge William Ostler, who then pronounced this sentence:

For impaired driving, 21 days to start after the Campbell River sentence; for driving while his licence was suspended, an extra four months; for driving without insurance, a $250 fine or three more months.

☐

"It'll be a happy day when we can get him aboard a fishboat," the judge said, referring to Frank Peter Ellis, 51, no fixed address, who pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy laid Sunday by Victoria police.

Prosecutor John Macintyre said that Ellis had five convictions in Victoria this year for vagrancy or causing a disturbance and added that he had "a record that runs for pages."

Ellis said that he was waiting to get a job on a fishboat July 16 but the judge said that Ellis had used that story before. In fact, he told Ellis, "You've been waiting for a fishboat for two years."

He sentenced Ellis to 28 days in jail and added that, "If you don't go out (fishing) this time, you certainly can't expect to have this story bought any more."

☐

July 8 was set as the trial date for two persons who pleaded not guilty to two joint charges. David Johanne Johannson, 25, of 821 Princess, and Keith Philip Gibbens, 19, of 4886 West Saanich, were charged jointly with selling a publication in Saanich without a licence and also with obstructing a Saanich policeman. The publication was named as Mass Line, but was not otherwise identified in court.

☐

John Guy Talbot, 36, of 765 Hillside, was fined a total of $150 on two charges. He pleaded guilty last Friday to one charge of obtaining lodgings by fraud from a hotel at 642 Johnson early in June, then pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of false pretences in obtaining clothing worth a total of $35 June 5 at Woodward's by using a worthless cheque.

☐

Ronald Masters, 26, of Ganges, was committed by Ostler for trial in a higher court following a two-part preliminary hearing. The first part concerned a charge of trafficking in marijuana March 17 and the second a charge of trafficking in marijuana March 23, and the judge set bail at $2,000 to cover both charges.

☐

In the court section of Judge J. A. Byers, a fine of $350 was levied against Thomas Karr, 19, of 924 Selkirk, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving last Friday in Victoria.

Man Hiding in Bush

Fire Damage to Trucks Believed Due to Arson

Victoria fire department officials said Monday that arson is believed to have been the cause of two fires that caused a total of about $350 damage early Sunday to two trucks at 2831 Nanaimo.

Victoria police said that passersby saw a man hiding in bushes near the scene, but the man escaped after a chase.

* * *

Damage was confined to the cab of one of the refuse-hauling trucks, owned by Jim-Dandy Clean-Up Service, while damage to the other was in the area of the motor. Fire department spokesmen said the rags apparently were used to ignite both blazes.

The officials said there apparently was no link between the two fires and five incendiary blazes in Victoria during the May 2-3 weekend. They said that investigation of those fires was continuing.

Police Follow Lead In Finster Case?

Officials of the police investigation of the George Finster murder case said Monday that "some response" had been received in their renewed call for public help.

A spokesman for RCMP and Victoria and Saanich police who are conducting the probe declined to give details, but did say that a statement was possible later this week. Indications were that police were following up at least one new clue.

The investigators disclosed last Friday, for the first time, that a suspect had been questioned and a car seized on the B.C. Lower Mainland, and added that human blood and hair was found in the car's trunk.

* * *

They said they believed that the case could be taken to court if Finster's body is found, and renewed their offer of a $1,000 reward for information leading to the discovery of the body.

They also described Finster's movements after he left the Red Lion beer parlor at 3366 Douglas late last Sept. 29 and asked that anyone who saw Finster, his car or another man and that man's late model car, get in touch with their local police department.

Finster is believed to have been murdered early last Sept. 30, apparently within a short time of leaving the beer parlor.

"Let us show how a new Shell Furnace can cut your heating bills"

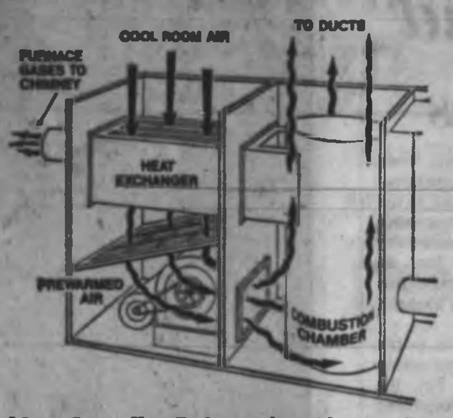
"Before replacing your old furnace, let us show you how much you can save with this new Shell Furnace. A simple test—absolutely free of charge—is all that's needed.

The test shows how much heat you get per fuel dollar. We calculate how much the new oil-powered furnace saves—as compared to gas or electric energy. We can prove this new Shell Furnace can lower your heating bills.

Call us at the number below for your free test. Right now, we can arrange a visit within the next 10 days.

Save money

Most old furnaces waste a lot of heat up the chimney. So do some modern furnaces. But this new Shell furnace uses that heat. Before it reaches the chimney, the hot air loops and doubles its way through a unique heat exchanger. Cool air returning from the rooms flows through the exchanger and picks up that heat. The furnace has a very efficient burner. It burns almost all the available heat from the oil. We haven't seen a more efficient furnace than this one.



Money Saver: Heat Exchanger, heated by waste furnace gases, pre-warms cool Room Air.

Tuck it in a corner

This furnace is only 3¼ feet high, the lowest on the market. Only 2 feet wide. Only 4⅔ feet deep. Tuck it away in a corner—and free up a lot of valuable basement space.

Wipe-clean enamel finish. Decorator panel in walnut-grain. Rustproof.

Summer cooling fan

This furnace has a fan you can switch on during summer. It circulates air through your house in a gentle cooling breeze. Special permanent filters remove household dust from the air.

Your wife will like the wipe-clean enamel finish, and the walnut-grain decorator panel. The furnace is rust-proof, and built of heavy-duty steel—welded to eliminate annoying rattles and clanks.

Don't pay till October 1

There's no deposit to make—and if it's installed before August 1 you needn't pay a penny till October 1. Then, if you wish, you can pay in small monthly payments on your fuel-oil statement. You can take up to 10 years to pay.

Installed in one day

Replacing your old oil-furnace takes less than a day. Your whole heating system can be checked at the same time—from tank to thermostat.

An official of the Hospital Employees' Union said Monday that patients' meals have been delayed and the danger of a staphylcoccus outbreak is increasing as more workers are laid off in B.C. hospitals.

Ray MacCready, business manager of the 8,500-member Local 180, also said Health Minister Ralph Loffmark has not kept his promise to look into the possibility of having hospital workers covered by unemployment insurance.

* * *

MacCready said the lack of unemployment insurance benefits means hospital lay-offs are inordinately expensive to the province because the jobless often have to get welfare benefits.

If they were covered by unemployment insurance, the employer's share of the premiums would be about $4 a month for each employee.

The HEU official said the meals for patients on the sixth floor of Vancouver General Hospital's Centennial Pavilion were as much as 90 minutes late Monday.

This was because one tray line in the dietary department was laid off last week.

He also said hospitals were having to dry-mop patients rooms and corridors because of a lack of personnel. Wet-mopping, which takes more time, is the only effective way to killsuch virus as staphylcoccus, he said.

* * *

"We are going to have an outbreak of staph as the hospitals get dirtier," he said. "Five or six years ago, Royal Columbian in New Westminster had such an outbreak and 50 per cent of its employees at one time were off work."

(The incidence of all hospital-acquired post-operative infections is about 5 per cent. It would be two or three months before any increase would show up in statistics, say hospital authorities, and even then such things as the patients' susceptibility and the virulence of the organism would have to be considered.)

MacCready said the union, which is certified in all major B.C. hospitals except Royal Jubilee in Victoria, has 22 documented cases of "patient misadventure."

He said two information pickets from the HEU were prevented by the RCMP from confronting Premier Bennett at the Roberts Bank opening ceremony Monday.

HEU pickets plan to follow Bennett wherever he travels in the province, said MacCready. One of their signs says: "Mr. Premier, Talk Don't Run."

* * *

Also joining the protest over Loffmark's announcement that B.C. Hospital Insurance Service will pay only 70 per cent of wage increases awarded since Jan. 1 is the Registered Nurses' Association of B.C.

RNABC wants a public inquiry into hospital financing and is sponsoring newspaper advertisements that are headed, "Why Punish the Sick?" They go on to say that safe nursing care cannot be promised in this province.

A spokesman for RNABC said Monday the organization was uncertain whether it would continue its advertising campaign or whether it would join HEU members on information picket lines.

'Annihilation' Drought Threat

CAIRO (UPI) — The Yemen foreign ministry says many areas in Yemen were suffering severe drought "threatening annihilation" because of lack of rainfall during the past three years. Hardest hit was the western part of Tohama near the Red Sea coast where "many families died of starvation and animal wealth has perished."

Gorge Hospital: Plans May Double

Architects preparing the working drawings for a 150-bed extended care addition to Gorge Road Hospital are looking into the cost of doubling the project's size.

William Morrison, the hospital's administrator, said Monday the architects' investigation is necessary before Gorge Road and other authorities decide on a proposal made 10 days ago by Dr. Scott Wallace, the Social Credit member of the Legislature for Oak Bay.

* * *

Wallace suggested the 150-bed extended care unit planned for Royal Jubilee Hospital should be switched to the Gorge. He said Jubilee's cost estimates were far above those suggested by the government while Gorge Road's, for a unit of identical size, were within government guidelines.

As a result, he said it probably would be faster to get 300 beds in one place — that is to say, Gorge Road — rather than 300 beds divided equally between that hospital and Royal Jubilee.

* * *

Morrison said Gorge Road's architects, Wade, Stockdill, Armour and Blewitt, had one or two more estimates to make in respect of the original 150-bed concept when the Wallace theory arrived on their desks.

Wallace's idea has been approved by Gorge Road Hospital's board of directors but they do not want it to cause any lengthy delays in construction.

All-Star Squad Tests Abilities

A select group of young carpentry apprentices will spend eight difficult hours Friday demonstrating under public scrutiny just what has been accomplished in four years of on-job and classroom training.

The 15 of them (nine in carpentry and six in millwork) form a sort of B.C. all-star team of apprentices, chosen from various areas by virtue of classroom records and reports from carpenters and employers.

The practical work tests Friday and written examinations Saturday will lead to the selection of one apprentice from each group — carpentry and millwork — for an international competition later this summer at Denver, Colo.

The provincial event is the eighth annual apprenticeship contest sponsored by the Carpentry Apprenticeship Joint Board of B.C. — a body made up of both management and the carpenters' union.

Is Old Style Beer only for the man-about-town?

Hardly. Many of Old Style's staunchest admirers are quiet ones. Men who find their golden hours in the privacy of hearth and home. Old Style's their style, too: brewed slow and easy to match the meditative mood. Old Style's everybody's style. That's why it's B.C.'s most popular beer.

Opening today, a vast new source of energy for the world.

A 50-foot thick coal seam — part of one of the richest coking coal deposits in the world. There are more than a billion tons of high grade coking coal here in Canada's largest coal mine, which has just been dedicated in the southeast corner of British Columbia.

People have known about this fabulous coal deposit for years; but they didn't have the market or the technology to get the coal out and into the mainstream of international commerce.

Today, Kaiser Resources Ltd., is putting new life into these historic old mines.

The project called for big equipment: mammoth 200-ton trucks, the largest walking drag line in Canada, and CP Rail's unit train operation. These "perpetual motion" trains — hooking up 11 locomotives with 88 cars — will haul the coal 700 miles to our new bulk loading facility at the Roberts Bank superport, just south of Vancouver.

The project called for big money. Kaiser Resources has already invested $110 million.

The project called for big experience. Long experience in the production and shipment of coking coal and iron ore for steelmaking has helped us to move this coal into world markets.

What does this mean to Canada? More jobs, new houses in new communities, more tax revenue, bigger and better transportation equipment and port facilities, a big new life for an old industry — and a billion dollars in foreign exchange to help our balance of payments over the next fifteen years.

The coal fields of British Columbia are truly on the threshold of becoming a vast new source of energy for the world.

Slow Start, Great Finish

Packed Playhouse Lauds Recital

By BERT BINNY

The Victoria Conservatory of Music presented the last in a series of three student recitals at the McPherson Playhouse Sunday afternoon.

At the first concert, May 24, the audience was minimal. June 7 it was considerably larger. June 14 the lower floor of the theatre was virtually filled. The problem has veered round sharply from where to find the few to where to put the many.

Sunday's crowd was very enthusiastic. They recalled just about everyone while reserving an extra long round of applause for the trio of violinist Jacqueline Tarry, cellist Anne Valdal and pianist Alison Marshall. This accomplished trio provided a musical treat with the first movement of Arensky's Trio in D minor. Not only did they know where they were going, they also knew the best way to get there.

Mezzo-soprano Barbara Ebell has a voice of power and distinction. With pianist Frances Crampton and violist Trefor Jones, she sang two Brahms songs and this trio was more closely united on the second item than on the first.

There were four organ soloists. Their instrument, which, obviously, had to be portable, lacked the volume and resonance associated with the larger, permanent models. As a result, Carrie Humpherys choice of a light Humoresque for Flute Stop was singularly felicitous in that it didn't call for anything unavailable.

The other organists, Madeleine Groos, Elizabeth Courtnall and Erik Lythgoe did fine: one only regretted the unavoidable absence of effects which, in the circumstances, neither they nor anybody else could produce.

Fact and fancy between them have provided Seven Wonders, Seven Dwarfs, Seven Brides, Seven Sleepers, a Seven Days' Battle and a Seven Weeks' War. Not to be outdone, the conservatory provided seven piano soloists Sunday afternoon.

They varied considerably in size and age. There was a fine performance by Diane Crowther and a notably powerful and incisive one by Janet Pennington.

Frances Crampton played a Bartok Sonatine, Sydney Condrashoff a Chopin Prelude and Carol Speller a Kabalevsky composition, Short Story.

There were two vocal soloists and two ensembles.

One of the latter opened the program, 11 very small singers and an equally diminutive but determined violinist. The other, more mature, closed the program with the famous Ye Banks and Braes and Song of Shadows. Conducting was Gladys Pearcy and the accompanists were Mrs. Bulman-Fleming and Richard Proudman.

Throngs Visit Expo '70

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — More than 27,000,000 persons visited Expo '70 in the first half of its six-month run, Japanese organizers of the fair reported Sunday, the halfway point of Asia's first world exposition, which opened March 15 and closes Sept. 13.

The Japan Association for the 1970 World Exposition reported 451,154 persons visited the fair Sunday, bringing the total so far to 27,521,338 — equal to more than one-fourth of Japan's population and more than half of the 50,000,000 visitors expected for the six-month run.

A total of 24,376 persons reported the loss of 20,123,715 yen — about $56,000 — in cash, officials said. Police also reported 539 thefts and 37 incidents of violence, but declined to disclose the total amount of goods and money stolen.

One person was killed "when a motorcycle ran wild among a route circling the fairgrounds," and 73 others were injured in traffic accidents, officials said.

Circus Hero

The Cane Chair Must Be There

By BILL THOMAS

Far be it from me to say Joseph Hartman is crazy but there's no way Hubert Castle could get me into that cage with four tigers and three lions twice nightly in the name of show business.

Hartman does it again today at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. in Memorial Arena for the Shrine Circus but they don't print the kind of money that would get be in there.

It all looks very easy. You walk into the cage with a bent cane chair (they all have one of those) a whip with a popper on the end to make it go crack and a pistol that fires blanks.

* * *

Then when you are set a group of friendly helpers give the cats a jab with a pole to show them the way to go. Out they come and they snarl, spit and they don't look one bit scared of Hartman or that bent chair.

The tigers are in magnificent physical condition and they jump about like they think it's they who are making Hartman do the tricks. It all looks very dangerous to me. Look at the odds — there are more lions and tigers than there are trainers.

The Flying Valentines are not far behind when it comes to getting the crowd on the edges of their seats. The triple somersaults by 12-year-old Ray Valentine are hard on a stomach full of popcorn. He does what seems impossible as he swings through the air, turns around three times and is then caught in mid-air.

Reggy Van Young and his crazy car did all the usual things. There are the highly predictable fire, gun and water gags that are always the same and always get the biggest hands from the crowd.

* * *

Reggy does his act and also helps out with a wild shooting spree and a boxing match that manages to go wrong at every turn.

The Hubert Castle show relies heavily on animal acts and the gambit pays off. There is always plenty of action in the three-ring show.

The Trio Angelos from Denmark use a motorcycle to power their act high in the air. The trio twist and turn until one member of the troupe has the motorbike spinning. It proves a great finale to the show.

Come to think of it one thing has changed — there are no clowns in spangled suits with tall white hats who speak French and catch rubber balls on a sharp rapier. Better check into that, Hubert Castle. Nothing must change if the circus is to survive. Two shows today, so see them both.

Death-Boat Inquest

'Art Lacked Experience'

Inexperience and rough seas contributed to the drowning of two men and their wives whose boat capsized during a sailing race June 6, a coroner's inquest was told Monday night.

The victims were the sailboat owner, Arthur Collis, 32, of 2531 Orchard in Oak Bay, his wife, Hazel, 30; John Goodman, 35, of 330 Moss and his wife Donna, 28. They died after their 20-foot sailboat, Sugar, capsized in stiff winds off Race Rocks during a Canadian Forces Sailing Association race from Esquimalt to Port Angeles.

"The conditions were terrible in my opinion. I wouldn't venture into anything like that (the rough seas) myself. For the uninitiated, those seas would be bad," said Race Rock lighthousekeeper Trevor Maxwell Anderson.

Anderson was the first to spot the sloop after it foundered. He said he issue a distress call to the Victoria marine radio station a 11:50 a.m.

He testified that the sky was overcast at the time, with westerly winds of 35 knots whipping up six-foot swells in the area. He added there were intermittent 10 to 12-foot high waves where the boat capsized.

Leo Politano of 1051 Tillicum, Saanich, a friend of Collis, said, "Art had a sound knowledge of the basic theories of sailing."

Explaining that he had sailed several times in varying conditions with Collis, both socially and in races, Politano added, "I felt that Art lacked experience and confidence in certain situations. He was nervous in heavy weather and whenever sailing in or out of the boat's berth."

Politano said he also felt Collis and his wife were not strong swimmers.

* * *

Capt. Jack Taylor, a firetug worker for the Canadian government who was at the scene of the accident when the bodies were being recovered, said "This weather was not fit for a small boat — we had enough trouble hanging on ourselves."

Sgt. J. L. Maybin, of the Victoria police, read a written statement to the inquest from Capt. W. P. Lowman, the skipper of the Persevere, an American fishing dragger which had recovered the bodies of the two women. Capt. Lowman said he approached Taylor on the high seas and transferred the bodies to Taylor's boat, who in turn brought the victims to Esquimalt.

* * *

Capt. Lowman's statement also said:

● There was a bad combination of high winds, rough seas and rip tides. He suggested the vessel may have capsized from broaching (being spun broadside to the waves by the wind) as a result of too much sail.

● Better lifejackets may have saved their lives.

● Had the victims held onto the boat, they may have been saved.

However, Robert Baird, a senior safety inspector for the Canadian government, told the inquest, "As far as I am concerned, I have worn this kind of lifejacket and it is good."

The inquest continues under Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre at 7:30 p.m. June 29 in the Law Courts building.

Library

Secrecy Scored

It came out twice during a meeting of Saanich council Monday night — Larry Ryan, secretary of the Victoria Labor Council, strongly objects to discussions behind closed doors over library problems.

The first was a letter from the labor council, signed by Ryan, that protested a closed meeting of the Greater Vicgoria Library Board to discuss an aspect of an efficiency expert's report.

* * *

The second occasion was disclosed by Ald. Alan Newberry, Saanich's representative on the board. He said Ryan refused to attend a meeting with himself and Mayor Hugh Curtis in the mayor's office to discuss the library.

Several aldermen made it clear they did not like Ryan's letter. Ald. Foster Isherwood, for example, suggested that he might be misleading the public.

"I wish to say very little on this tonight," said Ald. Newberry. "I think council is aware that the chief administrator (librarian John Lort) has decided to step down. A new director will be appointed and I think Victoria might get a much better library system."

Kelleher on duty

Back at Old Apple Stand

The Return of Tosh

Pat Kelleher, Victoria's barrow boy, went straight for a while . . . but he's back at his old stand, at least on a part-time basis.

He gave up selling apples in Bastion Square for a job with the provincial public works department some months ago, but with the return of the summer sun and tourists, he's back serving the public Saturdays.

* * *

He says he's "one hundred per cent for the government." But he'd like to work things so the government is 100 per cent for him, too.

A barrow boy at heart, he says he wished that when his six-month probation period as janitor with the department is up July 19, the government would give him back his apples and send him back out on the street, but this time with his janitor's salary.

Pat thinks he's worth his pay in tourist relations. "My business," he says, "is to serve people," and he'd like to do it full-time and get paid for it.

Students Win Chief's Praise For Their Peaceful Sleep-in

Esquimalt Police Chief Earl Sarsiat has commended the conduct of Esquimalt senior high school grads who camped on the school ground the night before their recognition ceremony June 5.

In a letter read to council Monday night by Esquimalt Mayor Arthur Young the police chief said the organizers of the student sleep-in should be congratulated because of the orderly manner in which the students conducted themselves.

Council was told there had been only one complaint from a nearby resident.

"It was a credit to the students," the chief said.

Ald. Arthur Mebs said that he was in the vicinity of the school grounds about midnight and he noted there was very little noise.

Remarkable gasoline breakthrough from the research laboratories of Standard Oil

BEFORE

"This car was sealed in a clear plastic bag with the engine running. The bag started to fill with dirty exhaust until the exhaust completely obscured the car. This shows how exhaust emissions from dirty engines go into the air and waste mileage."

Scott Carpenter
Astronaut/Aquanaut
Personally witnesses this dramatic demonstration.

AFTER F-310

"The same car — after running on just six tanksful of Chevron with Formula F-310. Dirty exhaust emissions reduced sharply. The bag remains clear! No dirty smoke. Chevron with F-310 turns dirty smoke into good clean mileage."

New F-310 in Chevron gasolines turns dirty exhaust into good clean mileage.

Now, research scientists at Chevron Research Company have achieved the most long awaited gasoline development in history! It's a new gasoline additive — Formula F-310* — that sharply reduces dirty exhaust from dirty engines. And helps toward cleaner air.

Tests conducted by Scott Research Laboratories, an independent research group, showed that Chevron gasolines with F-310 reduced unburned hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide exhaust emissions dramatically. Clearly, this is a major step towards solving one of today's most urgent problems.

F-310 also improves mileage, because dirty exhaust is really wasted gasoline. So F-310 literally keeps good mileage from going up in smoke.

How does an engine produce dirty exhaust in the first place? As a car accumulates mileage, deposits build up. The amounts of gasoline and air fed into the engine get out of balance. This causes the engine to "run rich", wasting gasoline. As a result, excessive unburned hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide exhaust emissions go into the air. F-310 can correct this condition. Just six tanksful can do the job.

Formula F-310, a patented gasoline additive, is now available in both grades of Chevron gasolines at all Chevron Dealers Standard Stations in the Lower Mainland and on Vancouver Island. As soon as additional supplies are available, we'll be introducing this remarkable development elsewhere throughout British Columbia.

Price of Campus Security

Sherlock Holmes Kits at $11.75

By BILL THOMAS

Sitting at home with the catalogue mulling over what to do with no down payment and easy terms has been a great Canadian occupation for years, but the way the delegates to a convention at the University of Victoria go about it makes pretty scary reading.

Delegates to the International Association of College and University Security Directors convention, which goes until Friday, have some choice items being offered by manufacturers — including machine-guns, grenades and tear gas bombs.

Here are a few of the handy items offered for sale by mail or from the manufacturers' representatives at the UVic convention.

* * *

● Shock batons run from $24.95 to $38.95, depending on size. "Ideal for prisoner and inmate control in penal and mental institutions, for use by policemen on the beat, plant security forces and general law enforcement use. The Shok Baton can be used as a conventional police billy as it is built to 'take it.' However, the mild electric shock delivered as a powerful psychological effect on the recipient who normally will not want a second treatment."

● Billy clubs bring out some of the best poetic traits in the law enforcement industrialist. "Attractive, turned beading fits snugly into hand." The model KE is 24 inches long and "attractively designed for special occasions." Riot batons come weighted with "28 ounces of lead" in each end. The model KF is "stubby, well-balanced club made of natural hickory. It is very popular with armed forces personnel."

* * *

● Hand guns take up several pages in one catalogue but the campus policeman can also order from a selection of machine-guns. There is the Smith and Wesson machine pistol at $73.45. Old military men will probably feel more at home with the .30 calibre used in the Second World War and in Korea. It goes for $79.50. A newer model is the W3 Enforcer. This is a 30-calibre gas operated semi-automatic. Finished in walnut it costs $92.50.

● Don't tangle with the campus cop. The velvet glove may in fact be the Model 980 Sap glove. "Sap gloves give weight to your authority, are instantly available in case of trouble and are a fine, unobvious defensive weapon. Each glove contains six ounces of powdered lead built into the knuckles or palm. Gloves are top quality of soft, pliable, long-wearing deerskin. Black only. Specify: Palm Sap or Knuckle Sap; sizes are 8, 9, 10, 11. Sap Gloves . . . $12.95."

* * *

● Still there is a touch of nostalgia about the crime-busters book of goodies. Fingerprint men can gain assurance they have the best with the Sherlock Holmes Kit No. 156L at $11.75. "A handy six-vial kit, for the investigating officer to develop latent prints. The kit can be carried in a coat pocket. Neat and professional-looking."

The expert kit has a lot more vials and costs $99.50.

* * *

● Comics fans will have no trouble recognizing all the great Dick Tracy gadgets like wrist and fountain pen microphones and the James Bond age-group will relate instantly to the phone which is really a transmitter. The tattletale phone come for $79.50. Cufflinks which tell all via a minimicrophone cost $32.50.

● The catalogue also offers sets of rods and tools which will open almost any make of car and kits that will help pick any lock.

* * *

● For those forces on or off campus who want to go the whole shot there is the Master Mobile Crime Laboratory equipped to meet any field investigation situation. This comes complete with lavatory and shower and is also air conditioned. It costs $23,500.

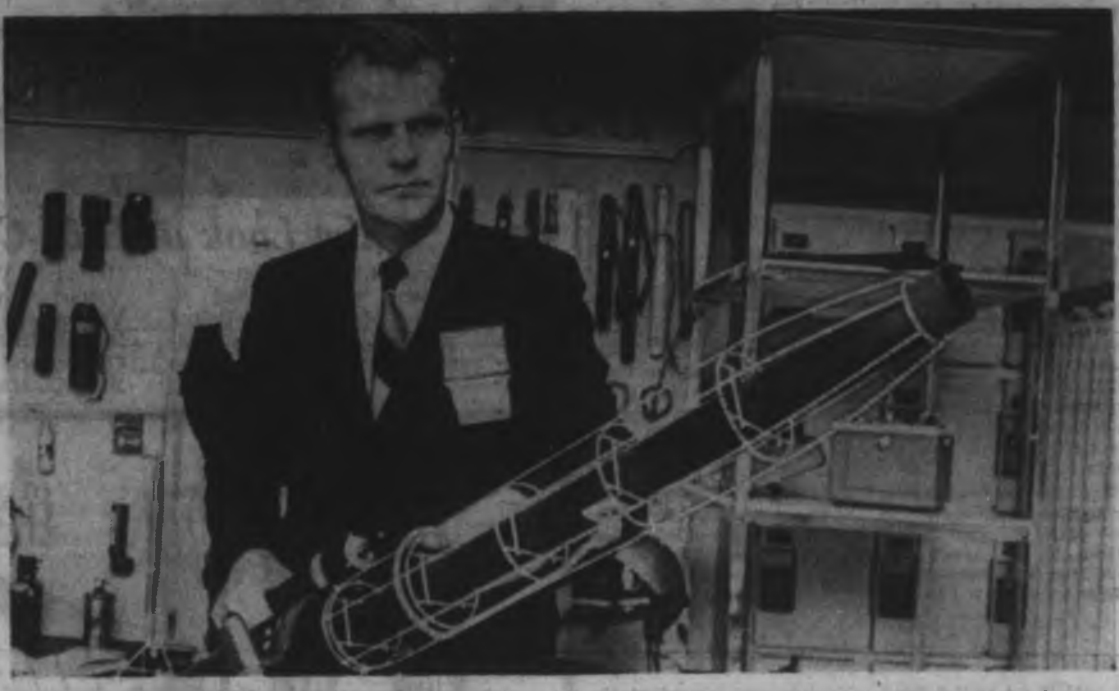
The show goes on until Friday with displays and demonstrations of just what some of these items can do on campus.

Approximately 160 security officers representing universities and colleges from all states of the United States and most provinces in Canada are attending the five-day meeting.

* * *

Eugene Frese, an assistant to U.S. Attorney-General John Mitchell, addressed the group Monday in a closed session.

Delegates also heard a two-hour lecture by Seattle policemen who displayed and described incendiary and explosive devices. Following the address, the police officers gave live displays of several types of incendiary bombs that can be easily made.



PEPPER FOG tear-smoke generator, described as "complete tear gas and smoke arsenal" in one package, is examined by Swen Nielsen, chief of security at Brigham Young University, Utah. Nielsen is president of International Association of College and University Security Directors meeting at University of Victoria.—(William E. John)

Ratio Rapped

'Need More Teachers'

Greater Victoria school board was criticized Monday night for putting too many teachers in offices and not enough in its classrooms, which rank among B.C.'s most crowded.

Trustee Allan McKinnon made the comment while trying to oppose a counselling pilot project initiated by school board officials that will cost roughly $40,000 in salaries.

It was McKinnon's second attempt to get the board to vote for or against the project, which will now probably take place with no formal acceptance by the board.

* * *

McKinnon pointed out that Greater Victoria's elementary classrooms, by latest count, are fourth worst in the province in pupil-teacher ratio. Another statistic, said McKinnon, shows that 40 per cent of the classrooms have between 35 and 39 pupils, making the district third worst out of B.C.'s 82 in that category.

Without naming the other project, McKinnon said the district is now engaged in two projects costing $100,000 in salaries without improving the pupil-teacher ratio.

"We need more teachers in classrooms and fewer in offices," he said.

No other trustees would comment on McKinnon's point except to tell him his discussion was out of order. He took the opportunity of reviving the complaint he had first raised last month when the board was called on to approve staff changes.

* * *

Trustee Dr. Victor Rogers voted with McKinnon against approval of the staff changes, but made no comment.

Two of the staff changes were men on leave from the district, due to be rehired and to take positions as counsellors in the pilot project that for the first time will include homes and elementary schools as areas for problem counselling.

McKinnon said he regretted objecting where individuals were concerned, pointing out he was only opposed to the project being initiated without approval from the board.

Following the board meeting Monday night, the district's information officer, Bill Stavdal, told the Colonist the school administration's legal position in initiating the project was sound.

* * *

Stavdal said that following McKinnon's earlier objections, schools superintendent A. J. Longmore solicited the opinion of a lawyer, who apparently told the board at another meeting the district was acting within its jurisdiction.

The first time McKinnon objected was May 19, at which time special education director Ted Callbeck interrupted McKinnon, saying he should keep out of educational matters and stick to policy.

Activity-Room Chop Brings Third Uproar

An activity room, lopped from a construction project at Cedar Hill-Braefoot schools, has prompted this year's third attempt by parents to use public opinion to break the government's slowdown on school construction.

In their enthusiasm to back a delegation of parents at Monday night's Greater Victoria school board meeting, trustees nearly put the Braefoot activity room on a higher priority than Victoria West's "first priority" building program.

Apparently unconvinced of Education Minister Donald Brothers' sympathy after a meeting with him earlier this month, Braefoot-Cedar Hill parents demanded "top priority" Monday night before the school board.

* * *

The board was told the Cedar Hill and Braefoot schools have 11 separate structures which include eight annexes, and the area has not had an activity room (gymnasium) in 107 years.

Trustee Harold Knight presented the board with a motion that would have granted the delegation "top priority" but trustee Allan McKinnon, who has championed Vic West's cause, said he would oppose the motion if it watered down Vic West's position as the board's oft-stated first priority.

However, the problem was resolved after the Braefoot-Cedar Hill project was given top priority for schools actually under construction.

* * *

The project, which will replace the portable and other structures that make up Cedar Hill and Braefoot elementary schools, was approved last Aug. 15, including the activity room, but following the government's slowdown announcement last fall, the activity room was cut from the contract.

The Colonist learned that Cedar Hill-Braefoot parents had been trying behind the scenes to get the activity room put back into the building project but decided to make their cause public after getting no satisfaction from Brothers.

In the brief presented to Brothers, they said to him: "It is not our wish to leave you empty-handed. It is not our intention to return to our children empty-handed, as so often in the past."

* * *

Trustee Peter Bunn, speaking to the delegation's point, said it was a "singly despicable situation" that the activity room shuld be approved for construction Aug. 15 and then cut on "Aug. 27" (meaning election day).

The original cost of the whole project was to be $469,986, rejected by the provincial treasury board because of the activity room. With the latter cut, the project cost was reduced to $386,571.

* * *

In other business, the board was given approval to have trustees elected at large in the next election in December. This was approved by the board earlier and provincial agreement was expected.

More Beds 'Good Sense'

● Architects may double plans. Page 18.

Oak Bay MLA Scott Wallace said Monday night his proposal to increase the Gorge Road extended-care addition to 300 beds from the planned 150 beds would delay the entire project by no more than three months.

In an interview after speaking to a Victoria Rotary Club meeting, Wallace said: "We would simply put an exact duplicate of the present plans on top of the ground floor. Instead of one floor, we would end up with two storeys.

"If a three-month delay can produce 300 beds instead of 150, it surely makes good sense. It gets us more beds faster."

* * *

Wallace devoted most of his talk to the club to refuting an editorial last Thursday in the Victoria Daily Times which criticized further delay in construction of new hospital facilities.

He also told the meeting he thought the Capital Region hospital board deserved an apology.

Wallace said the press had emphasized lack of co-operation and disorganization within the board when the board, formed in 1967, was still in the process of discovering its purpose.

* * *

With the addition of any new level of government, Wallace said, one gets another level of delay. At present, instead of going directly to the provincial government, a hospital with building plans goes to the Regional Board, which goes to the provincial government.

The man with the power, he said, is still the B.C. health minister.

"You can cut hospital costs — as the present government is doing — and get inferior care, or you can accept the inevitable, that better care will cost money," Wallace said.

"Here policital expediency has to go out the window."

Hearing Slated for September

'Hydro Bar Needs Mass Action'

A Saanich alderman suggested Monday night that a "massive public outpouring" will be necessary to stop B.C. Hydro developing a service centre at Quadra and Beckwith.

The public hearing at which Hydro's plans will be discussed, said Ald. Alan Newberry at Monday's council meeting, will be the most important of its kind in Saanich this year.

Signs that the hearing is in the process of turning into some kind of demonstration repeatedly emerged during the meeting as aldermen decided the hearing should be held in September.

* * *

The hearing is to allow an expression of public opinion, and will not bind B.C. Hydro.

Acting Mayor Leslie Passmore reported that he had telephone calls from nearby residents who saw a "blue truck" on the site that Hydro, according to law, does not have to have rezoned by the municipality.

A Hydro spokesman said later that there was actually no cause for such an uproar — if it were one of Hydro's blue trucks, it probably was only checking to see if the grass should be cut.

Ald. Foster Isherwood said he didn't want to rip Hydro's service centre plans to shreds without being able to offer the crown authority an alternate site.

By the time the hearing occurred, he hoped Saanich would have some alternatives.

However,, he pointed out to council that the municipality's arsenal was not yet empty — it still had to adjudicate the building permit and decide whether to connect Hydro to the municipal water supply.

* * *

On Isherwood's suggestion, Saanich will tell Hydro in a letter that the hearing will be held in September and it hopes "nothing will transpire until that time."

Passmore also reported that he had spent a full morning going through the files of the municipal planning department to see whether there was ever a letter to Hydro that endorsed the Quadra-Beckwith proposal. He didn't find one.

This was to check out a suggestion by John Tisdalle, Social Credit MLA for Saanich and the Islands, that Saanich had approved the service centre that is being fought by about 90 nearby residents.

In any case, the alderman said it didn't matter whether an employee had said "yes" to Hydro because council had the final word.

Central Saanich May Hire Septic Tank Rule Enforcer

Strict enforcement of septic tank regulations is in the offing for Central Saanich.

Mayor Archibald Galbraith said he expects the municipality will have to pay the cost of at least one additional health inspector to define the problem.

Council has written to the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Health Board, asking how it can help deal with the problem of pollution in the ditches.

Mayor Galbraith said there is already one health inspector working in the municipality and if another is required, Central Saanich will have to foot the bill.

Concerned with the health problem in the unsewered area, council is also calling for a meeting of all authorities — provincial, regional and health board—to discuss possible action to clean up ditches.

Monday night's council meeting started nearly two hours late as council and about 15 spectators discussed the aftermath of the June 6 sewer system referendum, defeated for the second time.

Discussion was sparked by a letter from the Save Central Saanich Committee offering to help council in planning and pollution control.

The committee was instrumental in organizing opposition to the referendum.

Alderman Percy Lazarz, W. E. Clayards and K. E. Stanlake referred to statements made by the committee before the referendum and suggested that council would do well to use care in dealing with it.

"We must know the people we are dealing with," said Ald Lazarz.

"We have been subject to threats and incendiary statements," said Ald. Stanlake. "We should be very careful about the people we have on our commitees."

Committee member Mrs. Pat Grove was told council is forming an advisory planning committee. She was asked to submit a list of members of her Save Central Saanich Committee and also to suggest members for the planning committee.

In other business, council referred to the health board, a letter complaining about the conditions under which animals are kept at Island View Wildlife Research Centre.

Doreen E. Cuthbert said facilities seemed very inadequate. She also wondered if the centre should be so close to a public beach.

Thieves Take Costly Items

Four items worth a total of $1,839 were stolen during the weekend from the Stereo World shop at 1321 Quadra, Victoria police disclosed Monday. The items were a $950 stereo receiver, two speakers worth a total of $590 and a $299 turntable.

Esquimalt Harbor

'Canada's Most Polluted'

Esquimalt Harbor is polluted almost 100 per cent in some areas, Esquimalt council was told Monday night.

"The coliform counts shows it to be pretty bad," Ald. Walter Lock said and explained that raw sewage is being dumped into the harbor from ships.

"I understand that Japanese ships use either holding tanks or shore facilities when they are in harbor," he told council, and suggested that an investigation should be made to see if a similar remedy could not be put into effect at HMC Dockyard.

"We are the most fully polluted harbor in Canada, and you don't have to be an engineer to see it," Ald Ed Costa said.

"The federal government should clean up its own backyard," he added.

Ald. Arthur Mebs pointed out it would not do any good for the seamen to use the shore facilities in dockyard because they also empty into the harbor.

Both he and De Costa strongly suggested council have the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Health Board approach the federal government to have the harbor cleaned up.

Esquimalt's municipal engineer told council that the dockyard has a collection system designed and a pumping station will be located near the main gate which will force the sewage into the regional sewer line when it is installed.

He noted that the dockyard engineers have not the authority to spend the amount of money needed to build their system.

He said the cost for the sewerlines running from the dockyard gate to the regional trunkline would be about $100,000 and for the system inside the dockyard an additional $70,000 or $80,000 would be needed.

This amount of money would have to come from Ottawa.

Council decided to wait until it hears about the funds from Ottawa before taking further action.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I know you'll never print this because it's a slam against your city, Chicago, but here it is anyway.

We moved here from Montana — where folks treat each other with consideration. Chicagoans have the lousiest manners in the world. For example on the buses, people who don't have seats think nothing of asking a stranger who is seated to hold their packages, purses and what have you.

I've gotten spots on my coat from leaky lunch bags and a rip in my sweater from a child's toy. This morning was the last straw — a woman asked me to hold her baby. You can guess what happened. When I handed her back the sopping wet child all she could say was, "Oh, my goodness!"

If you have any explanation for such slobbish behavior on the part of your fellow citizens, I'd like to hear it. — Irate Man from Montana.

Dear Irate Man?: I thought until I read your signature that you were a woman! I can offer no defence for people with such gall that they would ask strangers to hold their lunches and parcels. But that last incident is another ball of wax, my friend. A man who would remain seated on a bus and let a woman stand with a baby in her arms deserves whatever he gets.

☐

Dear Ann Landers: Until six weeks ago I was going with a very interesting guy. A buddy of his came to town and asked me to get him a date. So I fixed him up with my best friend. The four of us went out together. After that evening my very interesting guy never called me again. He has been seeing my "friend" almost every night.

She Never Had Him

I tried to act as if I didn't care, but I cared plenty. Not because I lost him ot her, but because she thought so little of our friendship that she accepted a date with him when she knew he was mine. Finally I got fed up pretending. I lost my cool and told her exactly how I felt. She was dumbfounded — acted as if she had no idea I was hurt.

Am I justified in my feelings that she betrayed me? Please comment. — Kansas City Kitty.

Dear Kitty: The guy you refer to as "yours" obviously was not. You didn't lose him. You never had him. A woman rarely loses a man to someone else. He first loses his interest in her — then someone else comes along.

Bury the hatchet and pass the peace pipe.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have a friend who is a perfect gentleman, but he has an oddball habit which baffles me. He extends his left hand instead of his right when greeting friends.

At first I thought his hand might be crippled by arthritis, or an accident, but I've watched him carefully, and he uses his right hand normally. Last night I decided to ask him why he prefers ot shake left-handed. He replied, "It's a Scout custom." I didn't want ot show my ignorance. What is he talking about? — Not Smart.

Dear Not: In the manual of English Scouting, Tenderfoot Queen Scout, it says, "When a famous Ashanti chief surrendered to Lord Baden-Powell, the latter extended his right hand as a token of friendship. The chief insisted on shaking hand with the left hand, explaining that the bravest of the brave shake hands with the left hand, since, in order to do so, he must throw away his greatest protection — the shield." Scouts shake hands with the left hand as proof of good faith and true friendship.

High-Flying Gal

EDMONTON (CP) — For Lucille Haley it was the high point of her flying career — and a Canadian record. She took off in a single-engine Fleet Canuck and 115 minutes later was 18,700 feet above Edmonton, eclipsing her record of 18,300 feet set in December, 1968, for that class, weight and horse-power of plane.

Quiet Look at Half-Century

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Henson, 1882 Forrester, who were married 50 years ago in Metropolitan United Church, marked their golden wedding anniversary quietly at the weekend. They have two sons, Harold in Vancouver and Robert in Victoria. Their son Ted who started Vancouver Island Helicopters, died in 1957. Both their daughters, Mrs. Pat Chester and Mrs. H. D. Tooby, live in Victoria. (Don Ryan)

Safer in Pantyhose

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Girdles are distracting and may make a menace of the woman who wears one when she drives.

She's safer in her pantyhose, says a report based on results of a survey conducted by the public service division of British Leyland Motors Canada Ltd.

The survey indicates girdles quickly become uncomfortable and the resultant squirming by the wearer behind the wheel reduces concentration.

* * *

In addition, the pull from the elastic garters tends to hoist the woman driver's feet off the control pedals. To overcome this constant contraction, she often pushes against the pull and winds up going faster than she really intends.

The report concludes by recommending that all women drivers wear pantyhose for safe, comfortable driving.

Published in Freeway, a magazine produced by the division, the report does not indicate who conducted the suvey or whose opinion was sought.

Fair Dinkum Sheep Station

DOROTHY WROTNOWSKI

No matter how many pictures you see or books you read about something, nothing ever measures up to the real thing. That is the way it was with our party when we went to a sheep station about 10 miles out of Canberra.

And Ron Russell, the owner, looked exactly what I had imagined a sheep station operator should look like.

Tall and rangy, soft and rather slowly spoken, he had quiet eyes and a wide mouth. Youngish, there was still something about him that made me think of steel. He is the sixth generation of his family to be a sheep rancher.

★ ★ ★

The house on this property was called Rose Cottage and had first been built for an early-day school teacher.

They put on a real show for us, the whole bit. We saw the dogs working the sheep and Jim Stevens, a top gun shears. In the old days about demonstration of shearing a sheep.

They told us that sheep shearing has been stepped up by the coming of mechanical sheras. In the old days about 35 sheep a day was the average by hand shears whereas the average with the mechanical type is from 120 to 130 a day. The record is 357 sheep in eight hours.

To our complete delight Ron demonstrated throwing a boomerang. He made it look so effortless. Probably was for him.

★ ★ ★

We had lunch at this place and I tasted kangaroo tail soup for the first time. Don't ask me what it tastes like because I can't compare it to anything I've ever had before but I can say that it was good. Then came the inevitable barbecued steak with banana, pineapple, sausages, potatoes and damper, a bread cooked over open coals.

Damper started off in life with the convicts cooking their ration of flour and water on open fires. We finished the meal with fruit and cream.

During all this the Russells' 10-week-old baby daughter was in a basket on the kitchen table and a neighbor who came to the lunch brought his two little girls with him.

Joyce Chivers, our Quantas guide, told me that this is typical of Australian life. Children are included right from the beginning and therefore there is very little baby-sitting.

★ ★ ★

From Canberra we went on to Melbourne and more tours. The new Victorian Arts Centre, and the national gallery which was opened in August of 1968 was truly fascinating. We were taken on a quick tour by Eric Westbrook, the director, who pointed out all the latest forms of lighting, storage, etc.

This gallery building is essentially a solid rectangle of reinforced concrete, measuring 500 by 200 feet, faced with blue stone blocks.

You approach the entrance across a 50-foot-wide moat which continues all the way around the building. The water was used for a softening effect on the outside of the building. Water is used again as permanently running curtain over 70-foot-wide by 20-foot-high glass panel.

★ ★ ★

The architectural highlight of the ground floor — of the whole building for that matter — is the immense Great Hall, where basalt walls soar four storeys high to an 8,500 square foot abstract ceiling of multicoloured glass.

When we passed by there were several people lying flat on their backs staring at this ceiling.

The gallery goes around three enclosed courtyards, each about 90 foot square. One is for the display of sculpture, where a persimmon tree has been artistically placed and wisteria is starting to festoon the walls. Another was designed for outdoor displays, recitals, lectures and other such activities and has a surrounding balcony to give the impression of an Elizabethan theatre. The third is planted with bamboo and special fountains.

Back to Sydney and the Wentworth Hotel — and it felt like coming home. It was the third time we had been, at this place.

Next morning until lunch we were left to our own special projects. Other than an hour's window shopping I developed a special interest in my bed.

Protest March Well on Way

DAWSON CREEK (CP) — A chase, Mich., man who embarked last month on a 10,000-mile anti-pollution protest march from Alaska to Tierra Del Fuego at the tip of South America has arrived here at the end of the march's first leg.

Andrew Horijko, 48, said he averaged 30 miles a day along the dusty Alaska Highway and wore out six pairs of shoes on the first 1,000 miles of the walkathon he's planned since the end of the Second World War.

Council Rejects Cleanup Bill

VANCOUVER (CP) — City officials have recommended that council not pay a bill for $298.56 submitted by the Action Committee for Unemployed Youth for their unsolicited services in cleaning up four city lots. They said the junk would have been removed from the lots this summer anyway, at a cost of about $25, and that payment would set a bad precedent.

Trudeau on Abortion Morality:

Public Not Ready

VANCOUVER (CP)—Prime Minister Trudeau maintained "public morality" is not ready for completely liberalized abortion laws in a discussion with the Vancouver Women's Liberation group Sunday night.

In a reasonably orderly discussion with about 60 members of the group, Trudeau said current laws allow doctors to perform abortions if they wish, but added that the liberalization proposed by the group would force them to do so, possibly against their will.

He said he would introduce an abortion repeal bill before Parliament before June 26 provided that the opposition agree to pass the legislation — which would take abortion out of the Criminal Code — in one day.

He also said he would ask Health Minister John Munro to publish all available material on birth control techniques.

The women questioned Trudeau about the application of abortion laws which currently apply in Sweden and Japan.

"It is your job to change public morality," he said. "The public is not ready for this."

Trudeau gave no answer to charges that he evaded the "Women's Caravan," an abortion representation which arrived in Ottawa while he was on his recent South Pacific tour.

The women opened the meeting with a reading of a brief prepared for the caravan containing a three-point program which included free abortions, medical care, free birth control and community clinics run by women.

The women then opened a question period which was much more orderly than the meeting at Vancouver International Airport two weeks ago. There was no abusive language, and in most cases the prime minister had some opportunity to reply to their questions.

Before leaving, they told the prime minister they would continue to press their demands militantly, and would not cease if he did not introduce their proposals to Parliament.

Free Movie Prevented

VANCOUVER (CP) — City police spent 90 minutes holding back a group of about 70 youths trying to enter a movie on the Woodstock, N.Y., rock music festival without paying.

Lines Around The Mouth

The mouth area comes in for so much attention, the quicker the lines are smoothed out and made to disappear, the younger you will look. A lotion-like substance 2nd Debut applied nightly will make the lines fill in and the skin become smooth once more. You will probably use 2nd Debut on your entire face to banish dryness, but do use a little extra care around your mouth. After applying the 2nd Debut massage very lightly, until it disappears into your skin. Your drug or dept. store has 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength and you'll find it a genuine delight to use.

Noise Pollution Sounds Catching

A leading psychologist noted with some concern that this generation will grow up with:

- Poor vision (resulting from 21-inch eyeballs);
- Baldness (from teasing hair);
- Virgin feet and poor circulation (from riding in a car to the garbage can);
- Impaired hearing (from transistor wires plugged into the ears and increased decibels)

★ ★ ★

The latter is of some concern to me as I am the indirect victim of noise pollution. I like music as well as the next one (Haven't I played my Gale Storm Sings Una Merkle Hits album until it is white?) But from the moment I open my eyes in the morning until they close at night, I am assailed by sound.

If it isn't Ben Franklin and his Electric Kite Strings, it's a tape recording of a bullfrog mating, a radio blaring jokes from the Air Scout, or a television presenting Popeye to a roomful of furniture.

"You know," I said to my husband, "I think all this noise is beginning to affect my hearing."

"You never noticed it before," he mumbled.

"I'll get it," I said pushing away from the table.

"Get what?" he asked.

"The door. Didn't you say there was someone at the door?"

"I said you never noticed the noise before."

"Don't move your head away from me when you talk. And speak slowly. Now, what's this about my being such a bore?"

"Not bore, BEFORE!"

"All right then, before I was a bore."

★ ★ ★

"If you're worried about your hearing, why don't you go in for a check-up?"

I watched his lips. "As long as you're writing one, write a big one. I have to pick up your cleaning this afternoon."

"Not cheque," he said slowly, "Check-UP!"

"Oh good grief," he snarled, "I am going to the office. I am not going to sit here at breakfast and roar."

"I'll get it," I said pushing myself away from the table.

If this works, all I'll have to worry about is fuzzy vision, tender feet and baldness.

Obstetricians, Gynecologists

Doctors Endorse Pill

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — The Society of Obstetricians and Gynecologists of Canada announced Saturday it endorses oral contraceptives as a means of birth control.

A statement released at the society's annual convention said the benefits of taking the pill make any associated risks minimal and "therefore acceptable."

But the statement said physicians must be aware of adverse effects the pill can produce in some persons. They must carefully assess physical conditions of patients before and regularly during use.

"Oral contraceptives, in common with almost all medications, may produce serious adverse reaction in a small percentage of users," the statement said.

"Some evidence exists that the most important one is the production of thrombo-embolic disease, especially in those women already predisposed by previous similar occurrences or by other circulatory abnormalities, such as severe varicosities or hypertension."

★ ★ ★

The statement said present evidence is incomplete but it suggests there may be a link between these risks and specific amounts of hormones in certain pills.

Delegates approved a recommendation that opinions be solicited from members for use when governments consider abortion law changes.

The society's committee on therapeutic abortion said it found the 1969 amendment to the Criminal Code of Canada on therapeutic abortions reasonably satisfactory. But there had been inequities in implementing the law because of differing regional interpretations of the act.

Pansies

About the brightest patch of color in our garden right now is a small bed of Clear Crystals pansies, all grown from a 25-cent packet of seeds sown in the open ground during the Dominion Day holiday weekend last year and transplanted to their flowering position last fall. Pansies are not in the least difficult to grow as long as you have a well-drained position for their winter quarters where no puddles lie after winter rains.

You can buy excellent pansy plants from any dealer in bedding plants and you can get them almost exactly the colors and shades you want, but they are a bit expensive and we are inclined to use them in the garden on a rather niggardly basis. Growing them from seed, it is a wonderful feeling to have dozens and dozens of husky young plants of your own raising, so you can splash them around to your heart's content.

* * *

While my packet of Clear Crystal seeds — this is a kind without any blotches or markings in the face — cost me 25 cents, you can pay just about any price you like for your seeds. The run-of-the-mill kinds can be picked up from any seed rack for as little as 15 cents, while special strains and varieties can run as high as $3 for a packet of 100 seeds.

Pansy seeds may be purchased either in a mixture of colors or in named varieties. It is a lot of fun to grow a good mixture — it has all the elements of a ticket on a sweepstake — as your plants come into bloom and you see what colors and color patterns you have drawn. The named varieties are useful where you are trying to achieve certain color effects in your garden, and most certainly, a bold mass of pansies all in one color is an impressive sight. Pansies come reasonably true from seed, although there will always be a certain percentage of "rogues" — off-color specimens.

I like the Clear Crystals, which are actually not true pansies at all but a cross between the pansy and the viola. They are well named, for their color — without "faces" or markings of any kind — is really crystal clear. I don't think it is possible to buy the particular colors you want in this strain — I have only been able to get them in mixture.

* * *

In other strains of pansy, some good named varieties are Ullswater Blue, in a clear gentian blue shade; Alpenglow in a dark red; Raspberry Rose, deep pink with a darker wine-colored blotch; Mountain Guard in deep purple; Firebrand in orange red; Eiger in pure gold with a brown blotch, and Pure White, a ruffled pansy with considerably more fragrance than you find ordinarily in these flowers.

Pansies like a woodsy soil, and any ordinary garden loam can be conditioned to a woodsy state by digging in a fair amount of sifted leafmould, about half a bucketful per square yard. Add about the same amount of coarse sand, together with one cupful of superphosphate per square yard to ensure vigorous root action. If you can't get leafmould, dampened peat moss makes an acceptable substitute.

Spread these materials over the surface, then dig over to the full depth of the space, mixing the additives thoroughly into the soil. Rake and tread the bed several times, then give one final shallow raking before sowing your seeds.

* * *

Make your seed furrows very shallow — not more than half an inch deep — and wet them before the seed is sown with either water or a weak liquid fertilizer, pouring it slowly and carefully in a small stream. Sow on the wet surface of the furrows as thinly as you can, cover with a thin sifting of soil, and spread some wet sacks over the seeded row until the first seedlings appear — usually in about 10 days.

It is best to transplant your seedlings while they are still very young, when they have made two true leaves in addition to the seed leaves. The same soil preparation will serve for the nursery bed, planting the young plants in rows a foot apart with six inches apart in the row. Ideally, this bed should have morning sun with some shade through the hottest part of the day.

Daw Key Finds Facts

At the very moment that President Nixon sent a fact-finding commission to Vietnam and Cambodia, to report on the progress in the war over there, President Thieu sent a fact-finding commission to the United States to find out what was going on in the United States.

The commission headed by President Thieu's dearest friend, Senator Daw Key, has just returned to Saigon to give President Thieu a very optimistic picture of what is going on in the United States at the present time.

* * *

The commission said they were impressed with the fighting ability of the National Guard who had routed the students this spring, and indicated that "Americanization" is moving faster than anyone had expected.

Senator Daw Key said, "predictions that President Nixon's government would topple in a few months have been proven false. Morale amongst the construction workers has never been higher, and some administration officials predict the students will be driven out of their university sanctuaries before the end of the rainy season.

* * *

Senator Daw Key told President Thieu that he could now see the light at the end of the tunnel and he saw no reason why the United States could not do all of the fighting in its own country by 1972.

While the commission said it was heartened by what it saw, it warned that President Nixon faced many difficulties. "Inflation," said Senator Daw Key, "is one of the United State's major problems and could be a big setback to pacification in the major cities.

"Electrical brownouts and blackouts are predicted for the summer, which could have a very serious effect on the natives who are dependent on air conditioning for survival."

"Attempts to curb polluted waters or hold back smoke have not gone as well as advisers would have hoped, and the infiltration of poisons in the air have reached new unacceptable levels."

The Daw Key commission also said that it was concerned with the unemployment rate in the countryside which reached a new high and has been making the natives restless.

While the commission did not see President Nixon personally, it was given a tour of the newspaper plants and TV networks that were still left partially standing after Vice President Spiro Agnew's heavy attacks on them.

* * *

The commission members were shown captured enemy editorials proving that the notorious First Armored Eastern Establishment Press Division intended to attack the Nixon government and bring it down.

Had Vice President Agnew not launched a counter attack when he did, Agnew spokesmen said, Washington would now be in the hands of Walter Cronkite and Herblock.

On his arrival at the airport in Saigon, Senator Daw Key told newspapermen that the United States needed more time to solve its problems and he did not expect to see any miraculous changes overnight.

* * *

"These people need our help and understanding," Senator Daw Key said. "They have made great strides in the past few years. It is a start, but they have a long way to go.

"Their roads are clogged, their trains don't work, their telephones break down, and their stock market is falling. Yet this is no reason to lose faith in them.

"They have proven that they have the capability and the will to learn, and it is our job not to despair because of the setbacks they have been having delivering mail in the cities and in the countryside.

"The American," said Senator Daw Key, "is the equal of any peasant, if you just give him the good old Southeast Asia know-how."

Julie Andrews is looking for a musical—for Broadway. The attractive British actress is reading scripts in her suite at the Regency Hotel on Park Avenue in New York. Some of the other top film stars who are minus an immediate movie, are turning to television. But Julie, wisely, would rather go the live route in the theatre. If only she could find another My Fair Lady!

Miss Andrews is pleased that after this long time, when the rumor-mongers were saying that her Darling Lili musical for Paramount was so bad that it could never be released, it has been earmarked for Radio City Music Hall in the very immediate future. No one knows how much Lili cost—the estimates are upwards from $20,000,000, but all will be forgiven, naturally, if the movie makes money. It will have to be a delayed forgiveness because, with that kind of cost, it will take years to get it's money back.

The Regency lobby was still reverberating

Alan Foshko, press agent turned producer, starts his April in the Wind film July 6 in New York. Alan also directs the original story written by Ira Wallach who wrote the successful Hot Millions and The Unexpected Mrs. Pollifax which starred Rosalind Russell who I would like to see more often on the screen. April in the Wind, says Alan, will be full of glamor which he would like to see back on the screen. The cast will feature unknowns.

* * *

Everyone who is anyone wants a role in The Godfather. And Robert Alda is no exception. Robert is of Italian descent and would be good in any one of the numerous starring roles. He has two more "Lucy" outings on TV coming up. The big question about The Godfather as a film is, when you read the book you find yourself involved with Mafia-blooded killers and actually making excuses for them. This would be inexcusable in the film.

Shari Lewis, now headlining at the Savoy Hotel in London, will follow her stint with seven one-woman TV specials for BBC. Last year, the diminutive Shari starred in 30 television shows in London where she is very popular. Her NBC network show for children is a must for British moppets every Sunday evening.

The cutest sight in London this season was the mother duck who hatched seven chicks in the shallow pond in the garden at Les Ambassadeurs restaurant. The royal duck-keper was called in to lend the mother and her tiny babies, across the road on Park Lane and into the safe waters of Hyde Park's lake.

Stop the World

SYDNEY HARRIS

In the Spring issue of that enlightening quarterly, Horizon, Alvin Toffler develops the theme of "future shock," a term he coined in an earlier article five years ago, when he predicted some of the things that would be happening today.

Toffler points out that "when we hurl a man into outer space, we surround him with an exquisitely designed micro-environment . . . within liveable limits." But the average man has no less been hurled into the future, and "we take few pains to protect him from the shock of change."

* * *

What is happening to us is almost as stark "as though NASA had shot Armstrong naked into the cosmos." For the "future shock" Toffler sees us suffering from is a "breakdown of rational response . . . when people are overwhelmed by demands for rapid adaptation."

Five years ago, noting the swift acceleration of change in the high-technology nations, he warned that "the malaise, mass neurosis, irrationality, and free-floating violence already apparent in contemporary life" might be no more than a foretaste of tomorrow unless we came to understand — and prevent — future shock.

* * *

The human organism, both physically and psychologically, needs to be prepared for a high rate of change, just as the astronauts need to be prepared to carry their "biosystem" with them into the lunar environment.

If we move too swiftly from one state to another, we become irritable, depressed, apathetic, aggressive, or actually ill.

Toffler reaffirms his warning that "we are creating an environment so filled with astonishments, twists, reversals, eruptions, mind-jangling crises, and innovations as to test the limits of man's adaptive capacities. We are setting the stage for future shock on a vast scale."

* * *

It is possible, indeed, that we are racing toward the most devastating outbreak of mass hysteria in history, overstimulated like so many rats in an experimental cage, where a multiplicity of buttons brings forth a new and unexpected result with each pressing. This is the way insanity is provoked.

Since there are no rational "solutions" except deliberately slowing the pace of change, we are offered a host of simplistic answers — violence by the militants, repression by the rightists, drug-escapism by the frightened and alienated, wanton and senseless killings by an increasing number of psychopaths.

* * *

Our new concern with the physical environment of man should not blind us to the perilous ways we are tampering with our limited adaptive capacities of mind and emotions.

MADNESS, ETC.: Bob Hope's hold on the public is fantastic. Year after year, his specials are among the top-rated each season — but this past season was his best ever. Hope had six of the 10 top-rated specials among the 176 shown by the three networks (and No. 11, too), with only the Oscars, Miss America and a Charlie Brown Christmas breaking his hold.

Some notable failures among specials were Return of the Smothers Brothers, 71st among the 176; Sinatra and Anne Bancroft, tied at 91st; Simon and Garfunkel, 122nd; Woody Allen, 150th; LBJ on Vietnam bombing, 158th, and an ABC documentary, Ethics in Government, 176th. Hope's Christmas show was first but his only musical comedy try, Roberta, was 77th.

James Stewart has signed for a half-hour NBC comedy series in the 1971-72 season . . . Stewart and NBC are trying to talk his friend Cary Grant into a series at $35,000 for two or three days work a week. . . Happy news: Dick Cavett's ratings on ABC are said to be inching upward.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Saturday's answers — Who played the Lady? Anna Neagle was the Lady with a Lamp, Rita Hayworth the Lady from Shanghai and Dame May Whitty The Lady Vanishes. And the lady who vanished in the fine Hitchcock film was Mrs. Froy. Lots of fun.

Today's question — I require the name of one movie star. How many of his films do I have to name before you get him? They include Ladies' Man, Delicate Delinquent, Stooge, Patsy, Geisha Boy, Nutty Professor, Errand Boy, Sad Sack, Bellboy and Caddy. You should have no trouble, but the answer will appear Wednesday.

Tuesday Movies

● 9:00 a.m.—Great Adventure (1954 Swedish nature documentary). A rewarding experience—4.

12:45 noon—For the Love of Mike (1959 boy and horse, the usual stuff), Richard Basehart—6, 8.

5:30 p.m.—The Vanquished (sub-par 1953 action), John Payne, Jan Sterling. Have you weeded your wisteria lately?—12.

5:30—The Capture (fairish 1951 drama), Lew Ayres, Teresa Wright, Victor Jory—13.

C-7:30 – View from Pompey's Head (putrid 1955 southern soaper), Dana Wynter, other victims. Have you fertilized your fern?—12.

C-8:30—In Name Only (overly coy 1969 comedy). Many familiar faces, but the we-were-all-married-illegally plot doesn't work—4.

9:00—Return from the Ashes (overly grim 1965 nasty-family drama), Maximilian Schell, Ingrid Thulin, Samantha Eggar—5.

11:00—No title available. Too bad; it's too late to cultivate your camellias—13.

11:30—Flesh and Fury (goofy 1952 gangster gunk). The idea of a voiceless Tony Curtis is good, but that's all—7.

C-12:00—The Fly (1958 sci-fi, the best film tonight), Vincent Price, Herbert Marshall, David Hedison—6.

C-1:05 a.m.—Rommel's Treasure (1959 nothing, the worst film this week), Dawn Addams. Plan tomorrow to propagate your pansies—5.

Tuesday Radio

8:00 p.m.—The CBC starts a seven-part dramatized musical documentary about Beethoven—CBU (690).

8:00—Semi-finals of Montreal's International Vocal Competitions will be heard at this time tonight through Friday—CBU-FM (105.7).

8:05—Gala Performance features Brahms' double concerto—CFMS (98.5).

Winning Contract

By HOWARD and BEE SCHENKEN

Sometimes you will find yourself in the happy position of being sure to make the contract as long as you can hold your trump losses to a certain level. In such case it stands to reason that your method of handling the trumps should be selected with great deliberation.

In this deal your trusty partner puts you into the best contract of four spades and West leads a heart to East's ace. East returns a heart to dummy's queen and you discard a club on it.

NORTH (D)
Vul: ♠ A
None ♡ Q 6 5 2
◇ A J 4 2
♣ A 10 4 2

WEST
♠ Q 9 4 2
♡ J 10 9 7
◇ 8 7 6
♣ Q 9

EAST
♠ K 7
♡ A 8 4 3
◇ 10 5 3

SOUTH
♠ J 10 8 6 5 3
♡ K
◇ K Q 9
♣ K 7 6

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	All pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♡.

You take the ace of spades—both opponents following low—and enter your hand with a diamond. You can afford to lose two trump tricks and the only question is whether you should lead the jack of trumps or a low one.

If the opponents' are trumps 33 you can play any way you like and make the contract. Therefore you direct all your teention to th possibility that the spades are 4-2.

In this case, if you lead the jack of trumps you gain a trick whenever either one of your opponents started life with the 9-x. This seems an attractive enough proposition until you realize that if either opponent started with the K-x or Q-x, which is clearly twice as likely as 9-x, it will be better to lead a low one.

Therefore you play a low spade. In the actual case East's king comes tumbling down and when you regain the lead you use the J-10 to force out West's Q-9.

If you were to lead the jack of trumps on the second round of the suit it would lose to the king and West would be left with the Q-9 over the 10-8, after which no manoeuvre known to sciene would enable you to get home.

Victoria's Daily Newspapers Help You Sell Women's Wear Every Day of the Week!

Victoria women love to shop. They love it so much they do it twice—first in the Victoria daily newspapers — then in their favorite stores.

They are constantly checking for fashion news in the popular women's pages. Then they watch the advertising to find out where to purchase the wearing apparel they want. Why experiment with media unproved in retail advertising; media with doubtful feminine readership; media which falls short of total coverage of your selling potential.

Trudeau exchanges greeting with Mrs. Jardine

'When you are diving, that's the sign that means there are sharks around'

Grandmother Gives Trudeau V Sign

Waves and Bluntness

LONG BEACH — What do you say to a shivering prime minister?

"Mr. Trudeau, what is your stand on the population explosion?"

If the prime minister, emerging from surfing in 47-degree water, legs pink as Tofino crabs from the slap of icy waves, yellow towel draped rakishly around his ears, was astonished to be confronted by attractive 25-year-old Mrs. Marietta Hatler, her year-old daughter and her blunt question, he never batted an eye.

Mrs. Hatler, co-ordinator for the Tofino area for Zero Population Growth, a group dedicated to the premise that no family should have more than two children and so hold the world population at its present level, tackled the bachelor prime minister at the water's edge.

In 30 Years

"The world's population will soar to 7.4 billion in 30 years," Mrs. Hatler. "We see Canadian involvement in the population issue."

"I'm involved, I am concerned," Trudeau assured her, smiling, as he accepted a small brochure entitled: Presenting the Case, Population and Pollution.

It was one of many small incidents, typical of the friendly, informal atmosphere that prevailed throughout the prime minister's five-hour Sunday visit to the proposed West Coast Marine Park area.

One of the first and happiest to be greeted by the casually-clad prime minister was Mrs. A. O. (Nan) Jardine, 968 Gordon Street, Victoria, who said she "just happened to be visiting her daughter" — Mrs. Ruth White and Mrs. Theo Milne of Tofino. As Trudeau headed toward the fence to greet the small crowd, white-haired Mrs. Jardine flashed him a big smile and the familiar V sign.

Handshake

Reaching forward to shake her hand, Trudeau told her teasingly, "When you're diving, that's the sign that means there are sharks around."

"Well, I'm no shark," retorted the little grandmother, and went on to thank Trudeau for the "very courteous" reply she received when she wrote him after he had suggested publicly that people should make known their views on a new constitution.

The prime minister and his party later took off on a helicopter tour of the marine park area.

The helicopters whirled over mountains and hills to view Kennedy Lake, above rocky beaches and windswept breakers on nearby islands, finally touching down on the old Lifesaving Trail.

From there Trudeau — who arrived clad in heavy hiking boots — walked along the trail.

When Trudeau returned to the beach, among those greeting him was a number of hippies.

"When are you going to legalize marijuana?" asked one of the bearded youths.

"You mean you need grass to get high on in this magnificent area?" Trudeau quipped.

Long Hike

Chris Taylor, 11, from Schooner Cove, and Dennis Fales, 10, from Long Beach, had walked and hitch-hiked more than five miles to try and see Trudeau.

"I've never seen him alive," said Dennis, "but I always watch him on TV."

And the boys were finally rewarded with the sight of a very-much-alive prime minister.

Trudeau then buckled on a borrowed wet suit, and in company with accomplished surfer Robin Fell of Wickaninish Inn, and two others, spent more than half an hour in the water, although most of the swim-suited enthusiasts who followed him in popped out again, blue with cold and barnacled with goose-pimples in a matter of moments.

During his visit to the beach, RCMP and security guards were vigilant, but did not interfere as people surged around, shaking hands and, in the case of the youngsters, asking for and getting autographs and pictures.

A Surprise

If some of the visitors were surprised to find the prime minister was the person for whom the people were waiting, there was a little surprise for Esquimalt-Saanich MP David Anderson, too.

As Anderson and Trudeau stood side by side, an effusive lady pushed her way up, beaming with pleasure, grabbed Anderson's hand, pumped it heartily and said, "I'm a visitor from Seattle and I'm so delighted to meet you Mr. Trudeau."

"But ... But ..." stammered Anderson, but by that time the visitor was on her way, pushed along by the crowd, happily unaware of the mistake she had made. Meantime Trudeau, with an impish grin, kept on shaking hands with the others who surged around him.

There was a special handshake and a personal introduction for the greatgrandson of Chief Wickaninish, for whom the beach and the lodge are named. Alex McCarthy, hereditary chief in Ucluelet, and his wife Louise were among those disappointed when the helicopters failed to land the first time around.

'Stick Around'

They were preparing to go quietly back home after chatting with friends on the beach. "The Indian people are used to being disappointed," Mrs. McCarthy commented as they rose to go. Just then the word came.

"Stick around, he's on his way back here."

So the McCarthys waited, and they did meet Trudeau and shake hands with him.

Now they are hoping it may be an omen that the Indian people won't be disappointed again when it finally comes time to settle the park boundaries and the fate of the Indian reserves within it.

Cowichan District

School Areas Studied By Board

DUNCAN — "I think that we are in a bind." That was the opinion of Eric Lewis, Cowichan district schools superintendent, when he discussed the shortage of school space during a school board meeting Monday night.

Trustees approved his recommendation outlining new school attendance areas for 1970 to 1971.

Lewis said "Due to a lack of building space, we have three critical areas, but these are not clear-cut areas—they year they will be even less clear-cut, so it is therefore necessary to conclude that we are making only temporary provision."

* * *

In the Mill Bay-Shawnigan Lake area Grade 6 students will be sent to Shawnigan Lake which had a 25 per cent increase in its school population last year, bringing its total student enrolement to 87.

Lewis remarked: "Even Shawnigan is a problem, we should start looking for land for future use."

The Cowichan Station-Koksilah Bench area will also see some changes. The present Koksilah class average is 32, but is expected to go to 34 students next year. Lewis said that since it was not possible to build additional space, it would be necessary to lighten the class load.

* * *

He suggested that intermediate students from Koksilah should go to Cowichan Station.

Cowichan Station has a school population of 95 students which, according to Lewis "does not justify the use of four classrooms."

The Cowichan Station Grade 7 students would go to Bench, to eliminate sending students to Cowichan Station by bus.

The third area discussed was the Tansor-Duncan-Alexander area. Both Duncan and Tansor will need two new classrooms for the 1970 to 1971 period.

Environmental Information Centre:

Step to Model Community

Establishment here of an environmental information centre could be the first step in making Victoria a model community from an ecological point of view, it was suggested Saturday.

"We have to learn how to [illegible] naturally in our environment to our own benefit," said Rev. Walter Donald, a worker-priest with Christ Church Cathedral and youth co-ordinator for a Victoria radio station.

"Our society is going to live in an urban way for a long time yet, so the thing to consider is how do you develop an urban centre without polluting.

"Victoria is just starting to develop so there is still time here to develop an urban community that makes sense. If there were an environmental centre, it's possible we might be able to attract the people who have already advanced in studies of ecology who would maybe make Victoria a model centre."

Donald was commenting on the announcement Friday that a citizens' committee has formed to press for establishment in Victoria of an environmental education centre.

Response to the announcement was also favorable in other quarters.

* * *

"It would be virtually a survival centre," said Peter Bunn, of the Greater Victoria school board. "If we want to survive, we will have to do something about pollution.

"High school kids are already very involved, but many older adults are concerned and a central point is needed where the various groups can discuss information. It's absolutely essential that people become involved."

Bunn said he is sure the present concern being expressed for environmental quality is not a passing fancy.

* * *

Although the centre would not be used "as much as it should be," Bunn said "just the fact that it would be there and would have some really live people to keep it going would mean it would attract more and more people."

"It's a good idea," said Elton Anderson, vice-president of the B.C. Federation of Naturalists. "There's a real place for it if it's a straight information centre. It's just too difficult to run your own clipping service and then go through the information you've collected yourself."

* * *

Several area anti-pollution and conservation associations have already indicated support for the proposed centre.

As suggested by the citizens' committee, which includes persons such as Saanich Ald. Alan Newberry and University of Victoria ecologist Marc Bell, the centre would basically co-ordinate existing information sources on environment, interpret the information available, and offer citizens a greater opportunity for personal involvement.

A full-time ecologist and volunteer co-ordinator would be among those staffing the centre which could be established in an old house.

Mill Bay Days Please Residents, Visitors

MILL BAY — More than 1,000 people from the Cobble Hill area, Victoria, Vancouver and various Vancouver Island centres took part in the family fun of Mill Bay Days over the weekend.

Frank Mather of the organizing committee said, "It was highly successful and co-operation of everybody was phenomenal. Every segment of the community was involved.

"The hunting dog demonstration by Hunter Smith, the parachute jump by Roger Foley and the gymnastics display by students of Mount Prevost junior high school were tremendous crowd pleasers."

* * *

The Huck Finn Raft race, one of several competitions, Mather described as having been "hilarious." The three major organizations making the two-day event a full scale success were: Businessmen's Association of Mill Bay; Mill Bay community League and the Malahat Lions club. The Duncan Lions club helped with its pipe band. One of many helpers was Jim Drummond who took swimmers in his tug boat to the starting point of the Mill Bay shore.

Highlight of Saturday's events was the crowning of Debbie Hallet, 18, as Miss Mill Bay 1970. Her two princesses are Jacqueline Luff and Heather Mackenzie.

Benson's Biggie Easiest Catch

KAMLOOPS — Taking the afternoon off for a bit of fishing while touring the British Columbia interior to explain his tax policy, Finance Minister Edgar Benson was standing on a dock at nearby Lac le Jeune, fly rod in hand and waiting to enter a boat.

As he waited, a 4½-pound rainbow trout leaped from the water, twisted in mid-air and landed at the finance minister's feet. Benson dropped his rod and wrestled the fish to a standstill.

Although Benson hooked a few more pan-sized trout, his obliging rainbow was the best catch of the day.

This boy is missing out on a lot of things he could be having as a carrier boy for this newspaper—such things as money, trips and merchandise prizes. Many famous businessmen started their careers as newspaperboys.

Earning pocket money and winning special prizes are just two of the nice things that can happen to carrier boys. There are bigger advantages. A carrier boy goes into business for himself. At an early age, he learns how to get along with people. He does a bit of bookkeeping. He learns responsibility. He gains additional confidence. Is YOUR boy missing these things? If he's 12 years old or more, we suggest you (or he) get in touch with us, and hear about our carrier boy program.

Royer Makes It With Closing 69

CHICAGO (AP) — Hugh Royer, a career also-ran who hadn't even come close to winning a pro golf tournament, slipped past faltering Bobby Nichols Sunday and won the Western Open golf tournament.

Royer, a 33-year-old former club pro, withstood the grinding pressure of the stretch drive and the gloomy threat of a rain-out and shot a final 69, two under par on the steamy 6923-yard Beverly Country Club course.

LONG WAIT

That gave him an 11-under-par 72-hole total of 273 and his first victory in three and one-half years on the pro tour. The win was worth $26,000.

Nichols, the former PGA champ who held a one-stroke lead going into the weather-delayed round, fell apart coming home and finished with a 75 for 278.

Dale Douglass closed strongly and finished second, just one stroke off the pace. He had a final 69 and was in contention until he missed a birdie putt on the final hole.

Nichols finished in a tie for third at 278 with Jack Nicklaus, Bert Yancey, Tom Weiskopf and Jim Jamieson.

Nicklaus had a 69, Yancey a 70 and Weiskopf and Jamieson, a youngster in his second year on the tour, matched 71s.

Jamieson was paired with Arnold Palmer, who managed only a last-round 72 in this last warm-up before next week's United States Open, and finished with a disappointing 279.

Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver won $168 with a score of 71-73-75-74—293.

Building Talkathon Loses Plumbers

Guild's $35,000 Fine Revives Labor Gloom

Forest Men Back on Job

- World boycott of Canadian mail predicted if posties strike. Page 3.

BY DON COLLINS

The throb of life was returning quickly to the B.C. forest industry Monday with the end of the towboat strike, but there were warnings that more trouble may lie ahead.

A union source said there was considerable discontent over a $35,000 fine levied against the Canadian Merchant Service Guild Monday and that threat of further court action could disrupt delicate attempts to avoid a massive forest strike.

Another dark cloud formed over the B.C. labor horizon during the day when representatives of the plumbers' union walked out of marathon talks in Vancouver aimed at ending the construction lockout that began April 14. Four other unions are still involved in the talks.

The Key unions that worked out strategy together during the merchant service guild's crippling towboat strike were reported planning a special meeting in Vancouver for Monday night or first thing today.

It was to entail what, if any, action to take in the face of what unionists see as a possible continued use of the courts by forest companies.

* * *

A union source said there had been an agreement to drop damage actions once the towboat strike was over.

Reason Will Prevail—Bennett

An early solution to the construction industry dispute was predicted Monday by Premier Bennett. He also said "reason will prevail" to avoid a strike in the forest industry.

Bennett made the predictions in a conversation with federal Transport Minister Don Jamieson in Vancouver just before the opening of the Roberts Bank superport.

"There is a time for strikes and lockouts, but this isn't the time. This is a time for readjustment. It is a time for discussion around the bargaining table," the premier said.

Brazilian Prisoners Cheered in Algiers

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Forty Brazilian political prisoners arrived in Algeria Monday night aboard a chartered airliner to set the stage for the release of West German Ambassador Ehrenfried von Holleben, kidnapped in Rio de Janeiro [illegible]

A total of 44 persons emerged from the Brazilian Varig jetliner after it landed in Algiers. Four of them were the children of a terrorist known as Pavio who is being hunted by Brazilian police.

* * *

Von Hollegen's kidnappers have promised to release the West German envoy after they receive proof the prisoners have arrived safely in Algeria.

Miguel Arraes, former governor of Pernambuco in Brazil and a refugee in Algiers for four years, told newsmen the group included 34 men, six women and the four children.

A final condition of the kidnappers was met Monday night when Rio television stations broadcast a photo of the prisoners arriving in Algiers.

* * *

The freed prisoners were given a welcome by officials from the Algerian foreign ministry and by an applauding crowd of political refugees from other countries who have found asylum in Algeria.

Algerian officials said the political refugees will be housed in homes in the hills overlooking Algiers. Those who wish to leave Algeria will be given travel documents, they said.

The departure of the prisoners from Rio on a silver-blue Varig airline Boeing 707 at 7:32 a.m. PDT, met the kidnappers' demands that the group — among them six women and some of Brazil's most wanted terrorists — be released within a 36-hour deadline.

Von Ehrenfried was seized by terrorists in a daring raid near his residence but the government did not receive ransom demands until midnight Saturday.

* * *

Several hundred persons crowded the observation decks at the Galeao airport, including newsmen, relatives of the prisoners and detectives. Many of the relatives were tearful. No civilians were permitted near the aircraft. A government news agency photographer took pool photographs of the pris-

Wage-Brake Watchers Find NDP Watching

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will investigate "allegations" that staff members of the prices and incomes commission were guaranteed a starting salary of 15 per cent over their former salaries and annual increases of more than 6 per cent, the Commons was told Monday.

New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas cited these figures and asked the government to look into the salaries of the commission—the government's vanguard in the fight on inflation.

The commission has recommended restriction of wage and salary increases to 6 per cent, and commission chairman John Young Sunday proposed the limit be dropped to 4 per cent.

Solicitor-General George McIlraith said he would be "glad to have the allegations looked into."

Prodded further by Douglas, the minister said he would try to give the answer to the Commons this week.

The chairman of the prices and incomes commission is paid between $37,000 and $40,000 a year. As a dean at the University of British Columbia before his federal appointment, he earned about $20,000 a year.

Inquiry Scorches NASA, Contractors

Apollo 13 Was Time Bomb

HOUSTON (UPI) — Negligence from the launch pad through the entire Apollo program and its contractors, along with poor design caused the explosion of an Apollo 13 oxygen tank near the moon, a space agency investigation board said Monday.

Board chairman Edgar Cortright blamed the space agency and two of its contractors for allowing substandard heater thermostat switches installed in the Apollo command ship.

* * *

He said failure of these switches started the chain of events leading to the explosion April 13.

"The position the board has taken is that the error is the fault of all parties that participated — NASA, North American Rockwell Corp. and Beech Aircraft Corp.," Cortright said.

* * *

Cortright also said failure of the switches during a practice countdown left Apollo 13 and its Saturn 5 rocket standing on the launch pad as a potential bomb for two weeks before blastoff on April 11.

Two days later Apollo 13's oxygen tank exploded 205,000 miles deep in space and prevented America's third moon landing. Astronauts James Lovell, Fred Haise and John Swigert battled for 87 hours in a harrowing trip around the moon and back to Earth.

Cortright, NASA's Langley research centre director, said his $1,200,000 investigation showed that Beech Aircraft of Boulder, Colo., manufacturer of the oxygen tank, failed to follow instruction to order upgraded switches for the tank during modifications to the Apollo command ship in 1965.

The switches were to have been altered to take 65 volts of direct current instead of 28 volts.

* * *

Neither the prime Apollo command ship contractor, North American Rockwell of Downey, Calif., nor the space agency caught the failure, Cortright said.

On March 27-28, during unusual severe efforts to empty the oxygen tank after a practice countdown at Cape Kennedy, 65 volts were applied to the switch and welded

$10 Million to Reflect 'Greatness of Canada'

- Bennett opens one superport, wants another. Page 8.

- Icy waves, blunt questions punctuate Trudeau Tofino visit. Page 21.

Colonist Legislature Reporter

Premier Bennett said Monday the major portion of a $10,000,000 federal gift to commemorate the centenary of B.C.'s entering Confederation will be used to finance a major project designed to "reflect the greatness of Canada."

The federal grant was announced by Prime Minister Trudeau at the opening of the Roberts Bank superport Monday. He told the assembled guests the gift will be a contribution by all Canadians to make a stronger nation.

Bennett later told reporters some of the federal money will be used to provide per capita grants to finance local centennial projects throughout the province.

Details Remain Secret

But he added a major portion of the gift from Ottawa would be used to finance a major centennial project. He said this would likely be a building but refused to say what kind.

It will not be a monument, he added, unless it is a "monument to service."

"It will not be a fountain, it will not be a theatre," Bennett said. "It is something I can't mention yet."

He said Deputy Provincial Secretary Lawrie Wallace has been delegated to work out the details of the project with Ottawa.

Slick flows downriver in Athabasca

Oil Flows 150 Miles into Lake Athabasca

Town's Water in Peril

FORT CHIPEWYAN, Alta. (CP) — Oil from a fractured pipeline has moved more than 150 miles into Lake Athabasca and threatens this community's water supply and its livelihood.

The synthetic crude from the Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. pipeline at Fort McMurray has travelled along the Athabasca River to the lake — the town's water source.

Great Canadian officials say water can be taken from below the surface oil, but biologists are not sure this would be safe.

* * *

They fear the emulsifying agent — this has been sprayed onto the lake — breaks the synthetic crude into small particles which sink to lower levels, but don't necessarily go to the bottom.

The community's reservoir when filled holds 8,000,000 gallons of water, enough for one year. Now, however, it contains only about two months supply.

Under normal conditions there would be no problems, but the oil slick has caused an emergency.

The Bennett Dam on the Peace River has caused the level of Lake Athabasca to drop and more pipe is needed to fill the reservoir.

Prior to the oil spill the town was in no hurry for new pipe but now it must have it quickly.

Another concern caused by the oil entering Lake Athabasca is for the young fishing industry, which was started by the largely-native community to replace the failing trapping industry.

* * *

The oil could injure major fish-spawning areas in the east end of the lake.

Biologists fear the thin film

Royals Defeat Cougars, 2-1 To Stay in First-Place Tie

Unbeaten Victoria Royals and defending-champions Vancouver Spartans remained deadlocked for the lead in the Coastal Divisions after Sunday action in the Western Canada Soccer League.

Royals won their third straight match after drawing with Spartans in their league debut, downing the Cougars, 2-1, in Vancouver. Spartans romped to a 6-2 victory over Sea-Tacs in Seattle.

IT WAS CLOSE

Victoria did not lead in the match until six minutes from time when Ash Valdal broke a 1-1 deadlock with his third goal in two games, hitting a 10-yard shot to finish a play with Brian Robinson.

Robinson, who did not start because of a tender ankle, was called to duty early in the first half when playing-coach Brian Hughes suffered a recurrence of an ankle injury he received in the last match with Cougars.

Cougars took the lead in the 33rd minute when right-winger Don Wilson took a quick pass from Lenny Brown and beat Barry Sadler from 12 yards.

IN SHORT ORDER

However, left-winger Peter Wilson, sprung loose by a headed pass from Peter Roberts, tied the game seven minutes later with his first goal of the season.

Cougars opened strongly and almost took the lead in the 12th minute when Brown chipped the ball over Sadler's head. The goalkeeper recovered quickly and stopped the ball just before it went over the line.

At Seattle, John Connors and John Haar each scored twice in the second half to lead Spartans to their comeback victory.

Coco de Vittori scored both Seattle goals before Vanni Lenarduzzi scored for Spartans with five minutes left in the first half. Bruce Wilson tied the game early in the second half.

Bobby Hough announced after the game that he was stepping down as Sea-Tac player-coach and team officials said a new coach will be named during the week.

Seattle plays in Victoria on Saturday at 8 p.m. in Royal Athletic Park.

In a Prairie Division match Saturday, John Schepers scored both goals to give leading Regina Concordia a 2-1 victory over Edmonton City in Regina.

Nanaimo Tops Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI — Nanaimo Labatts started quickly and went on to a 15-10 victory over Port Alberni Saturday in Vancouver Island Senior Lacrosse League play here.

Pete Ashbee and Larry Biggs led the winners with three goals each. Ken Maughan (2), Murray Thomas, Dave Ranger, Steve Bishop, Don Morelli and Gerry Shires got the other goals for Nanaimo, which led, 6-2, after one period and 12-6 after the second.

Bill Thompson had three goals for Port Alberni. Dave Peffers (2), Bob Jones, Pete Weatherton, Brian Van Horne, Brian Boylas and Brian Waugh completed Port Alberni's scoring.

Women Post Relay Record

NEW YORK (AP) — The Atoms Track Club of Brooklyn broke the world mark for the women's one-mile relay Saturday at the Metropolitan Amateur Athletic Union track championships.

The foursome of Michaelle McMillan, Shelly Marshall, Gail Fitzgerald and Cheryl Toussaint turned in a 3:46.2 clocking, well under the world mark of 3:47.8.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals have traded right-handed pitcher George Culver to Houston Astros for infielder Leon McFadden and outfielder Jim Beauchamp.

McFadden, 26, will go to the Cardinals' minor league club in Tulsa, Okla. Beauchamp, 30, will join St. Louis as a reserve outfielder and pinch hitter.

Another Win For Kershaw

MONROE, Wash. — Gary Kershaw of Victoria posted his sixth straight main-event victory in top stock-car racing competition on Sunday in the Early-Late Stock Car Association Northwest championships.

Kershaw took the 100-lap feature after placing second in qualifying time and the trophy dash and winning the fast heat.

Ranger Star In Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Arnie Brown, New York Rangers' defenceman, underwent weekend surgery for the removal of cartilage in his right knee, the National Hockey League team said Monday.

He is expected to be in hospital until Thursday.

For McLaren Team

Gurney Instant Success

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — Dan Gurney joined the McLaren racing team during the weekend and the first thing he did for them was win the $75,000 Can-Am event for sports-racing cars.

It was the 21st Can-Am victory for the McLaren organization since the international series for big-bore sports cars started in 1966.

The 30-year-old Californian was driving the car that team founder Bruce McLaren would have driven in Sunday's race had he lived. The New Zealand car-builder and racer died two weeks ago while testing a car in Britain.

* * *

To win Sunday he had to get out in front of McLaren teammate Denis Hulme of New Zealand and then win a 36-lap dice with Jackie Oliver of England, who was driving a British-designed, U.S.-built Autocoast.

Sunday's race was the opener of the 11-race, $1,000,000 Can-Am series, richest in motor sport. Gurney said he plans to stay with the McLarens for the rest of the season, and that includes Formula I racing too.

For his day's work, he won the Labatt's Blue Trophy and $14,450 in prize and accessory money. He also broke track records.

* * *

His average speed for the 200-mile race was 110.241 miles an hour compared with the previous Can-Am mark of 105.901 set by McLaren.

He also chipped one-tenth of a second off the lap record for the 2.45-mile road track when he was clocked at one minute, 18.0 seconds. The previous mark was set last year by Jackie Ickx of Belgium and Australian Jack Brabham in Formula I machines.

Oliver, a 27-year-old Cockney, was runner-up, almost 18 seconds behind Gurney.

Hulme, his engine overheating and his hands still bandaged from burns received in a practice accident before last month's Indy 500, was third, two laps behind the leader.

Five Canadians started the race, with Roger McCaig of Regina coming in fifth in a McLaren. Gord Dewar of Ottawa came sixth, also in a McLaren.

Rainier Brezinka of Toronto, driving an out-dated McLaren, placed 10th. John Cordts of Barrie, Ont., driving a McLaren, made a good showing in early stages of the race but had to retire on the 45th lap and was placed 15th.

George Eaton of Toronto drove the first BRM ever to enter the Can-Am series but retired on the 33rd lap.

Vern Buffey To Scout For Canucks

VANCOUVER (CP) — General manager Bud Poile of Vancouver Canucks announced Monday that veteran National Hockey League referee Vern Buffey will join the club Sept. 1.

The 41-year-old Buffey will work as the Canucks special representative for Eastern Canada and will live in Montreal. He will scout the pros, amateurs and college players in the East.

Buffey spent 11 seasons officiating for the NHL and for the last four years was the league's number one referee.

He announced his retirement two weeks ago after a series of injuries.

Gorge Hospital: Plans May Double

Architects preparing the working drawings for a 150-bed extended care addition to Gorge Road Hospital are looking into the cost of doubling the project's size.

William Morrison, the hospital's administrator, said Monday the architects' investigation is necessary before Gorge Road and other authorities decide on a proposal made 10 days ago by Dr. Scott Wallace, the Social Credit member of the Legislature for Oak Bay.

* * *

Wallace suggested the 150-bed extended care unit planned for Royal Jubilee Hospital should be switched to the Gorge. He said Jubilee's cost estimates were far above those suggested by the government while Gorge Road's, for a unit of identical size, were within government guidelines.

As a result, he said it probably would be faster to get 300 beds in one place — that is to say, Gorge Road — rather than 300 beds divided equally between that hospital and Royal Jubilee.

* * *

Morrison said Gorge Road's architects, Wade, Stockdill, Armour and Blewitt, had one or two more estimates to make in respect of the original 150-bed concept when the Wallace theory arrived on their desks.

Wallace's idea has been approved by Gorge Road Hospital's board of directors but they do not want it to cause any lengthy delays in construction.

All-Star Squad Tests Abilities

A select group of young carpentry apprentices will spend eight difficult hours Friday demonstrating under public scrutiny just what has been accomplished in four years of on-job and classroom training.

The 15 of them (nine in carpentry and six in millwork) form a sort of B.C. all-star team of apprentices, chosen from various areas by virtue of classroom records and reports from carpenters and employers.

The practical work tests Friday and written examinations Saturday will lead to the selection of one apprentice from each group — carpentry and millwork — for an international competition later this summer at Denver, Colo.

The provincial event is the eighth annual apprenticeship contest sponsored by the Carpentry Apprenticeship Joint Board of B.C. — a body made up of both management and the carpenters' union.

Germs Lurking

By JOHN MATTERS

An official of the Hospital Employees' Union said Monday that patients' meals have been delayed and the danger of a staphylococcus outbreak is increasing as more workers are laid off in B.C. hospitals.

Ray MacCready, business manager of the 8,500-member Local 180, also said Health Minister Ralph Loffmark has not kept his promise to look into the possibility of having hospital workers covered by unemployment insurance.

* * *

MacCready said the lack of unemployment insurance benefits means hospital layoffs are inordinately expensive to the province because the jobless often have to get welfare benefits.

If they were covered by unemployment insurance, the employer's share of the premiums would be about $4 a month for each employee.

The HEU official said the meals for patients on the sixth floor of Vancouver General Hospital's Centennial Pavilion were as much as 90 minutes late Monday.

This was because one tray line in the dietary department was laid off last week.

He also said hospitals were having to dry-mop patients rooms and corridors because of a lack of personnel. Wet-mopping, which takes more time, is the only effective way to killsuch virus as staphylococcus, he said.

* * *

"We are going to have an outbreak of staph as the hospitals get dirtier," he said. "Five or six years ago, Royal Columbian in New Westminster had such an outbreak and 50 per cent of its employees at one time were off work."

(The incidence of all hospital-acquired post-operative infections is about 5 per cent. It would be two or three months before any increase would show up in statistics, say hospital authorities, and even then such things as the patients' susceptibility and the virulence of the organism would have to be considered.)

MacCready said the union, which is certified in all major B.C. hospitals except Royal Jubilee in Victoria, has 22 documented cases of "patient misadventure."

He said two information pickets from the HEU were prevented by the RCMP from confronting Premier Bennett at the Roberts Bank opening ceremony Monday.

HEU pickets plan to follow Bennett wherever he travels in the province, said MacCready. One of their signs says: "Mr. Premier, Talk Don't Run."

* * *

Also joining the protest over Loffmark's announcement that B.C. Hospital Insurance Service will pay only 70 per cent of wage increases awarded since Jan. 1 is the Registered Nurses' Association of B.C.

RNABC wants a public inquiry into hospital financing and is sponsoring newspaper advertisements that are headed, "Why Punish the Sick?" They go on to say that safe nursing care cannot be promised in this province.

A spokesman for RNABC said Monday the organization was uncertain whether it would continue its advertising campaign or whether it would join HEU members on information picket lines.

Opening today, a vast new source of energy for the world.

A 50-foot thick coal seam — part of one of the richest coking coal deposits in the world. There are more than a billion tons of high grade coking coal here in Canada's largest coal mine, which has just been dedicated in the southeast corner of British Columbia.

People have known about this fabulous coal deposit for years; but they didn't have the market or the technology to get the coal out and into the mainstream of international commerce.

Today, Kaiser Resources Ltd., is putting new life into these historic old mines.

The project called for big equipment: mammoth 200-ton trucks, the largest walking drag line in Canada, and CP Rail's unit train operation. These "perpetual motion" trains — hooking up 11 locomotives with 88 cars — will haul the coal 700 miles to our new bulk loading facility at the Roberts Bank superport, just south of Vancouver.

The project called for big money. Kaiser Resources has already invested $110 million.

The project called for big experience. Long experience in the production and shipment of coking coal and iron ore for steelmaking has helped us to move this coal into world markets.

What does this mean to Canada? More jobs, new houses in new communities, more tax revenue, bigger and better transportation equipment and port facilities, a big new life for an old industry — and a billion dollars in foreign exchange to help our balance of payments over the next fifteen years.

The coal fields of British Columbia are truly on the threshold of becoming a vast new source of energy for the world.

Garden Hit By Vandals

DUNCAN — Vandals hit the vegetable garden of Frank Douglas, 62, of 187 Queens, Saturday.

Douglas told the Daily Colonist Monday, "I am deeply hurt. We live on a very small income and the vegetable garden provides a great part of our food.

"I have never in my life hurt anyone and whenever the community is in need of help we give it. I have been hunting all over Canada in my younger years but I have given it up. Today I feel sorry for all the defenceless animals I have shot, but, so help me God If one of these two-legged predators comes into my property I shall shoot and ask questions later."

He said the vandals, pulled up carrots and just left them lying. They also ripped out the bottom of a bird-feeder which hangs on a tree near his home.

Douglas said last year vandals entered his property three times.

Douglas has suffered three coronary attacks and had to give up a job at Crofton pulp mill three years ago before reaching retirement age.

From 1934 until 1956, he worked as a bus driver for the Vancouver Island Coach Lines. Duncan RCMP said there were other cases of vandalism in local gardens over the weekend. All were being investigated.

Courtenay Celebration

Seattle Band Will Appear

By RUTH McKELLAR

COURTENAY — A Seattle dance band, The Elizah, featuring Mark Stubbs, soloist, Norm Bennett, James Casey and Darrel Krueger is becoming well known on the Coast and will play at a teen dance Wednesday, July 1, to mark the end of a two-day celebration.

Plans for all events are almost complete, the July 1 committee headed by Mrs. Myrtle Vickberg announced recently.

* * *

Tuesday has been designated as Frontier Day and will feature a program beginning at 1 p.m. in the civic parking centre. Horses, square dancing, folk music and pancakes are among some of the items already planned. This portion of the holiday celebrations is being handled by the Comox Valley Riding Club.

One new event to take place July 1 will be a fire chiefs' race. Fire department heads from Courtenay, Comox, Cumberland, Union Bay and CFB Comox will race for a hand-painted bucket. All further details of the event are being kept secret.

* * *

Another secret is the annual race between Myrtle Vickberg, Dan Campbell and the base commander of CFB Comox, Col. Grant Nichols. Bullwhips; saddles, horses and weight watching have all been tossed out as bait to attract visitors for the 2:45 p.m. event. A special trophy for this race has been donated by Mrs. Jack Parkin, in memory of her husband who was a strong supporter of the July 1 activities.

* * *

The mamoth parade will begin at Lake Trail school and will be led by Legion color parties representing ten branches in the Comox Valley, and the auxiliaries. Four bands, including the Legion pipe band, will be in the parade. Parade marshal is Randy Klaver.

Elks' kiddies sports events will be featured again and begin at 11:45 a.m. in Lewis Park.

Pie-eating contests will take place at noon in the park, followed by a teen rock and folk exhibition. Bingo will run all afternoon from 1 p.m. and an exhibition of skydiving will be held at 2 p.m.

The popular bandsmen's race will be featured again. In it the racers must play and carry their instruments as they race.

* * *

Another event destined to bring laughter to some and sore muscles to others is the old-timers' ball game.

Elementary and junior high school students will have chances to win six bikes to be drawn for at 3:45 p.m.

The annual long distance swim from Comox wharf to Royston will take place Tuesday, June 30, at 5:30 p.m. Prizes will be awarded July 1. The CRA will hold a bathing beauty contest in the afternoon of July 1 and in addition, there will be many more attractions including horseshoe pitching contests, band concerts and a tattoo.

Classes Draw Criticism

NANAIMO — Last winter the city parks and recreation commission set a policy for swim classes requiring city residents to register the first day and district residents the second day.

On the first day of registration, recently there were scattered complaints from people living outside the city who were told to return the following day.

Reason for the policy was that the commission felt the pool is operating at a small deficit (about $9,000 last year) and city taxpayers should have first use of the city-owned pool.

Superintendent Harry Wipper said he had expected a barrage of criticism when registrations began, but was "quite pleasantly surprised" at the sympathetic reaction of most outside residents, despite a few complaints.

Wipper explained that the policy had been well advertised and it does not mean exclusion of district residents from using the pool.

Airline Loses Service Licence

OTTAWA (CP) — The licence of Island Airlines Ltd. to operate a commerical air service from a base at Powell River, has been cancelled, the Canadian Transport Commission announced Monday.

The company previously had been required to show cause why its licence should not be cancelled "for failure to meet the requirements of the department of transport for its flying training operations," the commission said.

The company had not replied.

Boy Attacked

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Stephen Doheny, 11, of Vancouver, had his face cut with a straight razor in an attack by another boy. There was no apparent reason for the attack, police said.

Remarkable gasoline breakthrough from the research laboratories of Standard Oil

BEFORE
"This car was sealed in a clear plastic bag with the engine running. The bag started to fill with dirty exhaust until the exhaust completely obscured the car. This shows how exhaust emissions from dirty engines go into the air and waste mileage."

Scott Carpenter
Astronaut/Aquanaut
Personally witnesses this dramatic demonstration.

AFTER F-310
"The same car — after running on just six tanksful of Chevron with Formula F-310. Dirty exhaust emissions reduced sharply. The bag remains clear! No dirty smoke. Chevron with F-310 turns dirty smoke into good clean mileage."

New F-310 in Chevron gasolines turns dirty exhaust into good clean mileage.

Now, research scientists at Chevron Research Company have achieved the most long awaited gasoline development in history! It's a new gasoline additive — Formula F-310* — that sharply reduces dirty exhaust from dirty engines. And helps toward cleaner air.

Tests conducted by Scott Research Laboratories, an independent research group, showed that Chevron gasolines with F-310 reduced unburned hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide exhaust emissions dramatically. Clearly, this is a major step towards solving one of today's most urgent problems.

F-310 also improves mileage, because dirty exhaust is really wasted gasoline. So F-310 literally keeps good mileage from going up in smoke.

How does an engine produce dirty exhaust in the first place? As a car accumulates mileage, deposits build up. The amounts of gasoline and air fed into the engine get out of balance. This causes the engine to "run rich", wasting gasoline. As a result, excessive unburned hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide exhaust emissions go into the air. F-310 can correct this condition. Just six tanksful can do the job.

Formula F-310, a patented gasoline additive, is now available in both grades of Chevron gasolines at all Chevron Dealers Standard Stations in the Lower Mainland and on Vancouver Island. As soon as additional supplies are available, we'll be introducing this remarkable development elsewhere throughout British Columbia.

Grandmother Gives Trudeau V Sign

Icy Waves and Blunt Questions

LONG BEACH — What do you say to a shivering prime minister?

"Mr. Trudeau, what is your stand on the population explosion?"

If the prime minister, emerging from surfing in 47-degree water, legs pink as Tofino crabs from the slap of icy waves, yellow towel draped rakishly around his ears, was astonished to be confronted by attractive 25-year-old Mrs. Marietta Hatler, her year-old daughter and her blunt question, he never batted an eye.

Mrs. Hatler, co-ordinator for the Tofino area for Zero Population Growth, a group dedicated to the premise that no family should have more than two children and so hold the world population at its present level, tackled the bachelor prime minister at the water's edge.

In 30 Years

"The world's population will soar to 7.4 billion in 30 years," Mrs. Hatler. "We see Canadian involvement in the population issue."

"I'm involved, I am concerned," Trudeau assured her, smiling, as he accepted a small brochure entitled: Presenting the Case, Population and Pollution.

It was one of many small incidents, typical of the friendly, informal atmosphere that prevailed throughout the prime minister's five-hour Sunday visit to the proposed West Coast Marine Park area.

One of the first and happiest to be greeted by the casually-clad prime minister was Mrs. A. O. (Nan) Jardine, 906 Gordon Street, Victoria, who said she "just happened to be visiting her daughter" — Mrs. Ruth White and Mrs. Theo Milne of Tofino. As Trudeau headed toward the fence to greet the small crowd, white-haired Mrs. Jardine flashed him a big smile and the familiar V sign.

Handshake

Reaching forward to shake her hand, Trudeau told her teasingly, "When you're diving, that's the sign that means there are sharks around."

"Well, I'm no shark," retorted the little grandmother, and went on to thank Trudeau for the "very courteous" reply she received when she wrote him after he had suggested publicly that people should make known their views on a new constitution.

The prime minister and his party later took off on a helicopter tour of the marine park area.

The helicopters whirled over mountains and hills to view Kennedy Lake, above rocky beaches and windswept breakers on nearby islands, finally touching down on the old Lifesaving Trail.

From there Trudeau — who arrived clad in heavy hiking boots — walked along the trail.

When Trudeau returned to the beach, among those greeting him was a number of hippies.

"When are you going to legalize marijuana?" asked one of the bearded youths.

"You mean you need grass to get high on in this magnificent area?" Trudeau quipped.

Long Hike

Chris Taylor, 11, from Schooner Cove, and Dennis Fales, 10, from Long Beach, had walked and hitch-hiked more than five miles to try and see Trudeau.

"I've never seen him alive," said Dennis, "but I always watch him on TV."

And the boys were finally rewarded with the sight of a very-much-alive prime minister.

Trudeau then buckled on a borrowed wet suit, and in company with accomplished surfer Robin Fell of Wickaninish Inn, and two others, spent more than half an hour in the water, although most of the swim-suited enthusiasts who followed him in popped out again, blue with cold and barnacled with goose-pimples in a matter of moments.

During his visit to the beach, RCMP and security guards were vigilant, but did not interfere as people surged around, shaking hands and, in the case of the youngsters, asking for and getting autographs and pictures.

A Surprise

If some of the visitors were surprised to find the prime minister was the person for whom the people were waiting, there was a little surprise for Esquimalt-Saanich MP David Anderson, too.

As Anderson and Trudeau stood side by side, an effusive lady pushed her way up, beaming with pleasure, grabbed Anderson's hand, pumped it heartily and said, "I'm a visitor from Seattle and I'm so delighted to meet you Mr. Trudeau."

"But . . . But . . ." stammered Anderson, but by that time the visitor was on her way, pushed along by the crowd, happily unaware of the mistake she had made. Meantime Trudeau, with an impish grin, kept on shaking hands with the others who surged around him.

There was a special handshake and a personal introduction for the greatgrandson of Chief Wickaninish, for whom the beach and the lodge are named. Alex McCarthy, hereditary chief in Ucluelet, and his wife Louise were among those disappointed when the helicopters failed to land the first time around.

'Stick Around'

They were preparing to go quietly back home after chatting with friends on the beach. "The Indian people are used to being disappointed," Mrs. McCarthy commented as they rose to go. Just then the word came.

"Stick around, he's on his way back here."

So the McCarthys waited, and they did meet Trudeau and shake hands with him.

Now they are hoping it may be an omen that the Indian people won't be disappointed again when it finally comes time to settle the park boundaries and the fate of the Indian reserves within it.

Merger Vote Study Continues

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO — It is 10 days since the amalgamation vote in Nanaimo and the five surrounding districts was defeated by 31 votes.

In that time, regional board members and the Citizen's Committee for a New Nanaimo have been analyzing the results of the referendum and, in meeting in the next few weeks, will be discussing which way they will move in the future.

Ted Barsby, citizens committee chairman, with executive members Bruce Meikle and Dave Stupich, covered 27 meetings two weeks before the vote.

Don Beaton regional chairman, said the group will meet June 23.

"We must determine whether or not the issue of amalgamation is dead," he said.

What powers the board will assume depended entirely on how the people of the district wanted to be served he said. He indicated that land use control would definitely be considered by the board.

Harewood trustees will hold a regular meeting Thursday and trustee Rod Glen said the vote would certainly be discussed.

Ron Biggs, chairman of Departure Bay Improvement District, said there was no question in his mind that amalgamation would come some day but he hoped that information about the form it would take, and about tax structures, would be less vague.

Andy Plecas, a Departure Bay trustee, said if the subject came up again, it should come from the people of the area and suggested an opting out system instead of the 60 per cent overall vote.

He said the timing of the vote was poor with the unrest on the labor scene and the current inflation scare. He had high praise for the work of the members of the citizens committee, especially Barsby, Meikle and Stupich who spoke at so many meetings in the area.

Cowichan District

School Areas Studied By Board

DUNCAN — "I think that we are in a bind." That was the opinion of Eric Lewis, Cowichan district schools superintendent, when he discussed the shortage of school space during a school board meeting Monday night.

Trustees approved his recommendation outlining new school attendance areas for 1970 to 1971.

Lewis said "Due to a lack of building space, we have three critical areas, but these are not clear-cut areas—they year they will be even less clear-cut, so it is therefore necessary to conclude that we are making only temporary provision."

* * *

In the Mill Bay-Shawnigan Lake area Grade 6 students will be sent to Shawnigan Lake which had a 25 per cent increase in its school population last year, bringing its total student enrolement to 87.

Lewis remarked: "Even Shawnigan is a problem, we should start looking for land for future use."

The Cowichan Station-Koksilah Bench area will also see some changes. The present Koksilah class average is 32, but is expected to go to 34 students next year. Lewis said that since it was not possible to build additional space, it would be necessary to lighten the class load.

* * *

He suggested that intermediate students from Koksilah should go to Cowichan Station.

Cowichan Station has a school population of 95 students which, according to Lewis "does not justify the use of four classrooms."

The Cowichan Station Grade 7 students would go to Bench, to eliminate sending students to Cowichan Station by bus.

The third area discussed was the Tansor-Duncan-Alexander area. Both Duncan and Tansor will need two new classrooms for the 1970 to 1971 period.

Travellers, Businesses Feel Pinch

Tourist Dollar Thinner

By JIM BRAHAN

Although it is too early in the season to be definite, indications were Saturday in Victoria that the tourist dollar is going to be harder than usual to come by this year.

All motels along Gorge Road still had their red neon vacancy signs glowing after 10 p.m., and one motel owner said last month was the worst May she had seen since the motel opened in 1953.

* * *

Victoria police Sgt. Ron Bentley, who has been with the traffic department for 18 years, said:

"I have never seen so few U.S. licence plates on the streets before at this time of year. Maybe the big rush will come later."

He also noted that the traffic entering Victoria by the Black Ball ferry was slower than usual.

The tourist bureau at the Causeway said it had a busy Saturday and had served about 350 people.

Tourist bureau commissioner Mike Heppell said the CPR ferry, Princess Marguerite, running between Victoria and Seattle, brought in 1,600 passengers Saturday.

* * *

"Of course I have no idea if they are going to stay a half day or two days or what," he said.

Heppell also said that according to the B.C. ferries they brought in 900 more cars to Vancouver Island last month than they had during the corresponding time last year. But there was no way of telling how many of these brought people to stay in Victoria.

Early Saturday, the cruise ship MV Italia docked at Ogden Point with 270 passengers. The 12,000-ton ship is capable of carrying 480 passengers.

* * *

Passenger Robbie Sue Smith of Alhambra, Calif., said most of the passengers return to the ship for meals which are paid for in the initial fare. They also return to their staterooms at night instead of going to a hotel.

"After all, it is all paid for," said her husband Andrew, a locomotive engineer for the Southern Pacific Railway.

The ship leaves Monday and is due back here June 27.

B.C. Motel and Resort Association president Jack Hepburn said he thought that his business was about the same at this time last year.

* * *

"However, there is more shopping around for motels now. People are looking closer at the dollar. They come in and get the rates and then go to another motel to check rates," he said.

He observed there had been several bus tour cancellations from the U.S. because the tours could not be filled up.

Some Victoria restaurants said they noticed a falling off of the tourist trade. Others said they found business about the same as for this time last year.

One of the many cab drivers waiting for cruise ship passengers at dockside said he was much busier at this time last year.

"The tourist season should have started by now. I sure hope business picks up by July.

"I guess a taxi is considered a luxury by many people and when money is tight our business just slows down," he said.

* * *

Esquimalt innkeeper Sam Lane said he didn't expect the real impact of tourists to peak until about June 19, after the children are out of school.

He agreed that motels and restaurants would not get a great share of the cruise ship passenger money.

"But the downtown retail stores will benefit," he said.

Yugoslav Ace Upsets Laver

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia upset Australia's Rod Laver in the final of the $24,000 Bristol Open Lawn Tennis Championship, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

Both players were warming up for the Wimbledon championships later this month and reigning Wimbledon champion Laver looked decidedly out of touch as the big Yugoslav pounded home forehand smashes to the baseline.

City Team Beaten In Playoff

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Molsons won the 13th annual Northwest Invitational men's softball tournament on Sunday, trouncing Bates Construction of Victoria, 11-3, in a playoff game.

STREAK ENDED

Bates forced the extra game by handing Molsons their first defeat in 20 games by scoring a 4-2 decision earlier Sunday.

Barry Jackson and Gordie Houston, who collaborated in the victory, couldn't stop Molsons the second time around. The Vancouver culb got five runs in the third inning to knock out Jackson, finished Houston with a two-run fourth inning and then knocked out Bob Labelle in a four-run sixth.

U.S. Keeps Tennis Cup

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) The U.S. women's tennis team retained the Wightman Cup Saturday when the make shift doubles team of Mrs. Billie Jean King and Peaches Bartkowicz defeated Virginia Wade and Winnie Shaw of Britain, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2, in the seventh and deciding match.

The doubles triumph gave the United States a 4-3 edge in the seven-match series and brought the American girls their 35th triumph against only seven for Britain since the Cup was inaugurated in 1923.

Nanaimo Man Given Post

NANAIMO — Nanaimo lawyer E. D. Strongitharm QC was elected treasurer of the 2,000-member B.C. Law Society at Harrison Hot Springs Saturday. Strongitharm has been a bencher — a member of the society's governing body — for 12 years.

Extended-Care Site

'Pensioners Overlooked'

The needs of prospective patients have been ignored in the allocation of extended care beds, some Victoria area old age pensioners charged Saturday.

"Health minister Ralph Loffmark should refuse to approve those 150 extended-care beds which have been given to St. Joseph's Hospital," said pensioner and former Capital Regional Board director William Reader.

"The hospital board considered the desires of the doctors. It considered the wants of the politicians, and forgot about the patients," said Reader.

* * *

"Old people — and these are the ones who will occupy most of the extended care beds — should never be stuck in town in a concrete block surrounded by automobile fumes."

"It looks as if they want to hide the old people in little concrete cells until they die," commented Sooke Old Age Pensioners branch president Phyllis Johnson.

"That hospital should be built out of town where the air is pure.

"We notice the diference and the smell in the city as soon as we get into Victoria." she said. "We know old people shouldn't be ill in bed there."

* * *

Grace Sherwood, president of Victoria Old Age Pensioners branch No. 1 agreed.

"That's an awful bustling area down there to put old people into," she said. "Old people can't stand fumes in the air, they're very sensitive to them."

"I don't think the hospital planners care what the old people want at all."

Reader said many old people who need extended care suffer from breathing problems.

* * *

"Many suffer from bronchitis or emphysemia and need pure air," he said.

"It's time that people — not doctors, not politicians and not dollars and cents — were the main criteria for judging hospital sites."

He said he did not think it right for the hospital board to pay the Sisters of St. Ann $1,500,000 for the academy land to build a hospital there.

* * *

"I realize that the good sisters have worked hard over the years. I realize that they will be turning over St. Joseph's Hospital without charge once the land deal is completed, but after all the religious order is not a profit-making body — they are dedicated to service and that is their reason for being."

Reader said as far as he could tell the Sisters would still technically retain title to both hospital and land.

"The title is to be put into the name of a new hospital society, not the name of the hospital board which will be paying for the land, and the Sisters will still be directors," said Reader.

* * *

"For the kind of money the hospital board is putting out for just land it seems to me they could buy land and put up a building in another part of the region," said Reader.

'I'm not talking about putting up the hospital in Colwood or Langford. There are open areas, clear of fumes, far closer to town that would be suitable.

"What is needed is enough acreage that these people would be able to sit out in some gardens and enjoy some fresh air if they were well enough. At St. Joseph's they would only be able to sit out in a parking lot."

* * *

Capital Region hospital board director Howard Elder said Saturday night he felt it would be a good idea if the board did have another look at locations.

"It's quite true that the patients have not been heard from yet," he said. "It's an aspect that should be considered before the final die is cast and we start building there."

He did not think such a reconsideration would hold up hospital projects.

"Approvals of all kinds are being held up once they get to the provincial level," said Elder. "There is a shortage of money, and the provincial government is using every excuse and every delay to avoid starting spending. Another look at this wouldn't hurt a bit."

Stiff Fine Revives B.C. Labor Gloom

Forest Men Back on Job

- World boycott of Canadian mail predicted if posties strike. Page 3.

BY DON COLLINS

The throb of life was returning quickly to the B.C. forest industry Monday with the end of the towboat strike, but there were warnings that more trouble may lie ahead.

A union source said there was considerable discontent over a $35,000 fine levied against the Canadian Merchant Service Guild Monday and that threat of further court action could disrupt delicate attempts to avoid a massive forest strike.

Another dark cloud formed over the B.C. labor horizon during the day when representatives of the plumbers' union walked out of marathon talks in Vancouver aimed at ending the construction lockout that began April 14. Four other unions are still involved in the talks.

The key unions that worked out strategy together during the merchant service guild's crippling towboat strike were reported planning a special meeting in Vancouver for Monday night or first thing today.

It was to entail what, if any, action to take in the face of what unionists see as a possible continued use of the courts by forest companies.

* * *

A union source said there had been an agreement to drop damage actions once the towboat strike was over.

But he said there were indications court actions would continue and added: "If this sort of thing continues it doesn't appear as if there can be meaningful talks between the IWA (Interna-

Reason Will Prevail—Bennett

An early solution to the construction industry dispute was predicted Monday by Premier Bennett. He also said "reason will prevail" to avoid a strike in the forest industry.

Bennett made the predictions in a conversation with federal Transport Minister Don Jamieson in Vancouver just before the opening of the Roberts Bank superport.

"There is a time for strikes and lockouts, but this isn't the time. This is a time for readjustment. It is a time for discussion around the bargaining table," the premier said.

Brazilian Prisoners Cheered in Algiers

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Forty Brazilian political prisoners arrived in Algeria Monday night aboard a chartered airliner to set the stage for the release of West German Ambassador Ehrenfried von Holleben, kidnapped in Rio de Janeiro Thursday.

A total of 44 persons emerged from the Brazilian Varig jetliner after it landed in Algiers. Four of them were the children of a terrorist known as Pavio who is being hunted by Brazilian police.

* * *

Von Holleben's kidnappers have promised to release the West German envoy after they receive proof the prisoners have arrived safely in Algeria.

Miguel Arraes, former governor of Pernambuco in Brazil and a refugee in Algiers for four years, told newsmen the group included 34 men, six women and the four children.

A final condition of the kidnappers was met Monday night when Rio television stations broadcast a photo of the prisoners arriving in Algiers.

* * *

The freed prisoners were given a welcome by officials from the Algerian foreign ministry and by an applauding crowd of political refugees from other countries who have found asylum in Algeria.

Algerian officials said the political refugees will be housed in homes in the hills overlooking Algiers. Those who wish to leave Algeria will be given travel documents, they said.

The departure of the prisoners from Rio on a silver-blue Varig airline Boeing 707 at 7:32 a.m. PDT, met the kidnappers' demands that the group — among them six women and some of Brazil's most wanted terrorists — be released within a 36-hour deadline.

Von Holleben was seized by terrorists in a daring raid near his residence but the government did not receive ransom demands until midnight Saturday.

* * *

Several hundred persons crowded the observation decks at the Galeao airport, including newsmen, relatives of the prisoners and detectives. Many of the relatives were tearful. No civilians were permitted near the aircraft. A government news agency photographer took pool photographs of the pris-

Wage-Brake Watchers Find NDP Watching

- Sharp says bank interest rates being probed. Page 10.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will investigate "allegations" that staff members of the prices and incomes commission were guaranteed a starting salary of 15 per cent over their former salaries and annual increases of more than 6 per cent, the Commons was told Monday.

New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas cited these figures and asked the government to look into the salaries of the commission—the government's vanguard in the fight on inflation.

The commission has recommended restriction of wage and salary increases to 6 per cent, and commission chairman John Young Sunday proposed the limit be dropped to 4 per cent.

Solicitor-General George McIlraith said he would be "glad to have the allegations looked into."

Prodded further by Douglas, the minister said he would try to give the answer to the Commons this week.

The chairman of the prices and incomes commission is paid between $37,000 and $40,000 a year. As a dean at the University of British Columbia before his federal appointment, he earned about $20,000 a year.

Inquiry Scorches NASA, Contractors

Apollo 13 Was Time Bomb

HOUSTON (UPI) — Negligence from the launch pad through the entire Apollo program and its contractors, along with poor design caused the explosion of an Apollo 13 oxygen tank near the moon, a space agency investigation board said Monday.

Board chairman Edgar Cortright blamed the space agency and two of its contractors for allowing substandard heater thermostat switches installed in the Apollo command ship.

* * *

He said failure of these switches started the chain of events leading to the explosion April 13.

"The position the board has taken is that the error is the fault of all parties that participated — NASA, North American Rockwell Corp. and Beech Aircraft Corp.," Cortright said.

* * *

Cortright also said failure of the switches during a practice countdown left Apollo 13 and its Saturn 5 rocket standing on the launch pad as a potential bomb for two weeks before blastoff on April 11.

Two days later Apollo 13's oxygen tank exploded 205,000 miles deep in space and prevented America's third moon landing. Astronauts James Lovell, Fred Haise and John Swigert battled for 87 hours in a harrowing trip around the moon and back to Earth.

Cortright, NASA's Langley research centre director, said his $1,200,000 investigation showed that Beech Aircraft of Boulder, Colo., manufacturer of the oxygen tank, failed to follow instructions to order upgraded switches for the tank during modifications to the Apollo command ship in 1965.

Fused switch

The switches were to have been altered to take 65 volts of direct current instead of 28 volts.

* * *

Neither the prime Apollo command ship contractor, North American Rockwell of Downey, Calif., nor the space agency caught the failure, Cortright said.

On March 27-28, during unusual severe efforts to empty the oxygen tank after a practice countdown at Cape Kennedy, 65 volts were applied to the switch and welded

$10 Million to Reflect 'Greatness of Canada'

Premier Bennett said Monday the major portion of a $10,000,000 federal gift to commemorate the centenary of B.C.'s entering Confederation will be used to finance a major project designed to "reflect the greatness of Canada."

The federal grant was announced by Prime Minister Trudeau at the opening of the Roberts Bank superport Monday. He told the assembled guests the gift will be a contribution by all Canadians to make a stronger nation.

Bennett later told reporters some of the federal money will be used to provide per capita grants to finance local centennial projects throughout the province.

Details Remain Secret

But he added a major portion of the gift from Ottawa would be used to finance a major centennial project. He said this would likely be a building but refused to say what kind.

It will not be a monument, he added, unless it is a "monument to service."

"It will not be a fountain, it will not be a theatre," Bennett said. "It is something I can't mention yet."

He said Deputy Provincial Secretary Lawrie Wallace has been delegated to work out the details of the project with Ottawa.

Slick flows downriver in Athabasca

Oil Flows 150 Miles into Lake Athabasca

Town's Water in Peril

FORT CHIPEWYAN, Alta. (CP) — Oil from a fractured pipeline has moved more than 150 miles into Lake Athabasca and threatens this community's water supply and its livelihood.

The synthetic crude from the Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. pipeline at Fort McMurray has travelled along the Athabasca River to the lake — the town's water source.

Great Canadian officials say water can be taken from below the surface oil, but biologists are not sure this would be safe.

* * *

They fear the emulsifying agent — this has been sprayed onto the lake — breaks the synthetic crude into small particles which sink to lower levels, but don't necessarily go to the bottom.

The community's reservoir when filled holds 8,000,000 gallons of water, enough for one year. Now, however, it contains only about two months supply.

Under normal conditions there would be no problems, but the oil slick has caused an emergency.

The Bennett Dam on the Peace River has caused the level of Lake Athabasca to drop and more pipe is needed to fill the reservoir.

Prior to the oil spill the town was in no hurry for new pipe but now it must have it quickly.

Another concern caused by the oil entering Lake Athabasca is for the young fishing industry, which was started by the largely-native community to replace the failing trapping industry.

* * *

The oil could injure major fish-spawning areas in the east end of the lake.

Biologists fear the thin film

Sherlock Holmes Kits at $11.75

By BILL THOMAS

Sitting at home with the catalogue mulling over what to do with no down payment and easy terms has been a great Canadian occupation for years, but the way the delegates to a convention at the University of Victoria go about it makes pretty scary reading.

Delegates to the International Association of College and University Security Directors convention, which goes until Friday, have some choice items being offered by manufacturers — including machine-guns, grenades and tear gas bombs.

Here are a few of the handy items offered for sale by mail or from the manufacturers' representatives at the UVic convention.

* * *

● Shock batons run from $24.95 to $38.95, depending on size. "Ideal for prisoner and inmate control in penal and mental institutions, for use by policemen on the beat, plant security forces and general law enforcement use. The Shok Baton can be used as a conventional police billy as it is built to 'take it.' However, the mild electric shock delivered as a powerful psychological effect on the recipient who normally will not want a second treatment."

● Billy clubs bring out some of the best poetic traits in the law enforcement industrialist. "Attractive, turned beading fits snugly into hand." The model KE is 24 inches long and "attractively designed for special occasions." Riot batons come weighted with "28 ounces of lead" in each end. The model KF is "stubby, well-balanced club made of natural hickory. It is very popular with armed forces personnel."

* * *

● Hand guns take up several pages in one catalogue but the campus policeman can also order from a selection of machine-guns. There is the Smith and Wesson machine pistol at $73.45. Old military men will probably feel more at home with the .30 calibre used in the Second World War and in Korea. It goes for $79.50. A newer model is the W3 Enforcer. This is a 30-calibre gas operated semi-automatic. Finished in walnut it costs $92.50.

● Don't tangle with the campus cop. The velvet glove may in fact be the Model 990 Sap glove. "Sap gloves give weight to your authority, are instantly available in case of trouble and are a fine, unobvious defensive weapon. Each glove contains six ounces of powdered lead built into the knuckles or palm. Gloves are top quality of soft, pliable, long-wearing deerskin. Black only. Specify: Palm Sap or Knuckle Sap; sizes are 8. 9. 10, 11. Sap Gloves . . . $12.95."

* * *

● Still there is a touch of nostalgia about the crimebusters book of goodies. Fingerprint men can gain assurance they have the best with the Sherlock Holmes Kit No. 156L at $11.75. "A handy six-vial kit, for the investigating officer to develop latent prints. The kit can be carried in a coat pocket. Neat and professional-looking."

Ratio Rapped

'Need More Teachers'

Greater Victoria school board was criticized Monday night for putting too many teachers in offices and not enough in its classrooms, which rank among B.C.'s most crowded.

Trustee Allan McKinnon made the comment while trying to oppose a counselling pilot project initiated by school board officials that will cost roughly $40,000 in salaries.

It was McKinnon's second attempt to get the board to vote for or against the project, which will now probably take place with no formal acceptance by the board.

* * *

McKinnon pointed out that Greater Victoria's elementary classrooms, by latest count, are fourth worst in the province in pupil-teacher ratio. Another statistic, said McKinnon, shows that 40 per cent of the classrooms have between 35 and 39 pupils, making the district third worst out of B.C.'s 82 in that category.

Without naming the other project, McKinnon said the district is now engaged in two projects costing $100,000 in salaries without improving the pupil-teacher ratio.

"We need more teachers in classrooms and fewer in offices," he said.

No other trustees would comment on McKinnon's point except to tell him his discussion was out of order. He took the opportunity of reviving the complaint he had first raised last month when the board was called on to approve staff changes.

Trustee Dr. Victor Rogers voted with McKinnon against approval of the staff changes, but made no comment.

Two of the staff changes were men on leave from the district, due to be rehired and to take positions as counsellors in the pilot project that for the first time will include homes and elementary schools as areas for problem counselling.

McKinnon said he regretted objecting where individuals were concerned, pointing out he was only opposed to the project being initiated without approval from the board.

Following the board meeting Monday night, the district's information officer, Bill Stavdal, told the Colonist the school administration's legal position in initiating the project was sound.

* * *

Stavdal said that following McKinnon's earlier objections, schools superintendent A. J. Longmore solicited the opinion of a lawyer, who apparently told the board at another meeting the district was acting within its jurisdiction.

The first time McKinnon objected was May 19, at which time special education director Ted Callbeck interrupted McKinnon, saying he should keep out of educational matters and stick to policy.

Activity-Room Chop Brings Third Uproar

An activity room, lopped from a construction project at Cedar Hill-Braefoot schools, has prompted this year's third attempt by parents to use public opinion to break the government's slowdown on school construction.

In their enthusiasm to back a delegation of parents at Monday night's Greater Victoria school board meeting, trustees nearly put the Braefoot activity room on a higher priority than Victoria West's "first priority" building program.

Apparently unconvinced of Education Minister Donald Brothers' sympathy after a meeting with him earlier this month, Braefoot-Cedar Hill parents demanded "top priority" Monday night before the school board.

* * *

The board was told the Cedar Hill and Braefoot schools have 11 separate structures which include eight annexes, and the area has not had an activity room (gymnasium) in 107 years.

Trustee Harold Knight presented the board with a motion that would have granted the delegation "top priority" but trustee Allan McKinnon, who has championed Vic West's cause, said he would oppose the motion if it watered down Vic West's position as the board's oft-stated first priority.

However, the problem was resolved after the Braefoot-Cedar Hill project was given top priority for schools actually under construction.

The project, which will replace the portable and other structures that make up Cedar Hill and Braefoot elementary schools, was approved last Aug. 15, including the activity room, but following the government's slowdown announcement last fall, the activity room was cut from the contract.

The Colonist learned that Cedar Hill-Braefoot parents had been trying behind the scenes to get the activity room put back into the building project but decided to make their cause public after getting no satisfaction from Brothers.

In the brief presented to Brothers, they said to him: "It is not our wish to leave you empty-handed. It is not our intention to return to our children empty-handed, as so often in the past."

* * *

Trustee Peter Bunn, speaking to the delegation's point, said it was a "singly despicable situation" that the activity room shuld be approved for construction Aug. 15 and then cut on "Aug. 27" (meaning election day).

The original cost of the whole project was to be $469,986, rejected by the provincial treasury board because of the activity room. With the latter cut, the project cost was reduced to $386,571.

In other business, the board was given approval to have trustees elected at large in the next election in December. This was approved by the board earlier and provincial agreement was expected.

More Beds 'Good Sense'

● Architects may double plans. Page 18.

Oak Bay MLA Scott Wallace said Monday night his proposal to increase the Gorge Road extended-care addition to 300 beds from the planned 150 beds would delay the entire project by no more than three months.

In an interview after speaking to a Victoria Rotary Club meeting, Wallace said: "We would simply put an exact duplicate of the present plans on top of the ground floor. Instead of one floor, we would end up with two storeys.

"If a three-month delay can produce 300 beds instead of 150, it surely makes good sense. It gets us more beds faster."

* * *

Wallace devoted most of his talk to the club to refuting an editorial last Thursday in the Victoria Daily Times which criticized further delay in construction of new hospital facilities.

He also told the meeting he thought the Capital Region hospital board deserved an apology.

Wallace said the press had emphasized lack of co-operation and disorganization within the board when the board, formed in 1967, was still in the process of discovering its purpose.

* * *

With the addition of any new level of government, Wallace said, one gets another level of delay. At present, instead of going directly to the provincial government, a hospital with building plans goes to the Regional Board, which goes to the provincial government.

The man with the power, he said, is still the B.C. health minister.

"You can cut hospital costs — as the present government is doing — and get inferior care, or you can accept the inevitable, that better care will cost money," Wallace said.

"Here policital expediency has to go out the window."

Hearing Slated for September

'Hydro Bar Needs Mass Action'

A Saanich alderman suggested Monday night that a "massive public outpouring" will be necessary to stop B.C. Hydro developing a service centre at Quadra and Beckwith.

The public hearing at which Hydro's plans will be discussed, said Ald. Alan Newberry at Monday's council meeting, will be the most important of its kind in Saanich this year.

Signs that the hearing is in the process of turning into some kind of demonstration repeatedly emerged during the meeting as aldermen decided the hearing should be held in September.

* * *

The hearing is to allow an expression of public opinion, and will not bind B.C. Hydro.

Acting Mayor Leslie Passmore reported that he had telephone calls from nearby residents who saw a "blue truck" on the site that Hydro, according to law, does not have to have rezoned by the municipality.

A Hydro spokesman said later that there was actually no cause for such an uproar — if it were one of Hydro's blue trucks, it probably was only checking to see if the grass should be cut.

Ald. Foster Isherwood said he didn't want to rip Hydro's service centre plans to shreds without being able to offer the crown authority an alternate site.

By the time the hearing occurred, he hoped Saanich would have some alternatives.

However, he pointed out to council that the municipality's arsenal was not yet empty — it still had to adjudicate the building permit and decide whether to connect Hydro to the municipal water supply.

* * *

On Isherwood's suggestion, Saanich will tell Hydro in a letter that the hearing will be held in September and it hopes "nothing will transpire until that time."

Passmore also reported that he had spent a full morning going through the files of the municipal planning department to see whether there was ever a letter to Hydro that endorsed the Quadra-Beckwith proposal. He didn't find one.

This was to check out a suggestion by John Tisdalle, Social Credit MLA for Saanich and the Islands, that Saanich had approved the service centre that is being fought by about 90 nearby residents.

In any case, the alderman said it didn't matter whether an employee had said "yes" to Hydro because council had the final word.

Central Saanich May Hire Septic Tank Rule Enforcer

Strict enforcement of septic tank regulations is in the offing for Central Saanich.

Mayor Archibald Galbraith said he expects the municipality will have to pay the cost of at least one additional health inspector to define the problem.

Council has written to the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Health Board, asking how it can help deal with the problem of pollution in the ditches.

Mayor Galbraith said there is already one health inspector working in the municipality and if another is required, Central Saanich will have to foot the bill.

Concerned with the health problem in the unsewered area, council is also calling for a meeting of all authorities — provincial, regional and health board—to discuss possible action to clean up ditches.

Monday night's council meeting started nearly two hours late as council and about 15 spectators discussed the aftermath of the June 6 sewer system referendum, defeated for the second time.

Discussion was sparked by a letter from the Save Central Saanich Committee offering to help council in planning and pollution control.

The committee was instrumental in organizing opposition to the referendum.

Alderman Percy Lazarz, W. E. Clayards and K. E. Stanlake referred to statements made by the committee before the referendum and suggested that council would do well to use care in dealing with it.

"We must know the people we are dealing with," said Ald Lazarz.

"We have been subject to threats and incendiary statements," said Ald. Stanlake. "We should be very careful about the people we have on our commitees."

Committee member Mrs. Pat Grove was told council is forming an advisory planning committee. She was asked to submit a list of members of her Save Central Saanich Committee and also to suggest members for the planning committee.

In other business, council referred to the health board, a letter complaining about the conditions under which animals are kept at Island View Wildlife Research Centre.

Doreen E. Cuthbert said facilities seemed very inadequate. She also wondered if the centre should be so close to a public beach.

Thieves Take Costly Items

Four items worth a total of $1,839 were stolen during the weekend from the Stereo World shop at 1321 Quadra, Victoria police disclosed Monday. The items were a $950 stereo receiver, two speakers worth a total of $590 and a $299 turntable.

Esquimalt Harbor

'Canada's Most Polluted'

Esquimalt Harbor is polluted almost 100 per cent in some areas, Esquimalt council was told Monday night.

"The coliform counts shows it to be pretty bad," Ald. Walter Lock said and explained that raw sewage is being dumped into the harbor from ships.

"I understand that Japanese ships use either holding tanks or shore facilities when they are in harbor," he told council, and suggested that an investigation should be made to see if a similar remedy could not be put into effect at HMC Dockyard.

"We are the most fully polluted harbor in Canada, and you don't have to be an engineer to see it," Ald Ed Costa said.

"The federal government should clean up its own backyard," he added.

Ald. Arthur Mebs pointed out it would not do any good for the seamen to use the shore facilities in dockyard because they also empty into the harbor.

Both he and De Costa strongly suggested council have the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Health Board approach the federal government to have the harbor cleaned up.

Esquimalt's municipal engineer told council that the dockyard has a collection system designed and a pumping station will be located near the main gate which will force the sewage into the regional sewer line when it is installed.

He noted that the dockyard engineers have not the authority to spend the amount of money needed to build their system.

He said the cost for the sewerlines running from the dockyard gate to the regional trunkline would be about $100,000 and for the system inside the dockyard an additional $70,000 or $80,000 would be needed.

This amount of money would have to come from Ottawa.

Council decided to wait until it hears about the funds from Ottawa before taking further action.
